JURY SEALS FATE OF KELLYS

PAY TO LEADERS OF MOVIE WORLD STIRS PRESIDENT

Told of Salaries Far Greater than His.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—President Roosevelt disclosed today just how seriously he is taking the job of head new dealer in ushering in the new social order.

He has been setting an example, it appears, to the NRA levelers who are engaged in the undertaking of raising the pay of the "little fellow" and paring down the pay and profits of the "big fellow."

Mr. Roosevelt is an omnivorous reader of the newspapers, from which and from the average of 3,800 letters he receives daily he is learning how to function as the great white father of his people in the regulation of all their affairs.

Learns Movie Makers' Pay.

When the President read what enormous salaries certain juvenile actors in the movies are receiving he boiled over with indignation and pushed the button for his stenographer. But when he read on and learned that certain moving picture production directors are receiving salaries from four to eight times the salary of the President of the United States, Mr. Roosevelt waxed fairly apoplectic. He got the choleric Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson on the telephone instanter. The President desired Gen. Johnson to get busy at once and find out whether those colossal movie salaries are "conscionable," as Mr. Roosevelt put it, and to do whatever might be necessary in the way of leveling. Gen. Johnson got busy. He told Sol A. Rosenblatt, NRA movie administrator, to look into salaries. The code revisions now provide for blacklisting contract breaking actors and boycotting producers who violate the code.

Hits Rail Chiefs' Pay.

This is not the first time, it transpires, that the President has interposed as head leveler to scale down the high salaries which have been paid in industry before the advent of the new deal. He had a good deal to do with the deflation of the salaries paid the presidents of railroads which Federal Coordinator Eastman caused to be reduced.

Some of the railroad presidents, notably Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, evinced considerable reluctance to take a cut. Gen. Atterbury furthermore was not very enthusiastic over the NRA. About that time it was pointed out more or less publicly that whenever he traveled north or west the President invariably took the B. & O.—never the Pennsylvania.

Of course, it may have been only a coincidence — undoubtedly was — but shortly thereafter Gen. Atterbury cut his salary and also came out with a boost for the NRA. And the next time the President went to New York he traveled on the Pennsylvania.

Intends to Level Salaries.

Mr. Roosevelt never was more serious about anything than about the leveling of big salaries. In fact, it is understood that he regards the present compensation of the President—$75,000 salary and $25,000 travel and entertainment allowance—entirely too high for the era of the new deal.

Of course, the size of salaries to be permitted under the new deal is only a small part of the concern of the President as great white father of his people. He keeps his eye on prices, too. Some are too low and some are too high, and he acts accordingly. He has been raising heaven and earth to get most prices up and keep them up, it being a fundamental doctrine of the new deal that raising prices raises purchasing power and raising purchasing power restores prosperity.

Calls Rail Prices Too High.

When it came to the prices of steel rails, however, the President pronounced them entirely too high. He was ready to loan millions of dollars to the railroads to buy steel rails, but not at current prices. He got the iron masters into his office and told them they would have to lower their prices if the railroads were to be furnished the funds to buy their wares.

It was a bitter pill for the iron masters after accepting a code reducing working hours and raising wages which increased their production costs to be told that they could not charge the same prices, let alone raising them, as other manufacturers were doing with the blessing of the NRA.

MAYO PREDICTS DEATH RAY TO KILL BACTERIA

Famous Surgeons Heard by 10,000.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The world will soon see the development of a death ray devoted not to the destruction of man upon the battlefield of war but to his preservation in the battle of health, Dr. Charles H. Mayo declared last night.

He was one of nearly a dozen eminent surgeons who spoke at the community health meeting arranged at the Chicago Stadium by the American College of Surgeons. The meeting drew an attendance of more than 10,000, which, its sponsors pointed out proudly, was the largest group in the history of the city to gather in the interests of health.

Earlier in the day hopeful statistics regarding cancer were presented by Dr. Franklin Martin and other surgeons.

Electric Charges in Bacteria.

"We know that bacteria carry negative electrical charges," said Dr. Mayo in his evening address in the Stadium, "and that they have wave lengths according to their activity, for when we place them under a microscope in a fluid in which they can move freely they are attracted to a positive electrical pole, and we can measure their speed. The highest speed is that of the bacteria attacking the brain and nervous system.

"After the late war we read a great deal about the death ray which in future conflicts would destroy armies and sink battleships. Of course, that is one of those things we shan't believe until we see it. But we will soon make greater use of this knowledge which we have of the electrical activity of bacteria by learning to destroy them with opposing death-dealing wave lengths of radium, X-ray or various forms of electric waves developed for this purpose."

A Lesson from Bees.

Humanity will learn another great lesson from the bees, Dr. Mayo said, when it discovers how, by a special diet, they develop their queen bee from an egg cell identical with those which produce workers. That knowledge will be an important step on the road to control of growth. Much of this control can be accomplished, he said, by accelerating or depressing the glands and nerves which actuate the hormones, physiological spark plugs which circulate through the body.

"We may confidently expect that science will reveal the nature of life, and with it the physical nature of mind and personality," said Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, who concluded a description of the advances of medicine in the last century with some predictions as to its future.

Life's Secrets Unfolding.

"These expectations are based on the achievements of chemistry and physics. The biochemist has been able to construct many of the compounds of which the body is made, and surely the end is not yet. The biophysicist has already identified the energy that organizes and drives things, and he has found that the body conforms to physical laws as closely as does an internal combustion engine.

"But it will be a long and difficult task for the chemist and physicist and the worker in the medical sciences to reproduce the infinitely delicate balance between energy and form which endows the now living with the attributes of beauty and movement, and growth, and reproduction, and memory, and ends in unbalance with resultant death and disintegration."

Repeat Plea to See Doctor Early.

If there has been a single connecting note for all of the diverse discussion of the surgeons during their present week in Chicago, it has been the reiterated plea to laymen to make fuller use of the improved knowledge of medicine and surgery by consulting their physicians more regularly and before they are forced to by disease.

Dr. C. Jeff Miller of New Orleans sounded that note again in his discussion of the care of prospective mothers. The United States he pointed out, has a higher maternity death rate than nearly any other civilized country. Some 20,000 mothers die each year in childbirth.

"There are many reasons for this, said Dr. Miller, "but most of these deaths are due to the belief of so many women that childbearing is a natural function. Usually it is, but complications often arise and convert it tragically into a pathological phenomenon. Physicians are not responsible for a majority of these fatalities because they are not given time to prevent them."

WISCONSIN 'U' PERMITS SALE OF BEER ON CAMPUS

Madison, Wis., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—University of Wisconsin regents today voted to permit sale of 3.2 beer in the Memorial Union building and refectory of the men's dormitories. Both places will be required to obtain tavern licenses.

Before prohibition sale of beer and hard liquors was forbidden on the university campus and in all parts of Madison within a half mile of university property. Following the vote of approval, Regent George W. Mead, Wisconsin Rapids, who for years has been a militant dry, explained "it's nonintoxicating."

Regents also voted to reopen the question of university faculty salary waivers and referred the subject to an executive committee. Regent Harold M. Wilkie, Madison, has contended the proposed waiver plan places too much of a hardship upon staff members receiving small salaries.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A golden eagle was caught with a fish line near here yesterday by Everett Latta of Crookston. Latta was fishing when the eagle alighted near him. Casting, he caught his hook in the eagle's wing; the bird flew to a tree, from which Latta knocked it down with a chunk of dirt, and then strangled it with the fish line.

One State Has Plan Laid for Liquor Sales

Helena, Mont., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Montana believes it has the answer to "after repeal—what?"

Through the action of the 1933 legislature, Montana will answer the question perplexing many states with its own system of liquor supply stores.

Gov. Frank H. Cooney and other state officials, have expressed the belief it will end organized bootlegging, and will preclude the return of the saloon of pre-prohibition days.

With only three more states needed to delete the prohibitory amendment from the constitution, Montana is in readiness t begin the legal dispensation of liquors through stores in each county seat and in such other places as may seem expedient.

Protects Dry Communities.

The act contains protective features for those communities desiring to bar the sale of liquor through a local option provision whereby one-third of the qualified voters may petition their county commissioners to call a special election to settle the issue.

Other salient features of the Montana control act are:

The state shall have a monopoly in the sale of liquor. Beer is not classed as an intoxicating liquor. All profits shall go into the state treasury.

All activities of the state liquor business will be in the hands of the state board of liquor control, consisting of the governor, the secretary of state, and the attorney general. They will receive no extra compensation for their work as board members.

The liquor stores will be in charge of a supervisor who will be paid a fixed salary.

Permits Are Required.

The stores will be open for business from noon until 8 p. m. every day except Sunday, legal holidays and election days.

No liquor shall be sold to any one unless a permit is presented. The permits shall cost $2 annually and will expire Dec. 31 of each year. For 50 cents, persons visiting in the state will be allowed to obtain permits good for one month.

Liquor may be consumed only in the residence of a purchaser, and it will be unlawful either to drink or be drunk in any public place, or for any one to sell liquor to an intoxicated person.

Liquor will be sold only in the original bottle containers and not in barrels or in bulk.

The state board of liquor control has the right to fix the maximum amount of liquor that may be purchased by any individual.

SETS TRAP GUN, CATCHES WIFE AT TROUSERS POCKET

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—C. Jerome O'Brien, wealthy contractor, suing for a partial divorce, told Judge O'Dunne in Circuit court today that he had caught his wife plundering his trousers of loose change. After that they lived apart—though under the same roof—ever after, he said.

He had trapped her, he said, with a little patented device containing a paper firecracker that went off with the noise of a .22 caliber pistol "every time his pocketbook was touched."

Judge O'Dunne examined the wife trap, which consists of a tiny tin box with spring and firecracker. Then he asked:

"Is this a new invention to catch wives?"

GUNMAN ON BIKE HOLDS UP WOMAN AND PEDALS AWAY

A robber riding a bicycle held up Mrs. E. M. McFarland, 65 years old, in Oak Park last night. She was on the way to her home at 237 South Euclid avenue when, at Randolph street and East avenue, a blue shirted youth about 18 years old pedaled up to her, got off the bicycle, and thrust a revolver at her. He took $2 from her purse, then mounted the bicycle and pedaled away.

Slayer Sentenced to Life Term Day After Crime

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP)—George Weimer, 39, was sentenced to life imprisonment in Marquette prison today by Circuit Judge George W. Sample on his plea of guilty to a murder charge for slaying John Reinhart, aged recluse, in an attempted robbery yesterday. Brent Dunn, from whom Prosecutor Albert J. Rapp said he had obtained a confession to the same crime, pleaded not guilty. The judge stipulated that Weimer should serve his sentence at hard labor and be kept in solitary confinement.

Cicero High School Youth Killed by Motor Fumes

Ernest Vlach, 16 years old, a sophomore at the J. Sterling Morton High school, was found dead yesterday in the garage in the rear of his home at 2621 South 59th avenue, Cicero, a victim of carbon monoxide gas. The hood of the car was open and the motor was still running when he was found by his mother, Mrs. Mary Vlach. He was lying on the floor at the rear of the automobile. Police believe that he was accidentally overcome while tinkering with the motor.

U. S. to Retire Fourth Issue Liberty Bonds

Look at Your 'Libertys'

Have you any Fourth Liberty bonds of series A, J, or K? All of these three series are called for payment or to be turned in for new United States 12 year bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The federal treasury today launched its most titanic financial undertaking since the war, embarking on a program of refunding and borrowing which at its maximum may involve more than six and a half billion dollars.

Three phases go to make up the mammoth program which Acting Secretary of the Treasury Dean G. Acheson announced today and which the treasury hopes to push through to completion within a few days.

Details of Plan.

The first move was the calling today, effective April 15, 1934, of 1 billion 825 million dollars' worth of the fourth Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds, largest of the wartime loans and the only one still outstanding and unconverted.

Second phase in the treasury's program was an offer to refund the remaining 4 billion 443 million dollars' worth of the fourth Liberty bonds still outstanding.

The treasury's third move was to endeavor to borrow an additional 500 million dollars for operating expenses.

All of this refinancing and borrowing the treasury is attempting to do through issuance of bonds bearing 4¼ per cent interest for the first year and 3¼ per cent thereafter, Acheson announced. The new bonds mature in twelve years.

Exchanged at Par.

In the refunding the treasury will exchange the new bonds for the outstanding Liberty bonds, which bear interest at 4¼ per cent, at par, according to Acheson. In addition the treasury is offering to sell 500 million dollars' worth of the new bonds to cash purchasers at 101¼, or $1.25 above par.

Behind the calling of approximately a third of the huge fourth Liberty loan and the offer to refinance the remaining two-thirds is an attempt to save at least 19 million dollars a year on government interest charges beginning in 1934.

The 1 billion 825 million dollars' worth of bonds which Acheson called today by drawing their numbers from a pool will cease to bear interest after April 15, 1934. Their holders will either offer to exchange them for the new bonds now being issued or present them next April for cash, Acheson explained.

18 to 19 Millions Saving.

In either case the treasury will have retired Liberty bonds calling for 4¼ per cent interest and replaced them directly or indirectly with the new bonds which after their first year bear interest at only 3¼ per cent, a saving of 1 per cent, or between 18 and 19 million dollars a year.

If holders of fourth Liberty bonds other than those called also choose to take advantage of the treasury's conversion offer the saving on interest will be even larger. Other bonds, however, continue to bear interest until they are called or mature in 1938 unless exchanged.

The bonds which Acheson called today were permanent coupon bonds in series A with serial numbers ending in 1, those in series K with serial numbers ending in 0, and those in series J with numbers ending in 9.

As the serial letters on bonds of this type always conform to the last digit in the serial number, treasury officials explained, the call includes all outstanding permanent coupon bonds of the fourth Liberty loan, series A, K, and J.

In addition the call included all out-

REACH VERDICT WITHIN AN HOUR; OPEN IT TODAY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A sealed verdict tonight held the fate of George [Machine Gun] Kelly and his comely wife, Kathryn, accused of conspiracy in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy oil man.

The verdict, reached by a federal jury in just one hour of deliberation, was sealed shortly before 9 p. m. It will be delivered to Judge Edgar S. Vaught at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Judge Vaught closed the brisk three-day trial with terse instructions which Kelly's attorney, James H. Mathers, said "virtually amounted to an instructed verdict of guilty."

Woman's Counsel Without Hope.

"There is no doubt about the verdict after those instructions," said John V. Roberts, attorney for Kathryn, who was on the stand nearly all day in a tearful fight for acquittal.

Kelly himself had nothing upon which to base a hope for acquittal, as his wife and own attorneys sought to shift the entire blame for the kidnaping upon him and others already convicted and sentenced and pictured Kathryn as a participant through fear of her husband.

Judge Attacks Her Story.

"The court would feel it had been cowardly and derelict in duty if it had not pointed out this conviction—that the defendant Kathryn was not wholly truthful," Judge Vaught said.

"This court will not hesitate to tell you that Kathryn Kelly's testimony concerning her removal of the little girls from the Shannon farm near Paradise, Tex., the day Mr. Urschel was brought there did not sound convincing," said Judge Vaught.

The jurors leaned forward and listened more closely.

"Her conduct at the Coleman farm near Stratford, Okla., not only is a strong circumstantial point but is convincing to this court that Kathryn knew about the kidnaping and knowingly participated. Other testimony from this defendant is utterly convincing to this court that Kathryn Kelly had criminal knowledge of the abduction conspiracy.

"However, you can ignore my remarks altogether. They are not binding upon the jury."

Takes Girls from Farm.

Kathryn had taken her daughter by a former marriage, Pauline Frye, 15, and Ruth Shannon, 14, daughter of R. G. Shannon, to her Fort Worth apartment from the Shannon farm, explaining she wanted them "for company," and had told that she left the farm of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Coleman, at Stratford, Okla., the morning after Urschel was brought there "because I wanted to go home and get my father to a hospital for an operation."

The trial consumed just three days. Its forerunner of Sept. 18, in which seven persons were convicted and sentenced, four to life imprisonment, required two weeks.

Brief arguments of counsel today were climaxed by the appeal of Herbert K. Hyde, district attorney, for a conviction.

Prosecutor Thrusts at Her.

"How can you believe that this was the demure, loving, and fearful wife she pretends to be after hearing that she roamed the country like a millionaire's daughter or wife buying machine guns?" Hyde thundered.

"This sweet smelling geranium," he continued, "do you think she schemed with George and others under threats? I tell you she was the arch conspirator!"

Hyde's attack was leveled at the woman alone.

The geranium gibe was directed at the general tone of her testimony today. Crying softly, she had declared that when Kelly threatened to kill Urschel during his captivity on a Texas farm, she said:

"If you do I'll tell on you, even if you kill me."

Confident at the Start.

She was completely at ease when she walked to the witness chair, wearing a stylish black dress, crossed her knees and started her story at the Stratford, Okla., home of her grandmother, Mrs. Coleman.

There, she said, she had her first inkling of the kidnaping when Kelly awoke her with a flashlight at 4:30 a. m. on July 23, about five hours after the abduction, and told her before Mrs. Coleman forced him to leave:

"We got a kidnaped man outside."

When later she "learned what was going on" at the Paradise, Tex., ranch of her mother, Mrs. Ora Shannon, and her stepfather, R. G. Shannon, where Urschel finally was hidden, she related:

"I talked to Kelly there by the little house. He said they had a kidnaped man there.

"I begged him to please release him.

"He said it was none of my business. He threatened me.

"He said they were going to kill him [Urschel]. I begged him not to."

Tells Story of Flight.

She described Kelly's flight, with the "borrowed" 12-year old Geraldine Arnold, as a "shield" until they reached Memphis and Geraldine went home to her parents in Oklahoma City and told officers all they needed to know to trap the Kellys in their Memphis hideaway.

Of the burial of $73,250 in ransom money, later found by federal agents on the Coleman, Tex., farm of her uncle, Cass Coleman, Kathryn said she knew nothing, except that she was there and Kelly and Coleman "were gone a long time. I don't know where they went."

She remembered, however, that in Minneapolis, when Kelly "had a lot of money out on the bed. He asked me if I'd ever seen $100,000 before."

Denies Writing Threats.

Hotly she cried, "I did not," when her attorney asked if she had written two letters, airmailed from Chicago during the first trial, threatening Urschel and others. "The signature," she said, "is Mr. Kelly's." A handwriting expert, called by the government, had testified the handwriting was Kathryn's.

Cross examined by Joseph B. Keenan, U. S. attorney general, she told of four marriages, beginning at the age of 15; her association with doubtful characters; her romance with Kelly and her own arrest and conviction for robbery, later thrown out of court on appeal. The jury was told to disregard the latter as evidence, since there was no final conviction. At the time Kathryn was a manicurist here.

Kelly's Character Discussed.

"I thought he would sell whisky," she said, "but I didn't know he would kidnap a man."

To Keenan's questions she said she still loved Kelly, but didn't believe in him any more. Keenan referred to her tears, adding:

"You weren't crying of 'worried when you got all this ransom and when you later sent your mother $1,500 and paid the balance on your fine 16 cylinder car, were you?"

The reply was inaudible.

As he questioned Kathryn about the Kellys' movements just after Urschel was freed, Keenan asked:

"But Mrs. Kelly, you could have surrendered at any time, couldn't you?"

Drug Store Patron Shot Trying to Seize Robber

H. B. Lighty, 36 years old, 7926 Champlain avenue, was hit by eleven shot gun pellets last night when he tried to stop three bandits in Louis H. Rickelman's drug store at 635 East 79th street. The gunmen had robbed Rickelman of $150 and Dr. J. H. Nusbaum, 7950 Calumet avenue, of $9. As they were leaving, Lighty, a patron, entered the store. He grabbed at the man nearest him. The latter fired one shot, part of the charge entering his knee.

COURT AWARDS BUBS QUINLAN'S VICTIM $20,000

Gangster Responsible for Accident, Judge Rules.

Damages totaling $20,000 were awarded yesterday in Superior court to Mrs. Julia Borkovec, 45 years old, 1124 West Marquette road, in her two suits against Michael "Bubs" Quinlan, south side racketeer, whose automobile struck Mrs. Borkovec and her husband, James, in January, 1932, killed Borkovec and crippled Mrs. Borkovec for life.

Mrs. Borkovec had asked $25,000 damages for the injuries to herself and $10,000 for the death of her husband, the maximum amount which can be asked under a death claim. Superior Judge James J. Kelly, who heard the evidence without a jury, granted her $15,000 on the first claim and $5,000 on the second.

Case Forgotten for 18 Months.

It was recently discovered that the inquest into Borkovec's death had been indefinitely continued, the files lost in the coroner's office, and the case apparently forgotten for 18 months until investigation revealed the facts in the case. Coroner Walsh then ordered reopening of the inquest and Quinlan was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter a week ago.

Mrs. Borkovec entered court, hobbling on a cane and with her left leg in a steel brace. She testified that on Jan. 14, 1932, she was standing on a safety island at 65th street and Ashland avenue with her husband. She remembered nothing further, she said, until she woke up in a hospital.

Dr. Henry Hoffman, 6254 South Ashland avenue, testified that Mrs. Borkovec had suffered a two inch shortening of her leg and was permanently crippled.

Witnesses described the accident, relating how Quinlan, who was said to have been intoxicated, plowed into the couple on the safety island and skidded on the wet street for 75 feet.

Holds Defendant Responsible.

Quinlan, who gave his address as 319 East 79th street, declared that the couple were not standing on the safety island and that the accident was unavoidable.

"The evidence here discloses sheer negligence and an utter indifference on the defendant's part," ruled Judge Kelly. "I am not deciding this case on the basis of the coroner's verdict. The defendant is clearly responsible for the accident."

The court overruled motions for a new trial and an arrest of judgment. Both findings carry a malice count under which Quinlan may be put in jail if he does not pay the damages. His attorneys would not state whether they would appeal.

Ex-Gov. Emmerson Witness for Ernest Stevens in Trial

Reputation is to play a large part in the defense of Ernest J. Stevens, who is on trial before Judge Michael Feinberg for embezzlement of $1,600,000 from the funds of the Illinois Life Insurance company.

This was indicated yesterday when former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson led a long string of character witnesses in defense of Stevens, who formerly was vice president of the insurance company, after Judge Feinberg had refused to direct a verdict of acquittal as asked by the defense. The plea of the defense for a directed verdict was based on the contention that the evidence presented by the state did not conform to the allegations in the indictment and that the key matter in the case, the insolvency of the Stevens hotel in 1931, had not been proved.

Mr. Emmerson said that he had known Stevens for 23 years and that his reputation for honesty and integrity was "very good." Other witnesses will follow today with the same kind of testimony. The defendant himself also is expected to take the witness stand today.

Defense Presents Case.

That the defendant and other members of his family who controlled the funds of the insurance company had a reasonable expectation of profit in their investment of more than four and a half millions of insurance company money in the hotel prior to and during 1931 was emphasized by the defense as Attorney Franklin Stransky began to present the defense case to the jury yesterday.

The first move was to get from Leonard Hicks, managing director of the Morrison hotel, the expert opinion that a hotel such as the Stevens could not be expected to pay during the first four or five years. He also testified that the repeal of the prohibition law and the sale of liquor by the Stevens hotel probably would add a quarter of a million dollars a year to its income. Mr. Hicks, incidentally, is a member of the governor's liquor commission. He said he expected liquor would be sold by hotels much as in the days before prohibition. He did not expect that anything like the Ontario plan of government liquor stores would be carried out in this country.

Frank E. Long, an architect, testified for the defense that the Stevens hotel was a long term scientific investment, and that it had a profitable life ahead of it for 75 years.

Testify on Hotel Assets.

Price Waterhouse accountants, using the hotel book as evidence, testified that on Dec. 31, 1931, the accounts showed an excess of assets over liabilities of $3,722,366. This was about the time of the transactions which the state had charged constitute embezzlement. The cash on hand at the end of this critical year was $159,703. The land was valued in the books at $6,726,132, although the valuation given by the state expert witness was $2,770,000. The building was valued by the hotel at $20,842,750. This made a total valuation of $28,396,090, against liabilities of $24,673,723.

Another defense witness, J. M. Fitzimmons, office manager for the City Company of New York, testified that this concern, the former National City company, headed a syndicate which financed $13,000,000 of the serial A bonds of the Stevens hotel.

Judge Explains Ruling.

In denying the defense motion for a directed verdict Judge Feinberg said that a vice president of a company has a duty to preserve the funds of the company, "and if he knowingly, with others, enters into a scheme or transaction by which the funds of the company are fraudulently converted, he may, as a matter of law, be guilty of the embezzlement of the funds by virtue of his office as vice president, although the transaction in question is performed under the rôle or cloak of some other capacity or connection with the company."

On the issue of the insolvency of the Stevens hotel the court held that ability to meet obligations as they fall due in the general course of business in a trading corporation means the ability to meet such obligations in a lawful way, either from funds on hand or with credit legally obtained.

Louis Alterie, once known as Two Gun Louis in gangland circles, and four colored men were arrested yesterday in a raid by state's attorney's police on the headquarters of the Theater Janitors' union at 509 South Wabash avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan said the raid was made on the complaint of a number of men that they had paid as high as $200 to union officials on the promise that they would receive jobs. The men charged that the union officials pocketed the money without further action on the applications.

Alterie, the prosecutor said, had adopted the alias L. A. Varain and was acting as president of the union. The prosecutor and police denied that the arrest of Alterie had any connection with the murder of Gus Winkler, north side gangster. Alterie, who also was named in one of the vagrancy reputation warrants issued by Judge Thomas A. Green, said that he did not know Winkler.

Park Ridge Council Votes $120,000 City Hall Bonds

The Park Ridge city council at a special session last night passed an ordinance providing for a bond issue of $120,000 to be used in building a new city hall to take the place of the present structure, which is forty years old and too small for present needs of the city. It is hoped to finance the project with federal help.

WAUKEGAN JURY PROBES CHARGES OF VICE GRAFT

Report Police Chief One of Those Involved.

The Lake county grand jury yesterday began an investigation of allegations that owners of disorderly resorts in Waukegan have been paying heavy amounts of graft for protection of their illegal business.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason, who began presenting his evidence to the grand jury during the afternoon, said that some members of the Waukegan police force, including Chief Edwin Ahlstrom, were involved in the allegations as well as some "higher ups."

The matter first came to public notice when Mr. Mason appeared before Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady with a petition requesting that immunity be granted 17 persons who would be taken before the grand jury. Those named in his list, he said, were not those under investigation, but their testimony might tend to incriminate themselves. Judge Dady ordered the grant of immunity.

Policemen Given Immunity.

Included in the immune list are six policemen, George Heckinger, Benjamin True, Howard Loomer, Bart Tyrrell, Calvin Hoff, and Roy Edwards. With them were named several persons who in the past have been charged with being inmates or keepers of disorderly houses.

Mr. Mason's investigation grew out of statements made recently before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt of Waukegan by Lester F. Collins, an attorney. Collins had been arrested during a raid by Chief Ahlstrom and his men in the house of Ramona Flores, 40 Spring street, Waukegan.

The Attorney's Story.

"I had gone there to confer with Mrs. Flores as her attorney," said Collins. "I had acted in that capacity before. But when the raid took place some of the real inmates told me they were surprised no advance notice of it had been given, as each one was paying $1 a day for protection."

The attorney, who had been charged with being an inmate of the place, was acquitted.

Chief of Police Ahlstrom, asked about the grand jury action, declared that he was innocent of any wrongdoing and welcomed the investigation. He has not been summoned to testify before the grand jurors.

WINKLER MURDER CLEWS SOUGHT IN BANK VAULTS

Open Lebensberger Safety Deposit Box Today.

The records and personal effects of two dead men were being sought yesterday in the belief they will aid in the investigation of a mail robbery on Dec. 6, 1932, another on Sept. 22, 1933, and the slaying of Edgar Lebensberger and Gus Winkler.

A safety box rented by Lebensberger, who was the wealthy owner of the 225 club, a night life center, was found registered under the name of Gene Lyons. Plans are being made to force it open tomorrow unless a key is produced today. Meanwhile a further search is under way for other hidden boxes used by Lebensberger and Winkler.

The affairs of the two were linked through their joint indictment by the government for possession of bonds stolen in the 1932 robbery. Winkler was a partner in the dance, drink and gamble club operated by Lebensberger, and he was also a partner in a garage owned by Joseph Bergl, who armored a car used in the 1933 mail robbery.

Widow Appears in Court.

United States Attorney Dwight F. Green yesterday revived the possibility that Lebensberger did not take his own life, but was murdered. Federal agents and police were agreed that Winkler was killed because he was in communication with government detectives, trying to save himself from prosecution by informing against the actual mail robbers.

Mrs. Louella Lebensberger, widow of the night club owner, appeared at the Probate court yesterday to prove heirship of his estate, which was listed as being in excess of $10,000 in personal property. While in court the widow told of the safety box rented by her husband in conjunction with Joseph Sans, an employé of the 225 club, who is also under indictment for dealing in the stolen bonds. Sans is in jail.

The box was found in the National Builders' Bank of Chicago. Coroner Frank J. Walsh, Jack Rubens, representing the public administrator, and police went there and were advised the box could not be opened without a court order. Probate Judge John F. O'Connell issued the order, but no key to the box was found and Mr. Green directed the marshal to bring Sans to the bank in person to open the box. When Sans arrived he insisted he did not have a key.

Walsh Issues Ultimatum.

"If the key is not produced by 11 o'clock Friday morning I'll have the box drilled," Coroner Walsh stated. "We have reason to believe the box contains papers that may solve the Lebensberger and Winkler deaths and perhaps reveal the names of the mail robbers."

Later, Attorney Irving Zazove, representing Mrs. Lebensberger, said she has a key to the box which she will give to the authorities on request. He explained that Mrs. Lebensberger and her husband had other vaults in their own names.

The relations of the two dead men and John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, former legislator and gambler, are being investigated. McLaughlin is in jail in default of $50,000 bond, having been arrested on the indictment which names him, Lebensberger, and Winkler for conspiracy in the 1932 mail robbery. Louis "Curley" Fishman, part owner of a gambling house on Devon avenue, is also under indictment for possession of some of the stolen bonds.

There was no clew to the identity of the Winkler slayers. David "Benny" Goldblatt, who was reputed to be Winkler's bodyguard and payoff man and who said he loaned his automobile to Winkler forty minutes before Winkler was shot, was held in custody, but had given no helpful information, police said. Goldblatt was formerly a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court and later an associate of Ted Newberry, gang boss whose death last spring gave Winkler control of the rackets on the north side.

Knows Nothing, Says Goldblatt.

Goldblatt insisted he did not know why Winkler went to the beer distributing station of County Commissioner Charles H. Weber, where he was slain.

A letter to United States Attorney Green yesterday read as follows:

"Dear Sir: You can stop spending your money. We will take care of McLaughlin, Weber, and Nitti. They are all numbered. GRANADA 6."

The Nitti referred to was believed to be Frank Nitti, once called "Enforcer" for Capone, and for whose death, according to a police sergeant, Newberry had offered to pay $15,000. Newberry was killed soon after Nitti was shot by Detective Harry Lang of the late Mayor Cermak's office, but Nitti did not die.

Meanwhile the body of Winkler lay in state in an undertaking shop at 3604 Ogden avenue awaiting shipment today to St. Louis, where Winkler was born and began his career of crime.

SCHOOL BOARD HUNTS MEANS TO RAISE BACK PAY FOR TEACHERS

The school trustees at their meeting yesterday discussed the problem of paying the teachers but reached no decision. None of the board members could offer any suggestion as to where funds to meet the back pay rolls of more than $16,000,000 might be obtained.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan precipitated the discussion with the assertion that nothing could be done about pay day if the "trustees just sit."

"If you had attended the executive session before the meeting," Trustee Irwin Walker said, "you would realize that the thought of paying the teachers is uppermost in our minds. We are going to get the money from some source, the one that will cost us the least. A lot of talk won't do any good."

Trustee Joseph P. Savage declared that the "only way out" was to reduce the tax burden on real estate to a point where taxes could be paid.

"Where are you going to find other sources for money?" asked Savage. "The assessor cut the real estate valuation 25 per cent and now who is going to lend us money on securities when no one knows whether there will be enough revenue to redeem the securities."

Band of Gunmen Robs 4 N. W. Side Drug Stores

A band of four gunmen late last night robbed four drug stores on the northwest side and escaped with about $150. The stores robbed were those of Charles Stock, 3701 Elston avenue; Theodore Wolf, 2849 Belmont avenue; Hyman Graber, 4365 Irving Park boulevard, and Small's pharmacy, 3373 Milwaukee avenue. The four holdups occurred in less than thirty minutes.

CONVICT SLAYER OF LANDLORD; FIX TERM AT 25 YEARS

A jury in the court of Judge Walter Steffen last night found Michael Martino of Blue Island, father of nine children, guilty of murder and fixed his punishment at 25 years in the penitentiary.

Testimony showed that Martino, on Dec. 6, stabbed and killed his landlord, James M. Hartsook of 2242 Desplaines street, Blue Island. Hartsook had gone to the Martino home to evict the family, who had been given notice to move after failure to pay rent.

It was contended by the defense that Martino had acted in self-defense. The state maintained that the killer had armed himself in advance and attacked Hartsook without provocation. A motion for a new trial was made and a hearing on this will be held tomorrow.

JURY CONVICTS PAIR OF FORGERY IN 15 MINUTES

Isador Kahns, 36 years old, and Sam Katz, 32, charged with forgeries amounting to $6,850, were convicted last evening by a jury in Judge Francis B. Allegretti's Criminal court. The jury required only 15 minutes to reach a verdict. A motion for a new trial will be argued on Oct. 18. Katz opened an account in the Lake View Trust and Savings bank by depositing worthless checks. He then drew against the account before the fraud was discovered. The case was continued 12 times before it was finally forced to trial.

Mail Theft at Effingham Yields Little to 3 Robbers

Effingham, Ill., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Postal inspectors checking the theft here last night of six mail pouches said tonight that they did not believe anything of value was taken. The robbers seemed to have been incorrectly informed that a valuable shipment was passing through Effingham.

POLICE KILLER DUE TO DIE IN CHAIR TONIGHT

Another Slayer Loses His Plea for Review.

Decisions handed down by the State Supreme court yesterday and Tuesday made it almost certain that two murderers will be electrocuted in Chicago within the next four days unless the governor or the state board of pardons and paroles intervenes.

Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail yesterday completed arrangements for the execution of Morris Cohen, killer of Policeman Joseph Hastings, who is to go to the chair at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow in the event that the last efforts for delay are unsuccessful. The Supreme court on Tuesday declined to review his case. If Cohen goes to the electric chair he will be the first to be executed in the Criminal court's war on crime.

The second killer near the chair is Ross King, alias Kenneth Smith, convicted of the murder of Policeman Harry Redlich during the robbery of an advertising agency at 9 South Kedzie avenue in July. He is scheduled to be executed at 12:01 a. m. on Monday. The Supreme court yesterday declined to review his case.

Tiger Girl's Pal Wins Delay.

However, the same court granted a writ of supersedeas to George Dale, another Chicago killer who was to have been electrocuted at the same time as Cohen. Dale, with Mrs. Eleanor Jarman "the Blonde Tigress" and Leo Minneci, was convicted of the murder of Gustav Hoeh, a 71 year old haberdasher, in a robbery. Mrs. Jarman and Minneci are serving prison sentences of 199 years.

The decision in the Dale case will delay his execution fully a month, it was said, that much time being required for the review by the Supreme court.

It was indicated yesterday that Cohen's counsel has not given up the fight in his behalf. Attorney William Scott Stewart went yesterday to Springfield to ask the state board of pardons and paroles for a stay of execution.

If it is refused, it was pointed out, there are still two possible moves—an appeal to the governor or the filing of petition before a judge requesting a sanity hearing.

Cohen, Dale, and John Scheck, the last named having been sentenced for the courtroom slaying of Policeman John G. Sevick, originally were scheduled to die at the same time. Only the appeal of Cohen was denied by the Supreme court.

Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley was ordered yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney to go to Springfield today to appear before the board of pardons and paroles to resist any delay in the execution.

Denies New Trial Plea.

Judge James F. Fardy yesterday overruled the motion for a new trial for Charles McKenna, 35 years old, a former business agent for the Tuck Pointers' union, and sentenced the defendant to 30 years in the penitentiary. McKenna was found guilty by a jury of the murder of Nicholas Razes, chef and part owner of a restaurant at 5512 South Racine avenue, on April 11.

Confessions of Richard Basile and George Chevas, alleged members of the 42 gang, were admitted into evidence yesterday by Judge Harry B. Miller in their trial on charges of murdering Policeman Maurice Marcusson in a building at 323 West Jackson boulevard on Jan. 20. Chevas and Basile are on trial before a jury qualified for the death penalty.

Five members of a bandit gang, who had confessed 12 robberies, were sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan. They are Fred Kemper, 21 years old; Chester Rice, 25 years; Roy Crysler, 23 years old; Lyle Vitel, 18 years old, and Sacco Basile, 18 years old. They were tried for the robbery of J. A. West, manager, and a number of customers in a National Tea store at 3332 Foster avenue on Aug. 26.

These sentences and six others brought to 409 the number of criminals sent to the penitentiary since the war on crime was begun by judges of the Criminal court. The others sentenced are:

JOHN LASKY, 43 years old, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge William V. Brothers for incest.

GEORGE RATTUZZI, 17 years old, and RALPH DETENTE, 16 years old, sentenced to one year to life by Judge Walter P. Steffen for burglary of a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea store at 3319 Foster avenue.

ARTHUR GARDNER, 32 years old, sentenced to ten years by Judge Francis Allegretti for the rape of his 11 year old stepdaughter.

IRVING O'SHEA, 27 years old; sentenced by Judge Harry B. Miller to one year to life for robbery of Samuel Susina, 4427 Leland avenue, on April 8.

GEORGE F. FIEDLER, 33 years old, sentenced to one to ten years by Judge Thomas J. Lynch for operating a confidence game.

The only break in the list of convictions in the Criminal court yesterday was the acquittal of Frank Pavelkas, 25 years old, who was charged with murdering Albert Arnold, 3230 South Hoyne avenue. Arnold had bigamously married Pavelkas' sister, Alverna, 20 years old.

KNOXVILLE GROCER RETIRES FROM NRA, SENDS EAGLE BACK

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Charles G. Mynatt, grocer, today announced that he had withdrawn from the NRA and sent back his Blue Eagle to Postmaster John J. Graham.

Blaming what he termed "chiselers" and an "ineffective" local NRA compliance board, Mynatt said the code was a failure so far as his business was concerned.

Meanwhile, C. F. Holland, chairman of the local compliance group, announced the receipt of a letter from Hugh S. Johnson, the national recovery administrator, saying the NRA cannot accept such withdrawals. The statement said: "Some cases have arisen in various parts of the country where employers have voluntarily proposed to surrender or take down their Blue Eagle."

Mynatt insisted tonight the government could not compel him to follow the code. He said NRA compliance cost him $200 extra each week. Mynatt said he still believed in the NRA principle and would return to the code just as soon as "I can."

Ordered to Turn In Eagles.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, putting into action his promise to punish violators of NRA agreements, dispatched telegrams today ordering two stores in New Rochelle to turn in their Blue Eagles for failing to carry out the maximum hour and minimum wage provisions of the presidential agreements under which they operate. The NRA insignia were ordered withdrawn from the Shop-Town Market, Inc., and the Crystal Beauty shop. These revocations were the first to be ordered in the New York district.

POPE PIUS LEAVES VATICAN; BLESSES KNEELING THRONG

Thousands Cheer Pontiff in Holy Year Rites.

ROME, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. appeared today in the regalia of a time when the papacy held temporal power and blessed thousands gathered before the Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore, one of five cathedrals which holy year pilgrims must visit to gain plenary indulgence.

While the Pope rested briefly in the chapter house adjoining the cathedral, throngs of eager pilgrims and peasants gathered in the great space facing the high altar.

Cheered By Crowd.

Their cheers drowned the blast of the six silver trumpets which heralded the pontiff's entrance through the hitherto sealed holy door.

The pope was borne aloft on a throne by lackeys of the papal state dressed in crimson jackets and knee breeches. Cardinals and a group of bishops receded the throne up a central aisle guarded by papal gendarmes and Swiss Guards in colorful medieval uniforms.

After passing the high altar, the throne was lowered, and the pope sat on a specially decorated throne. His head was bowed in prayer as Cardinal Angelo Maria Dolce celebrated high mass.

Blesses People From Balcony.

When Pius was again borne down the central aisle, smilingly waving his blessing to the crowd, the huge cathedral rang with shouts of "Viva il papa."

He went at once to the balcony overlooking Merulana square, where tens of thousands knelt in prayer as his sonorous voice, amplified by loudspeakers, reached them in a blessing.

RELIEF SESSION OF LEGISLATURE HITS NEW SNAG

Senate Groups Disagree; Recess Is Voted.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The second fruitless week of the special session of the Illinois general assembly called by Gov. Horner for the primary purpose of providing funds for winter emergency relief work ended suddenly this afternoon. A recess was taken until next Tuesday.

This action was taken upon the initiative of senate leaders who at the end of two hours' conference in Gov. Horner's office found it impossible to budge the minority combination which is insisting upon enactment of the new Lantz bills for raising relief funds by local taxation as a substitute for the administration and majority plan for a bond issue financed by counties' and cities' share of the proceeds of the gasoline tax.

The majority was willing to pass the Lantz bills in the form in which they were before the regular session, a form in which the imposition of additional city, township, or county taxes was made permissive, but opposed the present proposal that the levies be made mandatory.

17 Can Block Program.

The spokesmen for the opposition in the conference were representatives of the Illinois Agricultural association. Since enactment of the relief program can be blocked by a minority of one-third—or seventeen senators—they were in control and announced their intention of remaining there.

The conference might have gone on indefinitely but after two hours of talking, which apparently had not altered the situation one iota, the principal leaders of the senate walked out, went upstairs and put through the recess motion. The house of representatives, which had been marking time while waiting for the seante, immediately followed suit. But Tuesday's battle will be in the senate, the house meeting that day being merely perfunctionary.

The plan of the majority under the combined leadership of Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], president pro tempore, and Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], minority leader, is to stick to its guns next Tuesday and attempt to line up a two-thirds vote, thirty-four, for a two section program.

May Amend Lantz Bills.

If thirty-four votes are assured the first step will be to amend the pending Lantz bills by substituting the exact permissive text of the similar bills of last spring with one change. That change, necessary in order to bring the measures within the governor's call for the special session, would be a provision that the proceeds of additional taxes levied for relief be turned over to the Illinois emergency relief commission for expenditure in the communities in which they were collected.

The second step wolud be to pass the six bills incorporating the $30,000,000 bond issue—gasoline tax program and then to pass the revised Lantz bills.

This, leaders say they are convinced, is the only method by which the regular program can be assured of the required 34 votes. The majority insists that passage of the Lantz bills will not meet the needs of the situation.

They are directed primarily at Cook county including the city of Chicago and its other municipalities.

In the present form these bills say that counties containing cities of more than 500,000 population and the cities and townships within those counties "shall" levy pauper taxes in excess of all present limitations. Those opposed to them contend that such an increase in taxation would not be tolerated by property owners, and that it would mean a jump of 50 per cent in Chicago tax bills.

FAVOR SALES TAX IN 1934.

The executive committee of the Chicago Recovery administration met in the county building yesterday and approved a report from Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of its sub-committee on relief, which advocated the continuance of the sales tax for relief purposes after Jan. 1, 1934. If the legislature is unable to pass a law continuing the tax, the report approves the sale of $30,000,000 of tax warrants and the submission to the public of a $30,000,000 bond issue to retire the warrants, a plan now being considered by the legislature.

VALUE OF ILLINOIS RELIEF GARDEN CROP PUT AT $1,250,000

Despite the handicap of floods during the spring and a summer drought, vegetables having an approximate value of $1,250,000 were raised in Illinois gardens worked by recipients of relief, according to a report issued yesterday by J. C. Readey, director of subsistence gardens for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

During the spring and summer 102,588 family gardens were planted under the direction of county emergency relief committees in 62 downstate counties, according to the report, and 4,037 acres were given over to mass production gardening which was carried on under work relief programs.

In five counties the garden areas were completely flooded out early in the spring, according to the report, but most of the areas were reseeded and produced fair yields in late crops. The combined forces of flood and drought were estimated to have reduced the normal yield by 35 per cent.

Three Chicago suburban counties carried out canning projects. These were Du Page, Kane and Lake counties. Canning centers reported that 100,000 cans of food will be put up by the unemployed in Du Page county, 120,000 cans in Lake county, and 75,000 cans in Kane county.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $335,542, making a total of $77,481,620 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Oct. 11	$ 42,729	$ 69,818
Uncollected	17,100,023	45,490,803
	1930.	1931.
Oct. 11	$ 84,137	$ 138,858
Uncollected	72,264,892	75,697,685

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $11,353.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday was named receiver for 35 income bearing properties by County Judge Jarecki. The treasurer was appointed under the Kerner-Skarda act to collect delinquent taxes totaling $118,000 on the properties. A total of $83,000 was collected in Judge Jarecki's court from attorneys representing property owners who wanted to avoid receiverships. The treasurer filed twenty-five more tax receivership petitions yesterday against properties owing $52,566.

TAX CUT PLAN BRINGS PRAISE AND PROTESTS

Public Officials Predict Revenue Shortage.

While civic leaders and real estate operators yesterday were praising the action of County Assessor Jacobs in announcing Tuesday that he will make a horizontal reduction of 25 per cent in the assessed valuation of all real estate in Cook county for 1932, controllers and auditors of the city, county, school board and south park system voiced protests.

They asserted that unless new methods of producing revenue were found, all these governments would be forced more deeply into debt. They said that a reduction of 20 per cent in their anticipated tax revenues for 1932—which it is estimated the cut in assessed valuations will produce—means that they have spent money, borrowed against tax warrants, which cannot be repaid from collection of even a large proportion of their total tax extensions than has been collected in recent years.

Predict Higher Taxes for 1934.

The officials said that such deficiencies would have to be provided for in the 1934 budgets, which they declared would mean an increase in taxes for that year. One other way, it was suggested, would be for the legislature to pass laws that would raise the present statutory limits on tax rates.

Among those who praised Assessor Jacobs' cut in valuations was Ernest R. Graham, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures. Acting as spokesman for leading merchants and business men of the city he said:

"The 25 per cent reduction announced by Mr. Jacobs is very fair. It is just to all concerned. The care given by Mr. Jacobs in making the 1931 assessment has produced the most uniform assessment ever made in this county and the slash will thus affect every one."

Real Estate Leader Pleased.

Henry G. Zander Jr., president of the Chicago real estate board, said he was delighted with the promised reduction in assessed values.

Mayor Kelly said he felt that the action of the assessor would be beneficial to all citizens of Chicago.

Assessor Jacobs announced that his 25 per cent reduction for 1932 would be appplied on the basis of the original 1931 assessment as he made it. Decision on the legality of the tax board of appeals' order for a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 assessment on homes and small flat buildings is now pending in the state Supreme court. The board's order applied only to buildings, not to land. Assessor Jacobs pointed out that his promised reduction of the 1932 assessment will apply both to land and buildings on all classes of property.

GRANT OF $1,506,346 IS MADE TO ILLINOIS TO MATCH STATE AID

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Illinois today received a new federal grant of $1,506,346 to supplement money expended by the state for relief for the idle.

The money was advanced, according to Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, on the so-called matching basis, under which the government meets every three dollars of state money spent for relief with a dollar from the federal treasury. Today's allotment, it was said, represents the federal supplement of funds spent by Illinois during July and August.

The new grant brings the total thus far granted Illinois from the half billion dollar emergency relief fund to $23,305,303. All funds now being given the state by the government are allotted on the matching basis, Illinois having exhausted quota available to it on the direct grant plan.

SLAYS FARMER IN QUARREL.

Chamberlain, S. D., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—After fatally wounding Carl Austad, 40, farmer in the Missouri river valley, Charles Johnson calmly gave himself up to Brule county officials with the comment "it was either him or me." The men had quarreled. Officials said Johnson had been drinking. Austad's gun was unloaded.

GARY CAFE MAN TRIES TO REGAIN HIS BLUE EAGLE

Theodore G. Rahutis, Gary business man, who is the first person in the United States to have his Blue Eagle revoked, became repentant yesterday and asserted he would do all in his power to make amends with NRA authorities and, if possible, win back the emblem.

He formally turned the emblem over to Postmaster Alfred Hess in Gary on instructions from NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson in Washington that the insignia be taken away from Rahutis' dine and dance place, which is located on the Dunes highway on the eastern edge of Gary. The order was given after Rahutis failed to appear before the Gary NRA compliance board to answer complaints made by employés in his roadhouse that he was not abiding by the President's reemployment agreement which he had signed.

"I am for the agreement locally and nationally," Rahutis said yesterday after he had surrendered his emblem. "I was sincere when I signed it, and I regret having lost it. I want to get it back if it is possible.

"I failed to appreciate all that was involved, or I would have appeared promptly before the compliance committee. Everything I have is invested in my business and naturally the success of it means a lot to me.

"I believe I'm complying with the restaurant code, though its administrators must appreciate what I'm up against when in my business I have to keep my doors open until the early hours of the morning."

No Chance of Regaining Emblem.

Members of the Gary compliance board said there appeared to be nothing Rahutis could do to get it back. The matter was taken out of their jurisdiction, they said, when they reported to Washington authorities that they had notified Rahutis on three different occasions to appear before them and he failed to respond.

The complaints again Rahutis were first made two weeks ago when most of his 40 employés declared he was not abiding by the wage and hour provisions of the President's agreement. One man said he had worked 21 hours in a two day period at the rate of 14 cents an hour. Waitresses said they were forced to continue working far into the morning hours.

STATE STREET'S 100TH ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Fine Clothing

"Quality" has been a much abused word—particularly in the past four years. Nineteen years ago when The Store for Men was opened we stated candidly that we would carry only quality clothing. For years before that, in talking about our men's apparel, we stubbornly insisted that we had only quality clothing to offer. That story was no different in 1922, or in the depths of 1932. It is no different today. We still feel that for fine clothing, "quality clothing," if you will, there is no superior merchandise—or selection—anywhere.

We will not go into the open market to buy an odd lot of suits. In the majority of instances we purchase the woolens ourselves, even import them if necessary, then painstakingly tailor these fabrics into fine clothes in our own shops under the strict, personal supervision of Stanford Williams.

To many Chicagoans names like Fieldcrest, Field Fifty, Deerpath Drape and Tipperary Twist are synonyms for quality—and style as well. In every Chicagoan's mind it has been and will continue to be our sincere desire to implant but one thought, that the name of The Store for Men instinctively means this—the home of fine clothing.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

50,000 ATTEND STATE STREET'S 100TH BIRTHDAY

Mayor Kelly Recalls City of Earlier Days.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The street nodded gayly to its guests with myriad flags flying from windows. One hundred red candles four feet in height—a candle for each year of the street's existence—burned steadily on a cake 13 feet in height. The crowds stood watching the candles, listening to speeches, hearing Marion Claire sing "Auld Lang Syne," and watching a dark haired girl wearing a gown of red moire silk step out of the cake's top as "the spirit of State street." The climax of the program came when thousands of pieces of cake, separately wrapped, were thrown out to the crowds.

Capt. David Flynn, who was in charge of 150 traffic policemen, including 52 mounted police, made the estimate of the crowd, which he described as extending "a half block in each direction, north, south, east, and, west." Other thousands watched the colorful scene from store and office windows.

The program was a part of State street's week of festivities marking its centennial. Yesterday was "Women's Apparel" day in the State street stores. Women flocked to the stores in large numbers at the close of the noon program.

Mayor Kelly Is Speaker.

Mayor Kelly was the principal speaker on the program. He had prepared an address, but the typewritten copy of it which was to have been delivered to the mayor on the platform was delayed, probably due to the massed crowds surrounding the platform at one side of the cake. So the mayor spoke extemporaneously.

He sketched the history of Chicago, which followed closely that of State street, recalling the time within his memory when there was great rivalry between St. Louis and Chicago and speculation as to which would become the larger city. He paid tribute to the founders of State street, pioneer merchants and hotel men, and to those descendants who are carrying on the work of their predecessors.

Henry C. Lytton, veteran State street merchant, who is 87 years old, was another of the speakers. He said:

"Our cow path of a few years ago is now striding forward into its second hundred years, a strong, virile street pulsing with the determination of its builders, forging ahead with the indomitable spirit of the present generation.

"This week may well be called 'State street's second breath.' After 100 years of struggle, ending with four lean discouraging years, we have served notice to the world that State street has come back and is well on its way to the new prosperity. Let us show the world that State street is doing it again!"

Reads Message from Horner.

Walter L. Gregory, president of the State Street council, as master of ceremonies, read the telegram received by him from Gov. Horner. It read in part:

"Illinois greets Chicago's State street on its hundredth birthday anniversary. Just as thoughts of Illinois recall Chicago so mention of Chicago brings State street to mind. The three have grown and prospered together and the years to come will enhance their fame. May State street and Chicago enjoy many happy returns of the day."

On instructions from Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, a detachment from Camp Whistler at the World's Fair, including a 30 piece band, two buglers and 102 soldiers, in charge of Maj. E. M. Landrum, took part in the program.

Today is Children's day in the State street stores.

The State street veterans will be organized tonight, when men and women who worked in stores along State street 40 years ago will form a permanent association and elect officers. Col. Gordon S. Strong, chairman of the State Street council, will open the meeting and turn it over to Mr. Lytton, who will act as toastmaster. Mollie Netcher Newbury, president of the Boston Store and wife of the store's founder, and D. F. Kelly of the Fair, who began work in a State street store when he was 11 years old, are expected to attend the meeting. The gathering will be at the Palmer house.

CITY COUNCIL SEEKS U. S. EASY MONEY FOR WORK ON SEAWAY LINK

The city council yesterday approved a recommendation of its committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges calling upon the federal government to undertake at its own expense the development of the Calumet-Sag connection with the lakes-gulf waterway. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], the committee chairman, estimated the cost of the development at $40,000,000.

Furthering plans to get some of the three billion three hundred million dollar federal public work fund for Chicago, Mayor Kelly appointed a special committee, headed by Ald. Rowan, to determine if there are other projects in the city for which the government can be asked to bear the entire cost.

An appeal to the state legislature to give Chicago home rule in controlling liquor was proposed by Ald. John Toman [23d] and approved. The council also approved memorial resolutions on the deaths of twelve Chicago policemen who have been killed in the line of duty since Jan. 1 of this year. Communications from the "Save our schools" committee were referred to the council committee on schools, and a request for the reissuance of $16,000,000 in school board warrants was deferred and published. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 25.

HONOR MEMORY OF PULASKI, HERO OF REVOLUTION

Parker Pays Tribute to Polish Officer.

Ceremonies honoring the memory of Count Casimir Pulaski, Polish hero of the American revolution, were held last evening in the rotunda of the United States Court building.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, retiring commander of the Sixth corps area, laid a wreath in front of the Pulaski tablet in the rotunda and in a brief speech recalled the outstanding services of the Polish officer, a brigadier general of the Continental forces, to American freedom.

Gen. Parker Is Decorated.

During the exercises Gen. Parker was decorated with the order of Commander of Polonia Restituta and with the gold service medal of the Polish National alliance. Presentation of the decoration from the republic of Poland was made by Consul Titus Zbyszewski and that of the alliance by its president, John Romaszkiewicz.

Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, was general chairman of the event, which was attended by more than 1,000. Fife and drum corps from twelve American Legion posts played during the ceremonies.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly was also present and spoke briefly.

There was another ceremony in honor of Count Pulaski early last evening in the court of the Hall of Science at the World's Fair. Fifty boys forming a drum and bugle corps and a troop of girls executing military drills made up the program.

Parker to Leave Soon.

The appearance of Gen. Parker was one of the last he will make in public before leaving Chicago. He will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given in the Palmer house next Wednesday by the state department of the American Legion.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the death of Count Pulaski. He was wounded Oct. 9, 1779, while leading American troops in an attack at Savannah and died two days later on shipboard.

GIRL AT CARROLL PARTY FAILS TO FILE COMPLAINT

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Despite discrepancies in various versions of what happened in Earl Carroll's apartment on Sept. 18, when 16 year old Madeline Freedman returned home to her mother "a wreck," it was agreed by all concerned today that the case was closed.

Madeline, according to friends of the family, was content with her $50 weekly stage contract; Carroll still insisted there was no "withdrawal of a complaint," because there never was a complaint or basis for one, and Detective Michael Ward, to whom the girl originally complained, declared his investigation was closed. When asked who closed it Ward declared, "I did."

He said the girl had refused to go through with a complaint to the district attorney's office.

SCIENCE DEBATES WITH THEOLOGY; CROWDS LISTEN

Professor and Minister Meet Twice in Day.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A debate between a theologian and a professor of philosophy on the subject, "Can Science Accept God?" was held twice yesterday before crowds that overflowed Harris hall of Northwestern university at Evanston in the afternoon, and Thorne hall on McKinlock campus of the university in the evening.

The theologian was President Frederick C. Grant of Western Seabury seminary, Evanston, and the philosopher was Prof. Max Otto, of the University of Wisconsin. As the debate proceeded it became apparent that the theologian was at home with the most modern scientific theories and that the professor was familiar with the dogmatics of conservative theologians.

"Debate, Not a Dialogue."

Prof. Otto refused Dr. Grant's offer to lock arms in the interest of truth and call their meeting a dialogue and not a debate.

"It's a debate," Prof. Otto declared, although earlier he had said: "The answer to the question before us is completely negative. All affirmative answers have been studied and defects have been found in all of them."

"God and science are irreconsilable opposites and they cannot be harmonized any more than ice cream can be improved by frying," declared Prof. Otto as he started to build his case. He told his argument was based on the unity and discipline of the scientific method in contrast with alleged ambiguities of theology.

Traces Trends of Belief.

Prof. Otto traced the general trends in the belief of God from early times down to Calvin. These trends, he said, may be grouped under two general classes: belief in the dead, impersonal god of Spinoza, and belief, like Calvin's, in a God who is an enlarged human being.

"The entrance of God in a scientific experiment would introduce an uncontrollable variable which would utterly destroy science," Prof. Otto asserted.

In reply to this assertion, Dr. Grant interjected the question of the effect on the experiment of the entrance of the human personality which, he said, "is a variable."

Otto answered that "no factor may be present in an experiment which cannot be tried out." He closed his argument by asserting that "nothing in the world is outside science's ken," and that "religion always darkens and never illuminates man's mind."

Dr. Grant, in his formal speech, said he agreed with 90 per cent of Prof. Otto's argument but added that he was suspicious of a dogmatic spirit invoked to support scientists' hypothesis. He admitted his opponent's understanding of the growth and diversity of beliefs in God as being in general correct "except in reference to Prof. Otto's statement of the emergence of religion." Prof. Otto had said that religion emerged with early man.

"Modern scholars now agree," said Dr. Grant, "that belief in God goes back to the sub-human period."

"Can science accept God—and remain science?" he went on. "In reply to this let the scientists themselves answer. No scientist is better known than Einstein, who said: 'The most beautiful thing we can experience is a sense of the mysterious. That sense is the source of all true art and all truce science.' Religion rises from sense of awe and mystery in life and the universe.

"An 'expanding universe' certainly must have known some initial starting point at which the process began. Further, a universe that is destined to run down like a clock must have in da beginning when it was wound up."

CHICAGO TO BECOME WORLD'S GREATEST CITY, SAYS BABSON

Chicago's pioneering instinct and a willingness to take risks will cause this city to become the world's largest metropolis, with three times its present population by the time the second Century of Progress Exposition is held, Roger W. Babson, noted statistician and economist, predicted yesterday in an address in the trustees' room of the Administration building at the World's Fair.

"Only one thing can prevent this," he said, "and that is if Chicago loses its pioneering character. Progress comes through a willingness to take risks, never by depending on 6 per cent compound interest. Progress comes through producing more goods, not through killing millions of hogs to maintain the fictitious value of a lot of paper.

"The real curses of Chicago are those people who are now planning to exist by cutting coupons and collecting rents or by getting pensions and demanding city aid. Statistics show that your growth has been due to financial, industrial, and religious pioneers whom it is now popular to criticize."

Present radical movements, he said, are merely reactions from past carelessness, dishonesty, and self-satisfaction, and the labor strikes of the day are merely reactions from the greed and indifference of second generation employers.

CICERO CHARGES $187,827 FRAUD; SUES 15 CITIZENS

Thirteen former officials and two present trustees of the town of Cicero were named yesterday in a bill for an accounting of tax funds filed in the Superior court. The bill, brought on behalf of President Joseph G. Cerny of the town board, alleged that the defendants illegally spent $187,827 from the town treasury. The accounting involves funds in connection with the levying and collection of special assessments totaling $2,598,703 from 1927 to 1932 inclusive. The bill also alleged that an additional $112,000 was collected illegally as interest on the assessment. Among the defendants are Joseph Klenha, former president of the board, and James Sedlacek and Fred Lodya, present trustees.

U. S. CALLS IN $1,825,000,000 4TH LIBERTYS

Hopes to Retire All That Issue.

standing registered bonds with serial numbers ending in 0, 9, or 1, regardless of their series letter.

The call was made today by dividing the huge Liberty bond issue up into ten series, placing a rolled up certificate representing each series in a glass bowl, and allowing Acheson to draw out one of the tiny wads of paper.

Holders Have Option.

Holders of the called bonds have the option of presenting them for conversion into the new bonds or of taking cash for them on April 15, 1934. Acheson urged that trades be made early because the treasury intends to let its offer stand for only a few days.

If holders of called bonds do not apply for new bonds before the treasury books are closed they will be forced to take cash and surrender their security next April, Acheson said. Cash purchases of the 500 million dollars' worth of new bonds being offered for sale also will continue for only a few days.

Turning in of all the fourth Liberty bonds outstanding, approximately 6 billion 268 million dollars' worth, would require the treasury to issue that many of the new bonds, with the addition of 500 million dollars' worth for cash sale, the biggest peace-time transaction in treasury history. All new bonds will be dated Oct. 15, 1933, and bear interest from that date.

Wall Street Is Pleased.

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The Wall street community received the news of the calling of approximately 30 per cent of the fourth Liberty loans 4¼s with genuine satisfaction, hailing the hoped for but quite unexpected announcement of the treasury as "the best pronouncement on the monetary future of the nation in weeks" and "a great force for strengthening the security markets, particularly bonds." Bankers hastily began to thumb their inventory sheets to discover what percentage of their holding included the called bonds.

England, many of the commonwealths of the British empire, and continental countries have successfully refunded their high interest bearing war loans. Even Germany's war obligations had been refunded in part. Thus, the United States was virtually the only nation left with the major portion of its war debt carrying the war interest rates.

During recent years much has been written regarding the prospects of refunding the Liberty loans. Many times the treasury has given official consideration to plans but always something bobbed up at the last minute to postpone action. At present the money market, with funds going begging, favors the operation. There is general unanimity in banking circles on the opinion that the refunding will be a complete success.

Form Advisory Board.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—British and American business men well known throughout the United States are among the members of the "advisory protective committee" formed here to safeguard the interests of British investors in American securities.

A temporary committee of this character was formed last spring, but its full membership was not announced until today.

Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, former consul general in New York, heads the list of a dozen who have accepted membership. Among his associates on the committee are Ralph D. Blumenfeld, American born former editor of the Daily Express; Sir Anthony Shirley Benn, former president of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce; Sir Harry Krittain, vice president of the Pilgrims; Francis B. Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines; Francis E. Powell, president o fthe American Chamber of Commerce in London, and Lord Fermoy, Conservative member of parliament with many American connections.

American "default in gold payments and the gold clause situation" will come within the scope of the committee's work, according to today's announcement.

Canal Board Wins 8 Million in Federal Easy Money Grant

Chicago received its first substantial allocation of federal "easy money" yesterday with a grant of approximately $8,000,000 to the sanitary district. Announcement of the loan, which will put 4,500 men to work in the metropolitan area, was made in Washington by Public Works Administrator Ickes.

Ickes declared that the money would be granted subject to three qualifications, to be included in a contract between the government and the sanitary district board.

The first requirement is that the government will not make an outright gift of 30 per cent of the $8,000,000 grant until the remaining 70 per cent, which is a loan, has been repaid.

Hope to Start in Two Weeks.

Two other qualifications are that the government will have supervision over the work and a pledge that old bills and existing claims will not be paid out of the federal funds.

Some of the more optimistic officials of the sanitary district expressed the opinion that work on the projects could be started within two weeks. Others cited possibilities of unavoidable delays and said a month would be needed to start operations.

According to the public works administrator, the government will pay only on the basis of contracts already made at the unit price stipulated therein. Thomas J. Bowler, president of the district, indicated that this might prove to be a stumbling block.

"How are we going to get the funds?" asked Mr. Bowler. "Those contracts were made in 1931. Cement was 80 cents a barrel then, and now the NRA has raised it to $2. I don't know where the district will get the money to foot the difference."

70 Per Cent Is Loan.

In his announcement Ickes declared that the administration would reserve the right to call for new bids. Of the $8,000,000, 70 per cent, or $5,600,000, will be in the form of a loan. The remaining $2,400,000 will be an outright grant.

"The public works administration will buy at par $8,000,000 worth of sanitary district bonds," explained Ickes. "It will hold all of these bonds until the sanitary district shall have paid 70 per cent with interest, whereupon the public works administration will return the remaining 30 per cent.

"In other words, on account of the financial situation of the district, as evidenced by prior default of interest and principal on its bonds [amounting to $13,000,000], we will not make a 30 per cent grant at the beginning of the work, but in effect we will hold 30 per cent as additional security for the loan of 70 per cent."

The allotment will cut $8,000,000 off the full cost of $120,000,000 for the sewage disposal program ordered by the Supreme court in the long standing lake diversion litigation brought by neighboring states. Ickes has taken the stand that the Illinois legislature must empower the district to convey this larger program to the government outright or permit the strictest supervision in carrying it to completion. Legislation is now being drafted to meet the requirements.

Philip Harrington, chief engineer for the sanitary district, said that the next step would be negotiations with the government to bring about an agreement on the contract. He expressed a hope that work could be started again within two weeks.

In connection with the claim of contractors that costs of labor and materials have risen sharply since the contracts were originally let, Mr. Harrington was of the opinion that this difficulty could be ironed out.

Offers Solution for Cost Rise.

"Most of the contractors have made claims," said Mr. Harrington, "but we hope they will decide to go ahead, reserving the right to file these claims. If their claims are found to be justified in the courts, then they will get a judgment against the district. When the district has funds the judgment will be paid."

The five contractors for the work are as follows: John Griffiths & Sons company, Herlihy Mid-Continent Construction company, Ryan company, and W. J Newman company, all of Chicago, and the S. A. Healy company of Detroit.

It is said that after the contract has been signed each month the district will certify the amount the contractors have earned with the local public works advisory board. The board will approve the voucher and the contractors will be paid by checks drawn on the Federal Reserve bank.

The projects on which the easy money will be spent were originally estimated to cost $10,254,704, of which $2,380,228 has already been expended by the district. The work was halted in February, 1932, because of lack of funds.

These Projects to be Finished.

The projects and the funds needed to finance them on the basis of the original estimates are as follows:

1. Calumet sewage treatment works at 126th street and Cottage Grove avenue; pumper blower house, $1,380,206, and aeration tanks and auxiliaries, $2,178,907.

2. Completion of third battery of Imhof tanks at the west side sewage treatment works in Stickney at 39th street and 52d avenue, $1,293,614.

3. West side intercepting sewer; completion of section 3, $1,327,013, and completion of section 4, $1,694,737.

The machinery is on the construction sites and, according to engineering officials, 1,500 will be at work on the locations for the next 18 months in order to complete the projects. The employment figure of 4,500 is arrived at by the number of men to go back to work in the mines, steel mills, quarries, railroads and other industries supplying the materials.

EDITOR RELATES HOW HE FOUGHT, DEFEATED NRA

Insisted on Right of Free Press.

Tallassee, Ala., Oct. 11.—(AP)—An Alabama editor who claimed the right to express his "personal opinion" in his newspaper today related details of the incident which brought an order from Secretary Frances Perkins that agents of the department of labor must not interfere in any way with newspaper editors.

Miss Perkins issued her order after Editor Dick Thompson of the Tallassee Tribune protested against the action of Eugene H. Dunnegan, who, he said, ordered him to "desist" in his articles in connection with the organization of unions in a textile plant.

Dunnegan today denied making threats against Thompson, but said he told him he thought his editorials were in violation of the NRA.

Opposes a Textile Union.

Thompson said he had opposed organizati of a union of employés of a textile plant here editorially in August and a short time later Dunnegan, commissioner of labor representing the department, called on him to advise that he was violating section 7 of the national recovery act.

"If I didn't stop," Thompson said Dunnegan told him, "I was going to get into trouble. I must 'desist' from expressing my opinions again.

"We discussed a free press and 'free speech' and several other topics, but we couldn't get together and he left after warning me again to stop."

Defiant in Editorial.

In answer Thompson wrote a front page editorial for his paper on Sept. 14 declaring he was within his constitutional rights and added:

"The editor of this paper will express his views and opinions through this paper as long as the constitution of the United States grants a free press and a free speech.

"When the constitution no longer grants a free press and free speech then, and only then, will this editor stop expressing his viewpoints and personal opinions through this paper."

The editorial against which union organizers protested to the national recovery administration appeared in the issue of Aug. 24.

"The government has taken care of the laboring man in Tallassee," said the final paragraph. "He needs no other protection. Uncle Sam's help is free. The labor union will cost $12,000 per year and isn't necessary. Think it over before you join up."

Garage Owner Dies in Cell; Jury Blames Alcoholism

Alphonse Hendricks, 46 years old, garage owner of Glenview, was found dead yesterday morning in a cell at the Highland Park city jail. He was locked up Tuesday when he was found asleep beside his automobile in Litchfield avenue. A coroner's jury investigating the death returned a verdict of death due to heart disease aggravated by alcoholism.

Based On Drawing Power.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The nation's fifth largest industry—motion pictures—is paying its stars salaries that are based on their drawing power at the box office.

The average front rank movie star salary is $4,000 a week and, as contracts are written on a 40 week a year basis, the average yearly salary is $160,000, or more than twice that paid the President of the United States.

Attention was forcibly directed at these high salaries last year when Constance Bennett was paid $300,000 for 10 weeks' work. Her salary amounted to $5,000 a day.

Among the directors whose salaries run into six figures are Frank Borzage, Raoul Walsh, George Fitzmaurice, Mervyn Leroy, Archie Mayo, George Hill, Ernest Lubitsch, Norman Taurog, Lowell Sherman, Clarence Brown and William Wellman.

Contracts of Officials.

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The salary contracts of directors of the Paramount-Publix corporation, which were ratified by stockholders at their meetings, in 1927 and 1928, were submitted today at the bankruptcy hearing for creditors of the corporation, held before Henry K. Davis, federal referee.

They were entered upon the records by Samuel Isseks of counsel for the trustees in bankruptcy, in the course of the examination of Ralph A. Kohn, treasurer of the company and one of those whose salary was revealed. Mr. Kohn said no salary contracts had been submitted to the meetings in 1930 and 1931, which preceded the bankruptcy action.

The list, giving total compensation in cash or stock, or both, was as follows:

Adolph Zukor, $260,000 in cash and no stock in 1927; $130,000 cash and 4,597 shares in 1928; Jesse Lasky, the same as Zukor; Sidney R. Kent, $196,000 cash, no stock in 1927; $104,000 and 3,677 shares in 1928; Samuel Katz, $131,000 in 1927 and the same as Mr. Kent the following year; Mr. Kohn, $30,000 in 1927 and $45,000, with 1,096 shares of stock, in 1928.

CHICAGO SEEKS $100,000,000 OF U. S. FOR HOUSING

Project Would Provide Homes for 84,000.

BY AL CHASE.

Uncle Sam may be asked to provide one hundred million dollars for America's housing project, to cover one square mile in Chicago and provide homes for 84,000 people. The money will be sought from the federal public works administration if the Commercial club of Chicago approves the plan and if the Illinois housing law is amended so that such a development can be operated under state supervision.

Of the $100,000,000 of federal easy money, $20,000,000 would be an outright government grant and $80,000,000 a long term loan. The $20,000,000 would be 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials for the project. The rules of the public works administration provide that such 30 per cent shall be an outright gift.

First Unit of Program.

The square mile of Chicago housing construction would be the first unit of a billion dollar improvement, according to the proponents of the plan.

Under the present Illinois statutes Chicago cannot comply with federal requirements. The recently passed Illinois housing law provides only for limited dividend corporations which may borrow from the government.

To overcome this difficulty, it was learned yesterday, an amendment to the state housing act is contemplated which would meet federal requirements by permitting the incorporation of a public housing board of five citizens nominated by the mayor and appointed to office by the new state housing commission, of which Alfred K. Stern is chairman.

This public corporation, it was pointed out, could be the recipient of both a federal cash grant and a loan.

Club Committee Asks Action.

The Commercial club's committee on plan of Chicago, composed of D. H. Burnham, chairman; Horace W. Armstrong, William Scott Bond, Britton I. Budd, John A. Holabird, Elmert T. Stevens, and R. Douglas Stuart, has recommended to the executive committee of the club that it call a closed meeting of the entire organization next week to consider the $100,000,000 housing plan.

It has been suggested that with the Commercial club back of the project to the extent of having five outstanding members nominated by the mayor and appointed by the state housing commission to form a public corporation, success would be assured. There would be no salary paid any of the corporation's directors.

Ten Sites Are Available.

At the proposed meeting of club members next week the committee on plan of Chicago will bring in a comprehensive set of maps which have been in the making by the Chicago Plan commission for the last year. These maps show ten blighted district sites in the area extending from Belmont avenue to 63d street and from Kedzie avenue to the lake.

One of these, about a square mile in area, is expected to be chosen for the first $100,000,000 housing development. Of the 640 acres in this square mile, at least ninety acres would be devoted to park and playground purposes.

The buildings to be erected would contain 21,300 apartments. Most of the apartments would be of four rooms with some of five rooms. Community laundries, organized play, kindergartens, and social welfare projects of various kinds are contemplated.

Mr. Burnham said his committee hopes that this first $100,000,000 project will be followed by nine others of equal magnitude in various parts of the city, thus solving, with a ten-unit billion dollar development, the city's entire slum problem.

The committee points out that the housing project will not compete in any way with privately owned apartments or dwellings for to complete such a huge project thousands of decrepit and unsanitary residences will be torn down.

The Commercial club, of which E. L. Ryerson is president, is composed of some of the city's outstanding business men. It has sponsored and paid for the original Chicago plan. It fostered continuation schools. It at one time paid for keeping the loop clean. It organized and still operates the State Pawners' shops. Members of the club comprise the entire directorate of the Museum of Science and Industry.

GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Virginia Hickman Ware.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Virginia Hickman Ware of the Ambassador East hotel was granted a divorce yesterday by Superior Judge Sabath from Harlan Ware, playwright and author. She testified that her husband had been cruel to her. A settlement was made out of court for the support of a 4 year old son, Richard, whose custody was given to the wife.

Under questioning by Attorney Lloyd A. Faxon, Mrs. Ware declared that last Sept. 7, while dining at the College Inn, her husband twisted her wrist in a quarrel. On another occasion, when she interrupted her husband while he was writing, he became "temperamental," she testified, and pushed her from the room.

Her testimony as to her husband's cruelty was corroborated by Mrs. Ernest Byfield and Mrs. Charlotte Garrity.

MAYO PREDICTS DEATH RAY TO KILL BACTERIA

foundation, speaking on "Why Are You Nervous?" gave a general prescription for the cure of nervousness.

"Lead a regular life," he advised. "Work, eat a liberal diet, play, for play is necessary to a well rounded existence, avoid fads, and don't try to solve all the world's problems. If you are nervous because of worry, talk over your problems with some one in whom you have confiednce."

Lack of sleep is one of the great causes of nervousness, he said. Malnutrition is another, especially prevalent in recent years by unwise reducing efforts by women.

Eye troubles, said Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas, president of the Pan-American Medical association, are of two varieties, those arising from external infections, and those arising from internal causes. Modern medicine has nearly wiped out the former class, principally venereal infections at birth and trachoma, or granular lids, in this country, although they remain terrible scourges in some other countries, particularly in the near east.

Tells How Teeth Affect Eyes.

But the last four decades, Dr. McReynolds said, have seen an enormous increase in internal affections of the eye. Some of them are due to toxins, arising from focal infections in the teeth or tonsils, or autointoxication, and can be cured by removing the cause. Gutenberg, he added, did human eyesight an exceedingly ill turn when he introduced printing, for too much reading, especially in bad light, causes much eye strain and many eye failures. Dr. McReynolds, too, recommended, "See your physician."

Dr. Robert Jolly, president of the American Hospital association, urged his hearers, when they go to hospitals, to choose those on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons. In Chicago, 64 of 85 hospitals are on that list.

Dr. Hugh E. Munroe of Regina, Saskatchewan, second vice president of the college, presided at the meeting. Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher, chairman of the committee on arrangements of the college's present clinical congress in Chicago, and Dr. Austin A. Hayden, president of the Chicago Medical society, delivered addresses of welcome, and Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director-general of the college, described its work of standardizing hospitals and fostering improvements in surgical practice.

TELL CANCER PROGRESS

The American College of Surgeons yesterday made reports on 24,448 cases of cancer, treated five or more years ago, in which the patients are alive and well today—with no signs of the disease recurring.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director-general of the college, in opening the symposium at which a dozen eminent surgeons rendered their reports of cures, cited these among the purposes of the symposium, held annually:

"Its purpose is to impress upon the practitioners of medicine, and indirectly upon the public, the fact that carcinoma [cancer] is curable by the use of well known and established methods of treatment.

"Further, its purpose is to point out in a convincing manner that if all the cases of cancer could be diagnosed early and treated promptly in their incipiency, the annual death rate from the disease, now recorded at 150,000 in the United States and Canada, would be reduced by at least one-third, a saving of 50,000 lives a year."

That, the surgeons said, is the great qualifying statement to the fact that cancer is curable—to be cured it must usually be recognized in its early stages and be of certain types.

It was pointed out by Dr. William B. Haggard of Nashville, president of the college, that cancer is the only disease which, if left alone, kills 100 per cent of those whom it afflicts. For early recognition of cancer, cancer in its curable stage, the surgeons recommend periodic health examinations, just as they recommend them for the maintenance of general health.

Two Different Diseases.

"Early cancer and late cancer," said Dr. Clarence Cook Little, former president of the University of Michigan and now managing director of the American Society for Cancer Control, "are in all their essentials two different diseases. Cancer is part of you. It is not a foreign body. In its way, it is just as healthy, perhaps more so, at the outset than other parts of your body. That is why it is so hard to recognize. The chance of cure depends directly on the rapidity with which you make treatment possible."

The list of cures, which Dr. Martin announced, showed that nearly a third of the cases were cancers which women incur most frequently as a delayed penalty of bearing children. Another third of the cures were breast cancers, which usually afflict women who have had no children.

Still in Dark as to Cause.

Surgeons know a great deal about the treatment of cancer. They are still in the dark as to its cause, it was pointed out by one of the surgeons attending the symposium.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "we know no more about the cause of cancer than Hippocrates did when he diagnosed cancers 400 years before Christ. It is probable that when we discover why one man is short and fat, why another is thin and tall—in short, when we discover the secret of growth—that we will soon thereafter know the cause of cancer.

"We have one theory that cancer may be caused embryonicaly, in the body of the unborn child, when a cell strays away from its fellows and settles in some foreign part of the body. It remains dormant for years, usually until the victim has passed 40, when it suddenly becomes anarchistic. Running wild and uncontrolled by the forces which control the normal growth and replacement of body cells, it multiplies and becomes a cancer.

"We have no proof yet that cancer is hereditary in humans. We know that it is not infectious—that one person cannot give it to another. Under the microscope we can differentiate the forms of cancer and of malignant tumors according to the type of cell from which they spring. Sarcoma, arising from a connective tissue cell, attacks young adults. Carcinoma, which is what American surgeons generally call cancer, is the 'anarchistic' development of an epiltheal, or skin, cell, and it most often attacks those over forty."

In common with most of the other speakers at the symposium, Dr. Charles A. Dukes of Oakland, Cal., pleaded for the substitution of a psychology of hope for that of fear in cancer victims and their families. Formerly, he pointed out, tuberculosis victims were possessed of the same psychology of fear, of waiting for inevitable death. Today knowledge of the treatment of tuberculosis has given its victims an attitude of faith when they place themselves in the hands of a physician.

MEDICAL SCIENCE HAILS GLOWWORM AS ANESTHETIST

Before the twelfth annual congress of anesthetists at the Congress hotel yesterday Dr. Andre Crotti of Columbus, O., hailed the glowworm as the first anesthetist. Study of the insect might aid medicine, he added.

Dr. Crotti revealed that the glowworm anesthetises or paralyzes its prey by stinging it. If for some reason the insect does not devour the victim, it revives with no ill effects much the same way as a patient recovers from an anesthetic.

"We have not yet discovered the perfect anesthetic for humans," Dr. Crotti said. "At present I have found nitrous oxide to be the nearest approach to perfection."

Dr. Frank Herbert of Kansas City discussed the importance of anesthesia as an aid to surgery and its part in saving life. Different types of persons react to anesthesia various ways and if the anesthetist makes proper preparation and study of a case he will be the surgeon's first assistant and his aid to the patient will be invaluable, he declared.

Honor Columbus in City He Told First of America

BARCELONA, Oct. 11.—(AP)—In the city where King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella received Christopher Columbus on his triumphal return from America United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers, on the eve of Columbus day, addressed American and Spanish residents. Bowers told his hearers that "the so-called dollar diplomacy is over."

BILLINGS ASKS PAROLE; PRISON PAL OF MOONEY

Folsom Prison, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP)—After spending sixteen years in prison waiting for a pardon and rejecting other opportunities of clemency, Warren K. Billings, who with Thomas J. Mooney, was convicted of bombing the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day parade, applied today for a parole.

The case will be considered by the state board in December.

Romance played a part. Warden Court Smith said there was "a possibility." Billings would marry Madaline Weiland if released.

The clock turned back forty years at the Fair yesterday, and bustles and beards promenaded the wide tree shaded walks and filled the spacious court of the Hall of Science to the romantic strains of songs of the gay nineties. It was Columbian Exposition day at A Century of Progress Exposition, and thousands of old timers came back to see what kind of a Fair these "youngsters" were putting on.

It was a program of highlights that was presented in the Science court, and ten thousand visitors packing the seats and crowding the ramps applauded constantly. Perhaps one of the most touching bits was the unfurling of President Grover Cleveland's flag, the same flag which waved from the Administration building while President Cleveland opened the old Fair. It was the first flying of a presidential flag west of the Alleghanies, and is now the property of Western Reserve academy, Hudson, O.

Flag Custodian Compares Fairs.

Capt. James Hunt, in charge of flags at the old Fair, did the honors and then paused to entertain reporters with tales of the old Fair. While he was conversing President Cleveland delivered his speech, the same speech of forty years ago, but the robust figure of the President was that of Lester Luther, Fair actor.

Only 20 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair

"There is no comparison between the two Fairs," Capt. Hunt said. "Both are beautiful; both are wonderful. It is silly to compare them, for they are so different. All that I can say is that each is the best of its kind. Considering the difficulties encountered the management of this Fair deserves the heartfelt thanks of the city."

After the President's speech, R. I. Randolph introduced the distinguished guests. There were Carter H. Harrison Sr., the mayor; H. N. Higinbotham, president of the Columbian Exposition; Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, Princess Eulalie of Spain, and many others. The guests arose, smiling through their beards or holding rustling skirts in dainty hands, and received the applause.

Then the entertainment commenced. All the acts that had our grandparents hanging on the ropes were repeated. Lillian Russell was there as was Sandow, the strong man. Buffalo Bill and Annie Oakley enthralled the modern audience.

The audience, more used to hot-cha radio numbers, wildly applauded the Four Night Hawks when that quartet, replete with chin whiskers and checkered suits, sang and played "After the Ball Is Over" and "On a Bicycle Built for Two," tunes from the "Black Crook" and other numbers that recalled 1893.

Interspersed with the vaudeville numbers and beer garden singers were numbers presented by the U. S. Marine band. Included in its program were "America," "Liberty Bell," "Blue Danube," and "Old Timers' Waltz." The program ended with a daredevil exhibition of roller skating and bicycle riding. The Fair visitors, probably bored to some extent with the fan dancers, applauded the dancers from the "Black Crook," who daringly appeared in pink tights.

Columbian Guards Parade.

Prior to the formal program the old Columbian guards, who answered the call a hundred strong, members of the '93 association, and a score of stage coaches and old time buggies paraded through the grounds. Among the honor guests were the three surviving firemen of the fire of 1871. They were Isaac M. Adler, 92 years old, 6912 South Shore drive; George Leady, 88 years old, 5330 Bishop street, and Charles Schroeder, 97 years old, 2106 Fremont street.

The parade was led by the U. S. Army band from Camp Whistler, an army escort, and the U. S. Marine corps band. During the day the Columbian guards were guests of the Fair at a luncheon and were received informally at the Illinois Host house by Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan.

The attendance at 11:30 p. m. was 142,386.

Today the clock will turn back to the landing of Columbus in observance of Columbus day at the Fair. The opening scene will be the landing at the Hall of Science pier of Columbus and his crew, arriving in three boats of the lagoon fleet. Costumed members of the crew, Indians from the various villages at the Fair, and the appearance of the army troops and the Marine band will aid in the presentation of a colorful ceremony.

SCHOOLS CLOSE TODAY, SEE FAIR, CHILDREN URGED

Programs in honor of Columbus, discoverer of the western world, were given in most of Chicago's schools yesterday. The schools will be closed today, Columbus day, and Superintendent of Schools Bogan urged the pupils to attend A Century of Progress, where appropriate ceremonies are to be held.

Six hundred Catholic school children of the south side will participate this afternoon in a Columbus day celebration to be held at Chicago Normal college, 68th street and Normal avenue, which will begin at 2 o'clock. The celebration will include a program of patriotic songs and music. Speakers will include the Rev. James Shannon, Judge James J. Kelly, and J. J. Sheehan.

BOTH SIDES ARE "SORRY"; SETTLE BLUENOSE SUIT

The $5,000 damage suit brought by Addison Stillwell, wealthy Chicago lumberman, against the owners of the Canadian fishing schooner Bluenose and its captain, Angus J. Walters, was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. Attorneys for both sides told the court that the suit had been settled out of court.

Stillwell had charged that he and a party of guests had been forced to leave the vessel after chartering it for a cruise early in the summer. The suit charged that the captain and crew had subjected the guests to indignities that led them to fear physical violence.

Attorneys revealed that mutual expressions of regret by both principals had marked the settlement. "I am sorry if any trouble was caused by me or my guests," was the trend of a letter dispatched by Stillwell to Capt. Walters. "If any trouble was caused for you or your guests by me or my crew, I am sorry," said a letter from Capt. Walters to Stillwell.

ALBANY PARKERS AND BROOKFIELD FLOCK TO FAIR

Attend Programs Staged by Their Neighbors.

Albany Park and Brookfield, two busy commercial and home communities, were practically deserted last night as some ten thousand residents converged on the Fair to visit the exhibits, parade the avenues, and present programs of music, pageantry and speeches. Residents of both communities, observing their day at the Fair, entered the Court of Honor almost simultaneously in the afternoon and paraded along the Avenue of Flags.

The Albany Park program opened in the Court of States at 4 o'clock with a concert by the Roosevelt High School band, a children's chorus of 170, the 39th ward drum and bugle corps, star and flag drills.

In the evening a second program was given before an audience of five thousand in the court of the Hall of Science. The Albany Park symphony orchestra, the North Park Men's Glee club, and John Petrie's ballet of forty were among the groups participating. The Albany Park beauty queen, Miss Lillian Horwitz, 4839 North Troy street, was presented.

The Brookfield formal program was held at 7 p. m. in the Court of States. C. W. Horak, chairman of the day, arranged for 25 motor buses to carry the visitors to the Fair, but the crowd was so great that seven buses made a second trip.

A concert by the Riverside-Brookfield High school band opened the program, and a series of dance numbers and solos followed. John A. Pinner, president of the village, crowned queen of the day, Miss Florence Lieberz, and presented her two maids of honor, Miss Ruth Fanning, and Miss Evelyn Hall.

Start Counting Machine to Show What a Billion Is

At 3 p. m. yesterday an electrical device was set in motion at the Museum of Science and Industry which started counting numbers at the rate of five a second. The purpose of the exhibit is to give the visitor some idea of what we mean when we speak in terms of billions. Running 24 hours a day, the device will reach ten billions in 1936.

BATTERY B CLUB TO BANQUET.

The Battery B Club, Inc., will hold its 14th annual anniversary banquet at 123d field artillery armory today. Plans will be discussed for the dedication of the 123d field artillery memorial to be erected at Lake Shore drive and North avenue.

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The Royal Scot, crack train of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, which has been on exhibition at the Fair, left yesterday for a 7,500 mile tour of the United States. Accompanying the train on the start of its tour was the Aristocrat, prize train of the Burlington lines. The Scot will be shipped from Montreal on Nov. 22 for return to the British isles.

Miss Mary A. White, 69 years old, Fulton, Ill., arrived in Chicago yesterday to visit the Fair. Miss White was wearing a silk dress she purchased from Charles A. Stevens at the Fair of 1893. The dress has been made over twice and is still in good condition.

Fifteen train sections on the New York Central railroad were required to bring in visitors to the Fair yesterday. This equals August and September records for mid-week travel.

War injured veterans at Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital will be given an opportunity to see the Fair on Sunday. It is expected that more than five hundred veterans from the hospital will be conveyed to the Fair in a fleet of motor buses.

Canadian railway companies have offered a special round trip rate of $12 from Montreal to Chicago for the week-end. It will be the last excursion trip at such low rates for residents of eastern Canada wishing to visit A Century of Progress Exposition.

U. S. COURT CALLS BANKERS IN QUIZ ON "INSULL FUND"

Witnesses Give Testimony on Eftax Accounts.

Subpoenas for Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board, and Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, defendant in a suit to impound an account alleged to be that of Samuel Insull, were issued in the United States District court late yesterday. Attorney Samuel Ettelson, counsel for Gus Lowry, the plaintiff in the action, obtained an order for the subpoenas from Federal Judge John P. Barnes after the bank concluded testimony and announced itself ready to argue a motion to dismiss the suit.

Witnesses for the defense had testified that Samuel Insull, the fugitive former utilities magnate, never had an account in the bank and that securities in the account of Constantine S. Eftax, former Chicago druggist, were purchased by Eftax from Hornblower & Weeks, brokers. The Lowry bill alleges that the securities were transferred from an Insull account to the Eftax account.

Wants to Quiz Bankers.

Attorney Ettelson argued that there was nothing in the testimony to show that Eftax did not lend his name to Insull and demanded an opportunity to question Fenton and Harris.

Mr. Ettelson also wished time, he told the court, to study the records of the Corporation Securities company, Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Eftax accounts, both trust and checking, all of which were introduced by bank witnesses. He was given until 10 o'clock this morning for this study.

Charles J. Roubik, assistant secretary of the bank, told of the opening of the Eftax trust account on Feb. 3, 1932, and identified 47 certificates of deposit and the ledger sheets showing withdrawals. No valuation upon the stocks was shown, but the bank's answer contends that the account never exceeded $150,000, while the bill of complaint alleges the par value was in excess of $1,000,000.

Identifies Eftax Photograph.

Walter S. Moe, an employé of Hornblower & Weeks, the brokerage house, identified a list purporting to show that securities in the Eftax account were purchased by Eftax from his concern. He also identified a newspaper photograph of Eftax, who, he said, had been doing business with the concern since 1920.

The mystery surrounding the gold hoard of Eftax was cleared up by Paul N. Mitchell, a trust officer of the bank who has charge of the Eftax account. He said he purchased $15,000 in gold coin on instructions from the customer and deposited it in a safe deposit box. The keys for the box were placed in Eftax's trust account and Mitchell said that perhaps a dozen officers of the bank might have access to the gold.

"Mr. Eftax must have received special consideration. Do you know of any other safe deposit box to which a dozen officers have access?" asked Attorney Ettelson. The witness said he did not.

Letters to Eftax, explaining that the department of justice takes the position that the gold should be turned in and that a license from the secretary of the treasury will be necessary to export it to Greece, were produced by Mitchell. Eftax wrote to the bank that he needed the gold to make good on a contract.

Extradition Hearing Delayed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 11.—Prosecutor Anthony Reganakos of the Greek Appeals court said today the hearing on the United States government's request for the extradition of Samuel Insull had been delayed and could not come up before next Wednesday, because the Appeals court will be busy with other cases until then. The prosecutor said he had unofficially forwarded the documents against Insull to the president of the Appeals court today.

Reganakos, in an interview with THE TRIBUNE, said Insull would be extradited. "He should have been extradited last year," he asserted. The prosecutor predicted that the hearing would be completed in five or six hours.

Insull told visitors today that he and his lawyers were ready for the hearing. He seemed jubilant over depositions and papers he had received from Chicago which, he believes, will prove that he is not guilty of fraudulent bankruptcy in connection with the handling of funds of his companies.

Those on the other side believe that the evidence against Insull is sufficient for extradition and that the acts of which he is accused constitute a violation of both Greek and American bankruptcy laws. Greek legal experts say the documents prove the charges conclusively.

Forrest Harness, assistant United States attorney general, who has been in close touch with the Greek ministry of justice, said: "I have had splendid coöperation from all the Greek government officials."

Bets were offered again today at 6 to 4 that Insull will not be extradited.

PASTOR IS CHARGED WITH MURDER, THEN HIDDEN BY OFFICERS

Jonesboro, Ark., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A minister, hidden by officers who feared for his life, today was charged with murder after the death of an aged janitor, who was wounded in gunfire that renewed the oft repeated clashes for control of the Jonesboro Baptist tabernacle.

The Rev. Dale S. Crowley, fiery pastor of the tabernacle, was formally charged with murder shortly after the death of J. W. MacMurdro. Officers also investigated the possibility that more than one gun was used in fatally wounding MacMurdo in the tabernacle yesterday.

Crowley was spirited away to a nearby jail, the location of which was kept a close secret, after officers said he admitted shooting MacMurdro, claiming the janitor fired at him first when the pastor went to take possession of the building under a court order.

MacMurdro, a follower of the Rev. Joe Jeffers, an evangelist now in Miami, Fla., who has disputed control of the tabernacle with Crowley, was quoted by officers as saying he did not attack Crowley but was shot in "cold blood."

ROOSEVELT'S SON AND WIFE VISIT BRITISH LEADERS

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(AP)—James and Betty Roosevelt, who have been visiting the scenes of their honeymoon here three years ago, will leave tomorrow or Friday for Paris. Mr. Roosevelt is the eldest son of the American President.

The couple plan to leave the French capital Sunday for a motor trip through eastern France, Switzerland, and Italy, and expect to sail for home from Naples Nov. 1.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, and Winston Churchill have been among the prominent persons seen by Mr. Roosevelt during the last ten days. He also has visited with old friends, including Lady Oxford.

The President's son insists that he is on no mission of any nature, and he refuses to answer any political questions.

100 New Policemen to Join City Force Tomorrow

One hundred new policemen will be added to the police department tomorrow, Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday. The men, who will fill vacancies which have occurred since Jan. 1, will report for a final physical examination tomorrow before reporting to the police school of instruction.

40 POUND TURKEY IS CHAMPION AT POULTRY SHOW

NRA Blue Eagle was selected yesterday at the 25th annual Coliseum Poultry exposition as the outstanding turkey of the Chicago show and a fitting 40 pound bird for President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving dinner. The bronze gobbler is the product of the Michigan State Agricultural college farm at East Lansing, Mich., and has been offered to the President for a holiday feast. The turkey now is on exhibit in a special cage at the exposition.

One of the important awards yesterday named Dr. Edward L. Dennison of Ainsworth, Ind., the "White Leghorn King of America," when he won the Gov. Horner trophy in competition with 300 entries from 15 states. Grand champions in the waterfowl department include the best goose, exhibited by Mrs. Frank E. Walbrant, Elkhorn, Wis., and the best duck, shown by Miss Ruth Adams, Alexandria, Ill.

The following pigeon championships were announced: Frank Brabec, Chicago, English pouter blue; George W. Witucke, Chicago, muff tumblers; E. Altpeter, Milwaukee, fantail; William A. Meyer, Cincinnati, black maltese; E. L. Winn, Atlanta, Ga., modena; William Westus, St. Louis, owl variety; William Andree, Schenectady, N. Y., barb; W. E. Schultz, Memphis, Tenn., pygmy pouter, and John M. Roeder, Indianapolis, English pouter.

in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all." Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

GIVES CHRYSLER EMPLOYES EQUAL VOICE IN PLANTS

Represented 50–50 on Joint Management.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—In a plan which was announced today by Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler corporation, shop employés of that corporation are given an equal voice with the management in deciding jointly the wages and working conditions.

Acceptance was voted by 80 per cent of the shopmen in a general referendum. More than 28,000 affirmative ballots were cast out of a total of nearly 33,000.

Joint shop councils are provided for the various plants, which are divided into voting districts. Employés in each district elect by secret ballot those employé representatives who are to serve on a joint council with an equal number of management representatives.

Employés and management representatives have equal voting power and a two-thirds vote is necessary to decide any question. This joint body in each plant has the power to dispose of any questions which cannot be settled between the employé and his supervisory official.

Mr. Chrysler's Statement.

In offering the plan to employés Mr. Chrysler said:

"As a former shopworker I have looked forward to the time when the employés and the management of Chrysler corporation would sit down around a table to discuss and decide matters of mutual interest to all of us.

"It seems to me that this company has now reached such a degree of understanding and mutual respect between employés and management that we can consider together practical means of giving effect to a plan which I believe will insure lasting cooperation, good will and prompt, fair settlement of any questions that may arise among us.

"I have enough confidence in the fairness of men to believe that when they know facts and have an equal voice in deciding matters that concern them they will come to decisions that are fair and reasonable."

Twofold Purpose.

Its purpose is twofold, he said.

"First, to establish a mutually satisfactory way of settling any difficulties which may arise between employés and management, including rates of pay, shop rules, working conditions, safety, hours of labor, plant sanitation, employés' transportation and recreation.

"Second, to provide a means of friendly and lasting coöperation between employés and management on the basis of mutual confidence and understanding."

OREGON PASTOR CALLED TO 1ST PRESBYTERIAN

Portland, Ore., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Harold Leonard Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Portland for the last 13 years, tonight received a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago.

A telegram he received at the conclusion of a meeting of the congregation of the Chicago church informed Dr. Bowman that he was the unanimous choice of its 2,300 members. Dr. Bowman stated tonight that he will announce his acceptance of rejection of the call within the next few days. Dr. Bowman was pastor of the Woodlawn Park Presbyterian church of Chicago before he came to Portland in 1920.

Convicted of Slaying of Prohibition Agent

Missoula, Mont., Oct. 11.—(AP)—W. C. Cates, 42, tonight was convicted of the murder of Paul Read, federal prohibition agent, by a jury which deliberated four hours. Read was fatally shot by Cates last July as he stood on the running board of Cates' automobile after Cates had been arrested for alleged possession of liquor. Judge Theodore Lentz said he will sentence Cates Friday.

GRANTED TIME TO APPEAL.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Maurice Meyer, 25, who was sentenced in June to 90 years in the penitentiary in the murder of Rose Gendler, was today allowed 90 additional days to file a bill for an appeal to the Supreme court.

President Orders Plans for Meeting Dry Repeal

Repeal to End 4 Taxes

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—One of the first effects of abolishing the 18th amendment will be the automatic repeal of certain special taxes included in the revenue act of 1932 and the national industrial recovery act. These taxes are:

The additional one-half cent tax on gasoline, the tax on dividends in the NRA, the capital stock tax in the NRA, and the excess profits tax in the NRA.

Repeal of these taxes is automatic under the law. If prohibition is repealed before Jan. 1, the President must so proclaim and the taxes are repealed. Should repeal not come before Jan. 1, the taxes would continue until Jan. 1, 1935, unless set aside by congress at an earlier date.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—In the expectation that the eighteenth amendment would be repealed on Dec. 5, the administration today rounded out its plan to meet the situation.

Shortly after it became known at the White House that President Roosevelt planned to coördinate the work of federal agencies that have been studying repeal, the departments and bureaus moved to meet the President's wishes by designating members of an interdepartmental committee to collate studies and draft recommendations for the President.

Independently the agencies have been making their own studies and recently they have been exchanging experiences informally. It was regarded as probable that the committee the President will designate to draft recommendations would be composed of those who have already been designated by their departments, with perhaps some additions.

Departmental Representatives.

The representatives are:

Edward G. Lowry, special assistant to the secretary of the treasury.

Dr. J. M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol.

M. D. Kiefer, attorney in the department of justice.

J. D. Nevius of the customs bureau.

Florida's four-to-one vote in favor of repeal had other reflexes in Washington today:

Postmaster General Farley said he was confident that all six states that vote on repeal on Nov. 7—Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Utah—"will take their place in the repeal parade."

Shouse Urges Control Laws.

Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, sent a telegram to the governors of nine states in which the sale of liquor will be permissible immediately upon repeal, but which have adopted no control laws, urging them to call special sessions of their legislatures to pass necessary control laws.

Federal agencies have been studying the repeal question from several angles. They have been trying to ascertain the legal status on Dec. 5, at which time they expect repeal to be achieved, with the ratification in convention by the 36th state; the effect of the abolition of $227,000,000 in special taxes which automatically die with repeal; the extent to which the federal government may go in indicating a model liquor control law by adopting one for the District of Columbia; what new legislation will be needed to derive desired and desirable revenue from the liquor traffic and what measures will be necessary to protect the government against evasion of revenue laws.

Embraced in the study is an effort to determine at what amount to fix the domestic tax, which now is $1.10 a gallon, and the import duty, which now is $5 a gallon. In addition to the bureaus and departments making that study, the legislative branch of the government is also at work.

Robinson Tells of Work.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, said at the White House that repeal legislation was being studied. The house ways and means committee will begin hearings in a few weeks. The joint committee on internal revenue is conducting a study of repeal legislation and Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, has a study of revenue legislation under way.

The department of justice has indicated that it believes the Webb-Kenyon act and the Reed amendment, one prohibiting importation of whisky into a dry state and the other prohibiting whisky advertising from flooding dry states, are sufficient to afford the protection to dry states which the President promised.

The department is interested in enforcement methods, prosecutions, and penalties, and has made studies touching various questions.

Treasury Studies Revenues.

The treasury is studying revenues, internal and customs, and methods of collection; the commerce department and the department of state are studying importation and its ramifications; the tariff commission is studying the protection end of it; the commissioner of industrial alcohol has been giving thought to the permits for manufacture and release of alcohol to the trade.

NORMAN THOMAS SEES U. S. DRIFT TOWARD FASCISM

An American form of Fascism is probable unless manual and brain workers combine in an economic and political organization, Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for President, told an audience of students at the University of Chicago last night. He spoke in Mandel hall.

Mr. Thomas asserted that the greatest dangers confronting recovery lie in the backwardness of the social organization. He declared that there must exist a competent political organization and also an organization of consumers, the latter as a protection against price profiteering.

"To continue without these organizations is to invite disaster, probably in the form of an American version of Fascism," said Mr. Thomas. "I can see no reason to expect an immunity to Fascism in America."

FLORIDA IS 33D STATE TO GO WET; 3 MORE NEEDED

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—By a margin of 4 to 1, Florida today was swept into the repeal column as the 33d consecutive state to repudiate the prohibition amendment.

With 131 of the state's 1,272 precincts unreported, the count is for repeal, 93,934; against, 23,420.

Although Florida thus became one of the highest ranking wet states in the south, it was estimated that not more than a third of the electorate had gone to the polls, foreseeing the outcome of the balloting. Delegates elected by the vote will meet in convention Nov. 14 and formally ratify repeal.

COUNCIL CHEERS SEYFERLICH AS FIRE DEPT. HEAD

Two appointments were submitted to the city council yesterday by Mayor Kelly and approved. They were the appointments of Arthur R. Seyferlich, former chief fire marshal, as fire commissioner and Michael Iarussi as a member of the board of directors of the public library.

The Seyferlich appointment was applauded by the council, most of the members of which are well acquainted with the new fire commissioner, who had served in the department for 37 years prior to his resignation in 1927. Commissioner Seyferlich announced that he intends to take steps to lessen Chicago's fire losses, and that he plans to redistrict the outlying fire companies to provide better protection for the localities which they serve.

By a rising vote the council adopted a resolution of condolence on the death of William L. Veeck, who was president of the Chicago National league ball team.

SENATORS HEAR DILLON PROFITS IN BRAZIL DEAL

Sale of Bonds and Public Works Are Sources.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A story that Clarence Dillon's private banking house, Dillion, Read & Co., and his family profited by the lending and spending of a $12,000,000 issue of Rio de Janeiro bonds now in default was unfolded today before the senate banking committee.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee, turned today to foreign flotations.

Pecora also brought out that Senator William G. McAdoo [Dem., Cal.], a former secretary of the treasury, was counsel for Dillon, Read & Co. in floating the Rio de Janeiro bonds sold to American investors, beginning with 1921. He then was not in public office.

Defends Investments.

The previous hearing had been concerned with two Dillion-Read investment trusts and their loses in stocks in which directors were interested.

President Dillon of that banking house testified today on that matter. He agreed most of those millions in losses were in stocks of companies in which various directors were interested. He said, however, the securities were purchased because they then were considered good investments and not because of the directors.

Brazilian Deal Details.

The story of the Brazilian city's bonds came from Robert O. Hayward, a Dillon-Read partner, who was the next witness. Hayward said he expected those bonds to be paid eventually.

Pecora and Hayward between them disclosed that the city of Rio de Janeiro was paid $10,850,000 for its bond issue, which sold for just under $22,000,000 in this country. It was shown $5,000,000 of the loan was to that city for leveling a hill in slum clearance work.

Hayward said Dillon-Read recommended, at the request of the city, Leonard Kennedy & Co. for the hill development work without a public call for bids and with payment on a cost plus basis.

Own Kennedy Company.

The witness, Hayward, he added under close examination by Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and Pecora that Dillon's family owned 45 per cent of Kennedy & Co. Pecora subsequently developed that approximately $9,000,000 of the loan went into the development.

Just what profits Kennedy & Co. made were not disclosed. Hayward explained that he did not know.

Dillon-Read, he said, took over the Rio de Janeiro bonds at $89, sold them to a banking group at $91, for a profit of about $369,000. The banking group passed them along to a syndicate for distribution at $93.75 and the public paid $97.75.

Hayward said the Brazilians are working on a plan which he thought would provide for a "partial resumption" of service payments on the bonds in the near future.

U. of C. Student Shot when He Resists Pair of Bandits

Frank Blackburn, 31 years old, 1326 East 57th street, a student at the University of Chicago, was shot in the right wrist this morning when he resisted two bandits whom he believed to be fellow students playing a joke. His wife, Jeanette, also a student, was with him. The couple were walking to their home when the gunmen stopped them in front of 1311 East 57th street. Blackburn laughed and reached for the gun of one of the men. The man fired. Both fled. Blackburn was taken to the Billings Memorial hospital.

McKee Pledges Economies, Reforms in First Speech

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Joseph V. McKee, independent candidate for mayor, tonight opened his campaign at Cooper Union in a speech in which he declared for political independence and pledged sweeping reforms and economies if elected.

Mr. McKee presented a platform calling for unification of the city subways if possible and recapture if necessary to save the five cent fare. He promised the police department a free hand to combat crime and racketeering and, declaring the schools of the city were "riddled with politics," pledged himself to a thorough reorganization of the board of education.

He said that if elected he would "eliminate every dollar of unnecessary expense and every unnecessary job" through a structural reorganization of the municipal government.

Pledges Adequate Relief.

The candidate pledged adequate provision for the idle and gave his "sacred word" that no funds appropriated for relief would find their way "into the pockets of politicians or their henchmen and favorites."

He characterized Tammany Hall as an "arrogant organization" which seeks to transform New York City into a "walled-in hunting reserve." John P. O'Brien, the Tammany candidate for mayor, Mr. McKee declared, was a "well intentioned but impotent figure."

Fiorello H. La Guardia, his opponent on the fusion ticket, Mr. McKee declared, suffered from a record of "opportunism, instability, and explosiveness unparalleled in politics," and was a man willing to run on any ticket to gain public office.

"I am against government by fury as I am against government by Curry," Mr. McKee declared.

Mr. McKee's declaration of war upon Tammany Leader John F. Curry brought a flurry of applause, as did the former aldermanic president's reference to Samuel Seabury, city investigator and fusion leader, as "the depository of all civic virtue."

Declares He's Independent.

In reference to Edward J. Flynn, Bronx, Democratic leader who, with the help of James A. Farley, state and national Democratic chairman, tossed Mr. McKee's hat into the ring, the candidate delivered a declaration of independence in these words:

"I stand today committed to no political leader, whether the support has come early or late."

It would have been "quixotic" for him to have run for mayor a year ago when only that office was to be filled, Mr. McKee told his audience, explaining that even though he had been elected every reform he advocated would have been "hamstrung" by a Tammany controlled board of estimate.

Likewise, Mr. McKee said, it was impossible for him to accept a fusion nomination for mayor this year, even if one had been offered, without placing himself under obligation to Samuel S. Koenig, former Republican leader of New York county, "whom the decent Republicans have just driven from power."

Republicans Back McKee.

United States Marshal Raymond J. Mulligan, former Republican leader of the middle part of the Third Manhattan assembly district, came out for Mr. McKee, as did Horace A. Damarest, a Republican leader in the Jackson Heights section of Queens, and Milton Sittenfield, former law associate of Koenig.

A Republican committee for Mr. McKee and his associates is in process of formation by Alan Fox, a leading figure in the National Republican club, and Louis Boehm, former president of the Riverside Republican club.

There were no further open developments in the Brooklyn Democratic situation and it appeared that the district leaders were divided twelve to twelve for Mayor O'Brien, the Tammany candidate, and Mr. McKee.

McCooey Sticks to Guns.

John McCooey, the veteran Tammany leader in Brooklyn, confined to his home by a cold today, persisted in his militant stand for O'Brien, despite desertion by many of his leaders.

"The choice of the regular Democratic organization of the city was John P. O'Brien," McCooey said. "He should be every Democrat's choice. He should be McKee's choice. He is my choice, first, last, and all the time, and he will be elected."

PAROLED ON TWO OF FIVE CHARGES; SEEKS RELEASE

Arnold Greenbush, who several years ago was convicted of committing a series of robberies, is seeking to be released by a writ of habeas corpus sought before Circuit Judge H. H. Armstrong of Champaign, Ill., it was learned yesterday. At the time Greenbush was sentenced on five robbery charges, the sentences to run concurrently. Recently the pardon board, according to the claim of Greenbush's attorney, released the convict on two of his sentences, but ruled that he must serve more time on the other three sentences. It is contended that the order of the board affects all sentences at once and that the granting of a release on any sentence gives Greenbush his liberty on all of them. A decision will be rendered Saturday.

FORGET FEAR!

Your teeth and gums are as safe as a dentifrice can make them, when Squibb's Dental Cream guards The Danger Line★!

CONSTANT worrying won't prevent pyorrhea, bleeding gums and other mouth ills. But simple, practical care will. See your dentist and let him put your teeth in sound condition. Then follow up his expert treatment by brushing your teeth at least twice a day with Squibb's Dental Cream.

In five important ways, Squibb's protects teeth and gums. It cleans effectively and polishes safely, with absolute freedom from grit. It prevents bleeding of the gums by safe cleansing—not by the use of dangerous astringents. It combats the germ acids that cause tooth-decay. And its use is true economy.

You'll enjoy the clean, refreshing taste of Squibb's. But most of all you'll enjoy the sense of security that comes from using a dentifrice you can trust.

★The Danger Line is the area where the thin edge of the gum encircles each tooth, forming tiny ledges, difficult to reach by brushing. Here food particles collect and bacteria multiply, generating acids. Not one, but all your teeth are endangered by unhealthy gums. When you use Squibb's Dental Cream, you force into the sheltered areas countless antacid particles which combat the germ acids and protect the gums.

U. S. BARS DEAL TO FORCE ARMS PACT ON GERMANY

Refuses to Join in Another Versailles "Diktat."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—A warning to France and Great Britain that the disarmament convention being hatched in the dark here must not be another Versailles "diktat" imposed on Germany by force was delivered today by Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large.

Davis appeared at the Hotel Beau Rivage along the lake shore this afternoon as a more or less self-invited guest to a private palaver going on in the quarters of the British delegation between Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, each backed up by a pair of military experts.

Davis Deals Self In.

The conference had been going on all morning and was starting up again after lunch when Davis called up and in his easy drawl allowed he would not mind sitting in on the game for a while. Paul-Boncour and Sir John were obliged to say they would be delighted, and in a few minutes the Tennessean showed up with his own experts.

All then went into a huddle on the problem of just what weapons and how many of them Germany is going to be allowed to have. This is the only problem around here that matters these days.

By one of those lightning changes of false whiskers which makes the progress of these negotiations harder to follow than the meandering of a rubber pea among walnut shells, Uncle Sam has been brought forth as the champion of German rearmament and John Bull as the one who hits the table and says "No."

Tries to Draw Out Allies.

The American armaments formula revealed by THE TRIBUNE yesterday was used as a basis for discussion today and Davis attempted to draw from the allies how much of this formula they are willing to allow. Yesterday he tried to get Rudolf Nodolny, German representative here, to state how little Germany is willing to accept.

In this connection, despite renewed denials, THE TRIBUNE correspondent is able to confirm the accuracy of the plan cabled last night and to clarify certain features which were obscure then.

It is not, of course, really a plan for German rearmament. It is a plan or model for the organization of an army of 200,000 men with the standardized heavy equipment which such an army might reasonably require. As such the offer is a yardstick by which the Germans can measure their needs in artillery, observation planes, heavy machine guns, tanks, and other weapons now forbidden them.

A Basis for Argument.

It gives them a basis for formulating "reasonable demands." The United States is not suggesting that Germany should have all the armaments set forth in the plan. But it is generally agreed that Germany must have some.

Owing to the way Chancellor Hitler is committed at home, it is the feeling of the American delegation that no convention will be signed by Germany unless at the end of the trial period she has at least samples of all "nonaggressive" weapons possessed by her neighbors.

The United States is categorically opposed to giving the Germans even sample weapons during the trial period, and the Germans are not insisting very hard. What is most important for them is the assurance that they are to get the arms when they have finished transforming the reichswehr [regular army] into a short term militia in three or four years.

Davis Outlines Stand.

In conversations today Davis is reported to have taken the stand that it is necessary to negotiate any treaty with the Germans on the basis of armaments and concessions asked by them and accorded to a greater or lesser degree by the former allies.

Any attempt to reach a hard and fast agreement among the other nations beforehand and to impose it on the Germans afterward would defeat the whole purpose of the disarmament conference, Davis is understood to have argued.

The French did not raise the howl expected over this proposition, but the British were surprisingly intransigent. The supple and conciliatory policy revealed yesterday in talks with the Germans has hardened over night with the return of Sir John. The British now take the stand that this is a disarmament conference, not a rearmament conference. A few days ago they were the principal supporters of the German demand for sample weapons.

Reason for Change Mystery.

What caused this change in the British attitude is not generally known. A possible explanation is that in this morning's conversation with Sir John, Paul-Boncour warned him that if Germany got more arms Britain would have to furnish stiffer sanctions.

The situation now is not clear and a sort of deadlock between the Americans and the British seems to exist.

The conference has become so complex and so tortuous that nobody really knows what any one else's game is. Every delegation is lying shamelessly and exhaustively to the home and foreign press and to some or all of the other delegations.

HITLER GUNMEN TRY TO GET LEAGUE LIST OF GERMAN PACIFISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—League of nations circles were seething with indignation tonight over what Geneva sees as a Nazi plot to get possession of the names and addresses of thousands of German pacifists on file here. What use the Nazis would make of this list of "traitors" is not known, but their eagerness to obtain it is considered sinister.

The names and addresses are attached to various petitions and resolutions favoring disarmament which were showered upon Geneva from all over the world when the disarmament conference opened a year and a half ago.

It was learned today that some days ago Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda and enlightenment, and his bodyguard of gunmen burst into the hall where the documents are displayed and demanded that the German ones be removed at once and handed over. Despite the menacing attitude of the Nazi gorillas, the league official responsible for looking after the exhibition—a young Canadian girl—refused to be intimidated.

It was also learned that Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, had received a letter from Nazi headquarters in Germany requesting removal of the German petitions. The letter specifically added the documents with their attached list of names should not be destroyed, but turned over to the Nazis.

U. S. ASKS NAZIS ABOUT ATTACKS ON YANKS AGAIN

Hull Acts After Another Assault on American.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—An endeavor to find out just how far the German government is carrying out its promises to prosecute and punish Nazi storm troopers guilty of attacks on Americans was made tonight by the state department soon after the latest report of such an assault.

Secretary of State Hull said he is especially interested in the disposition of the German authorities to make arrests and furnish protection at the time an attack is threatened or committed and in the dispatch with which the prosecution is conducted, punishment meted out and proper amends made.

An official report from the American consul general at Berlin, George S. Messersmith, said Roland Velz, a native American in business in Germany, complained that at Duesseldorf on Oct. 8 he was struck twice in the face by a Nazi storm trooper without provocation.

Demand Made for Punishment.

The department was informed that when Velz complained to a police lieutenant that official "refused to take action, but informed Mr. Velz that the assault must have been his own fault."

The incident, Hull said, has been made the subject of the very fullest representations to German authorities including a demand for prompt apprehension of the offenders and proper punishment.

Going farther than this, the state department undertook through its representatives in Germany to make a detailed check on the status of the prosecution in connection with previously reported cases of this type. Officials said they numbered at least twelve.

Predicts Early Adjustment.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A high official of the foreign office expressed the opinion tonight that differences between the United States and Germany concerning assaults on Americans could be adjusted quickly.

"It is extremely difficult to apprehend assailants, but we are doing everything possible to hasten the prosecution of cases," the official said.

Neither the American embassy nor the German foreign office was aware tonight of any instructions from Secretary of State Hull in Washington regarding the status of prosecutions against assailants of Americans.

"I expect instructions to arrive during the night," said United States Ambassador William E. Dodd. "The embassy of its own accord last Thursday addressed a formal note to the foreign office along the same lines as indicated by Secretary Hull, but no reply has been received."

A foreign office spokesman explained that on account of the illness of the chief of the American section, Hans Dieckhoff, the draft of the reply to the American embassy had been delayed.

Foreign Lawyers Protest as Nazi Court Ousts 'Firebug'

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Foreign attorneys tonight protested against the exclusion of Georgi Dimitroff, one of the five defendants, from the sessions of the court which for more than three weeks past has been attempting to solve the mystery of the reichstag fire last February.

Dimitroff, whose fiery attacks against court procedure have brought him into difficulties throughout the course of the hearing, was ejected today from the committee room of the reichstag building, where the hearings are being held at present.

His removal followed a verbal battle with the presiding judge, Wilhelm Buenger, who had just finished announcing the day's program. Dimitroff immediately arose and asked, "Your honor, may I put a question?"

Denied Right to Speak.

Judge Buenger denied him the floor and Dimitroff protested:

"But I am not only a defendant; I am also my own counsel and I have a right to put a question!"

Buenger and the rest of the court got up, left the room, and discussed the matter in private. When they returned they ordered Dimitroff excluded.

Arthur Garfield Hays of New York and Leo Gallegher, another American attorney, are listed as signers of a statement to the press prepared by foreign lawyers which reads:

"If by any chance the three Bulgarian defendants should be found guilty it will be impossible to make the world believe in the impartiality and objectivity of German justice. We heretofore have protested to the court against the exclusion of Dimitroff from the courtroom.

"We would like to point out that there are among the five defendants two, Blagoi Popoff and Wasil Taneff, who understand little if any German and who, therefore, do not know what is going on since, strangely enough, the proceedings are not being translated into their language.

Says Defendant Is "Cowed."

"One, namely, Marinus van der Lubbe, is apparently so cowed or ill that he does not follow the proceedings, and a fourth, Georgi Dimitroff, has for the second time been excluded from the courtroom because he persistently is asking questions which he thinks are helpful to his defense.

"Nor are these four defendants—all of whom are foreigners—represented by lawyers of their own choosing.

"Dimitroff, not having been permitted to choose his own attorney, not only is in the position of a defendant, but of a lawyer. His lack of knowledge of German procedure naturally brings him into conflict with the court. But the penalty of exclusion means that he cannot get a fair trial."

The testimony of two expert witnesses was heard today, but dusk found the court apparently no better informed as to who set the blaze or why.

Police Officer Testifies.

Police Lieut. Emil Lateit, who entered the building while the fire was at its height, and Dr. Richard Lepsius, chairman of the chemical section of the Air Protection league, who examined the building the following day, told what they saw and heard in their investigations.

The police lieutenant said that when he ran into the building, summoned by the fire alarm, the plenary hall was already banked with flames. Later, he said, he made a detailed search of the premises for combustibles which might have been used as tinder, but failed to find any.

Dr. Pepsius testified that Van der Lubbe, who has confessed that he set the fire, had displayed a remarkable memory. The chemical expert said that he accompanied the Dutchman on a tour of the ruined building on the day after the blaze and that the defendant pointed out to him at that time what his activities had been.

"Van der Lubbe in 12 minutes," said Dr. Lepsius, "took me over his whole route and showed a remarkable capacity for details. Concerning his motive he told me, 'The whole of society must be destroyed.' I took it for granted he was a communist."

BELGIUM ORDERS $28,000,000 SPENT ON BORDER FORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 11.—The Belgian cabinet today unanimously approved the proposition of Albert De Veze, minister of defense, for an expenditure of 700 million Belgian francs [$28,000,000 at current rate of exchange] to strengthen Belfian frontier defenses.

The plan provides for an almost impregnable frontier for Belgium, which, it is hoped, will make any new attempt to attack France across Belgian territory impracticable. It provides for the creation of a new system of fortifications on the Herve plateau, east of Liege, and a series of machine gun and field piece shelters all along the border.

The right bank of the Meuse and the entire eastern frontier will have defenses greatly strengthened. Troops stationed in the Ardennes region will be motorized and the firing strength increased.

Zaandam First Dutch Town to Boycott German Goods

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.—The first Dutch town officially to resolve to boycott German goods is Zaandam, near Amsterdam. The municipal council adopted the following resolution today: "The municipality of Zaandam resolves to boycott German goods because of the régime now prevailing in Germany."

BOOTLEGGING IN WHEAT ALLEGED IN LARGE AREAS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Bureau of internal revenue agents have been assigned to investigate widespread complaints that wheat bootlegging is becoming prevalent in the grain belt.

It has taken the form of violations by growers of regulations permitting them to have their own wheat ground into flour for home use, tax free.

This privilege was given when the farm bill was passed. Now millers' organizations and others are protesting that growers in many instances are having more flour ground than is necessary for their own use and that the surplus is being disposed of at a profit.

Some custom millers have been charged with collusion and millers who are abiding by the tax regulations say this threatens a serious handicap to them.

A. A. A. to Coöperate.

Farm adjustment administration officials said that some wheat bootlegging undoubtedly was going on and that they would coöperate with the revenue bureau to end the violations.

County extension agents are being told to have the protests referred to the bureau of internal revenue.

Enforcement of the regulations placing a 30 cents a bushel tax on wheat is the responsibility of the bureau, as is collection of the levy. Wholesale violations, however, would threaten the administration's production control program.

The administration has estimated the levy would yield about $135,000,000 annually. The proceeds are to be used to pay wheat growers for reducing acreage.

If the funds from the wheat tax fall considerably below the estimate, money to pay the growers would have to be taken from the treasury. Secretary Wallace is committed to the policy of raising funds for production control largely through processing taxes.

Shown in Several Sections.

There are no estimates of the extent of violations thus far, although complaints have come from almost every wheat growing section. The amount of the grain milled in July and August dropped more than one million bushels under milling for the same period last year. The processing tax went into effect on July 9.

The administration is concerned lest the bootlegging grow and returns from the tax fall far below the amount necessary to pay for production control. Some experts have estimated that custom milling may account for 75,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, as compared to 12,000,000 last year. Were it not for the exemption, the 75,000,000 bushels—if that estimate is correct—would yield $22,500,000.

Unless bootlegging is stopped, there probably will be an effort in the next congress to strike out the provisions in the farm act which gives the farmer the right to have his flour ground free.

PERHAPS you have a young tyrant in your home—or perhaps not. In either case, remember what the United States Public Health Service says in Public Health Broadcast No. 309:

"It has been found that the most comfortable temperature as well as the most healthful one is between 68° and 70°."

You can keep your home in that healthy comfort zone, easily, cheaply, safely and surely by using Famous Reading Anthracite — the super-cleaned Pennsylvania hard coal.

HERE IS WHY

Because Famous Reading Anthracite is "HARD" coal, twice as many heat units can be put into your furnace at every firing than you can get in with softer coal or lighter fuel. That means far fewer firings each day . . . more time for other things. Because it is so HARD, it burns evenly and steadily just as you set the drafts.

Because it is "HARD" coal, Famous Reading Anthracite keeps your home clean. It burns without soot or smoke. It stores indefinitely. It never explodes to fill your house with greasy soot or, perhaps, set fire to it. It is almost impossible to clinker it. Your home is safe from fires caused by overheating. Furnace linings and grates are protected from warping. Order a trial ton of Famous Reading Anthracite today. Learn for yourself how very good HARD coal can be. Ask your coal merchant for it, or write us for the name of the nearest Reading merchant.

He never seems really rested—just as "all in" early in the morning as late at night. He can't understand what's the matter. Knows he's slipping—fears that something's really wrong. Yet it is pathetically simple.

It's Asthenia

(Run-down condition, usually caused by Constipation)

Millions of men and women are in the same lamentable plight today... and not one in ten can guess the cause. That's the insidious thing about Asthenia... it drags you down, slows your mind, robs you of your joys and pleasures, yet you hardly realize you're slipping.

Would you like for once to brush the cobwebs from your eyes..be ready and eager for any task..experience all the glories of this glorious old world? Then rid yourself of Asthenia—and stay rid of it.

You think that you're not the least bit clogged—you say that you're "regular" as can be—but physicians will tell you that it is only too easy to deceive yourself in this respect and stay doped with poisons. Thus millions of micro-organisms accumulate in the intestinal tract and produce that dull, achy, pepless feeling known as Asthenia.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

The situation created by the new securities act is not only extremely unfortunate in immediate consequences in the process of recovery, but has even more serious implications to which the nation would better give attention. The ostensible purpose of the act was to correct evils in the irresponsible issuance of securities, as illustrated during the boom period. But the act contains provisions which are impracticable and unreasonable and are an obstruction to the expansion of credit and to the legitimate freedom of security issue. Not only desirable new financing but the refinancing required for old financing, in some cases for the prevention of bankruptcy, are held in abeyance because of excessive and impractical restrictions.

The demand for correction of the act has supporters in the administration, but there is a strong if not a predominant element which we are convinced has no disposition to meet reasonable objections and does not wish the recovery program to succeed through practical adjustments. Its object is the revolutionary transformation of the American government and political and economic order. These representatives of the New Deal are asserting that the demand for a rational relaxation of the law to permit legitimate financing is an unscrupulous effort to escape proper restraint, although the demand for amendment is supported by men in finance and business of unquestionable integrity. The real reason for this resistance to reasonable correction of the law's details, in our opinion, arises from a determination to further a socialist reorganization of our political and economic order. The administration has a left wing and, conscious that if their real ambitions were revealed they would be promptly repudiated by the nation, they propose to advance to their objective by indirection, through destructive taxation, the rapid enlistment of an army of federal bureaucrats, the lavish expenditure of public money, the harassing of banks, the paralyzing of effective and legitimate financing, the seizure of banking control through the forced issuance of preferred stock, and other devices to bring private initiative under the domination of political government and to make private enterprise in commerce and industry unprofitable and impracticable.

To cover this process and give immunity to reckless and injurious experiment, the disposition to abolish the freedom of the press is inevitable and is already ominously apparent.

The advocates of an all powerful state have filled the air since 1929 with declarations that private capitalism and individual liberty have broken down and are things of the past. They are doing everything possible to prove they are right. The effort to get private enterprise on its feet, to accelerate reëmployment, to assist financial and business institutions to function normally again—in short, to restore the American political and economic order to health through measures intended for that end—is not consistent with their intentions, and it is being embarrassed and retarded by resistance to rational adjustments and modifications of the new laws and regulations.

This strategy should be recognized by all Americans who have not surrendered their faith, who wish to preserve their heritage of liberty, who demand that the weaknesses revealed in American finance and business be corrected constructively, and not fatally impaired and finally destroyed to make way for a socialist system.

ALIEN INFLUENCES IN AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

There is a certain irony in the Berlin celebration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Germantown. It was organized by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, whose president presided, but it was also addressed by Dr. Goebbels, minister of propaganda and enlightenment in the Nazi government, and received the greetings of Herr Hitler. The enthusiasm of Carl Schurz, were he alive, for the Nazi régime would be of rather a low temperature.

Dr. Goebbels told his audience that the Hitler government is more desirous than any of its predecessors to keep in touch with Germans abroad, and it is to be noted that Fascism in Italy has made no secret of its intention to maintain and cultivate race consciousness in Italians in other countries. This policy, which is a natural expression of the intensified nationalism stimulated and exploited by the Fascist and Nazi régimes, promises effects in other countries, including the United States, which are not to be welcomed. If they are not in the long run serious, they at least retard the process of assimilation upon which immigration or, at any rate, the conferring of citizenship is justified.

Divided allegiance is no more compatible with American citizenship than with German or Italian. While there is no fair objection to Americans of German, Italian, or other foreign birth or ancestry cherishing their cultural heritage, it is not consistent with loyal citizenship to follow it in politics. The harmony which ought to prevail among the American citizenry is broken through the importation of foreign political and racial differences. Designing politicians play upon these differences and try to influence our foreign policy on behalf of foreign interests. Foreign loyalties, even among native born citizens, including Americans with an inheritance of two or three centuries in this country, have influenced American policies without much regard to the nation's peace and welfare. In this we suffer disadvantages in our international relations which nations of ripened and homogeneous composition do not suffer. In due time the American nation will be so composed, but in the meanwhile the process of developing a strong national consciousness is unfortunately retarded by the influence of alien loyalties.

FEDERAL MONEY FOR THE SANITARY DISTRICT.

Secretary Ickes proposes two plans by which the sanitary district of Chicago may obtain federal aid to construct the sewage disposal works required by the Supreme court decision in the water diversion case. The court has denied a petition for rehearing and stands on its order holding the state of Illinois responsible for satisfaction of its verdict. Both state and the district look to the public works fund of the federal government for money to complete the works. Mr. Ickes suggests that the federal government through a special corporation do the work and charge it to the sanitary district as a debt or that the district go ahead with it under federal supervision and with money out of the public works fund.

The federal judiciary requires the work to be done. The sanitary district cannot sell its bonds and the court realizes that and has so stated. The people of Illinois in their legislature have refused to assume the debt for a local improvement. No Illinois bonds would be valid without a referendum in the state at large. There is a direct conflict between the decision of the Supreme court, which is the supreme law of the land, and the Illinois constitution, which is the supreme law of the state. The state is ordered to do something which the constitution says can be done only under conditions which seem impossible to meet. No other application has been made for a part of the public works fund which has so just a claim, unanswerable in fact, as this item of public works demanded of the sanitary district. The federal government has been acting favorably on projects proposed by various communities themselves. This is a project demanded by the government itself and it is required by sanitary conditions in the country's second city. The district cannot comply without federal help and the state refuses to. The responsibility is with the federal government and the sooner it proposes an acceptable way of supplying money the sooner the difficulties and embarrassments will be ironed out and the sooner the benefits will be obtained.

JAPAN'S RIVAL.

According to the figures of the Japanese Federation of Cotton Textile Manufacturers Japan's exports of cotton cloth in the first eight months of this year were slightly larger than Britain's. Britain had held the lead over all other countries for a century and more. As recently as 1929 British manufacturers exported almost three yards to every yard exported by Japanese mills. In the short space of four years Japan has forged ahead.

Needless to say, the textile business is of immense importance in the economy of the United States, Japan, and Great Britain. In a somewhat limited sense we are all competitors in the world markets for cotton cloth, but the competition of the United States with either Japan or Great Britain in the cloth markets is relatively inconsequential. Our primary interest is as the seller of raw cotton, whereas their interest is as sellers of manufactured goods. With that in mind we should expect no serious clash of interests and no growth of ill will between the United States and Japan, but as between Japan and Great Britain the sharp rivalry might very well make for trouble.

It is curious that in the face of these quite obvious relationships there is relatively little talk of the possibility of conflict between Great Britain and Japan and much talk of conflict between the United States and Japan. The suggestion has been made that the anti-American feeling in Japan and anti-Japanese feeling in America has been stimulated by the British. Little evidence has been produced in support of this thesis, but it has at least a surface plausibility. Certainly there is little or nothing in the trade relations of the United States and Japan which can lead to conflict. Japan is on the way to becoming our best customer for our most important export commodity, cotton, and we have long been the best customer for Japan's silk. It is an almost ideal trade relationship, with a maximum of advantage on both sides and a minimum of rivalry.

Thus far at least the modernization of Japan has been an almost unmixed economic blessing for the United States. Japan has learned to make a number of articles in competition with ours and the competition has not always been conducted fairly, but by and large the industrialization of Japan has meant large new markets for our raw materials and manufactures and a mutually profitable trade. If there is anything at all to the doctrine of economic determinism we should remain on friendly terms with the Japanese.

AN EQUALIZER.
[Grand Rapids Press.]

Heavy enrollment of bus and truck drivers, reported by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, may offer a solution to one of the most pressing problems the railway operators have had to face. For years the operators have complained against the discrepancies between the wages they were forced to pay their employés and those paid employés of competing highway vehicles. But once the motor drivers come into the railway union the question of equalization will be well on the way toward settlement.

It is not likely identical wage scales will be established for the two services. Yet it is equally unlikely that the wide differences which now exist will be tolerated by the organized group.

Railway owners have been seeking to lower trainmen's wages in an effort to compete. They had no authority over the bus driver, so their object necessarily had to be to cut down their wages toward the motor vehicle level rather than to raise the motor vehicle level to that of the railways. It will be interesting to note just what will be done if the wage earners have taken the matter into their own hands. At least it doesn't seem likely the railway operators will shed any tears over the extension of the brotherhood to the bus and truck field.

FLORIDA HAS SPOKEN and there are only three more to go. "And just think," as almost any hostess is saying these days, "then likker will come back again. Won't that be fine?" FRANCE, being very grateful to M. Georges Washington because of the way in which he did soak these English, ordered a beautiful saber to be made and presented to George. The saber just arrived in America a few days ago. But this Georges Washington being tres mort then helas, mon dieu, and so what? So these French give the saber to Monsieur Roosevelt because he is now President, this Georges Washington being still dead. It will be fine for Monsieur Roosevelt that he now has a fine sharp saber. Bien! Likewise merci! But we are pleased that these French did not decide to present M. Washington with a guillotine. Ah, non, non, non! How dreadful if this M. Roosevelt had been given this guillotine, M. Washington being mort. For if M. Roosevelt had in that White House a guillotine then this M. Johnson might to have borrowed it. And if this M. Henri Ford would not do as M. Johnson he has said—ah, quelle horreur! quelle horreur!

AUTUMN.

Autumn is such a pleasant season;
Then the weather has listened to reason.
It isn't too hot, and it isn't too cold—
The grass is still green, and the sky is still fair,
And the hint of frost in the morning air
Is a sip of wine to a jaded tongue
That makes one feel that he still is young!
And winter is still too far away
To spoil the joy of this lovely day.

THE GENERAL COMMANDING the New England area, which includes the Maine woods, beseeches the deer hunters this fall not to shoot any of Franklin Delano's reforestation army now camped all over that region. "Be sure before you shoot," begs the general; "the workers are equipped with plaid jackets and caps, which should not be mistaken for deer, pheasant, or partridges." Oh, they shouldn't be, of course, but a wild-eyed deer hunter will mistake a cow, horse, flagpole, the old mill, an automobile, a milk wagon, a fountain pen, a pair of rubber boots, an airplane, a church, the county courthouse, the north star, the aurora borealis, and the family wash hung out on the line to dry—anything, everything—for a deer. Plaid jackets and caps won't help any; the reforestation boys ought to wear steel armor and dig themselves bombproofs.

Ah! when I lived in a hall bedroom in Erie street how often did I look forward with sheerest joy to the time when it would be my turn to take the tall white water pitcher off the washstand and go down to Bill's and tell him to give me a quarter's worth of suds. I always said "suds"; it was more sporting. And now—no growler. How true it is there are no birds in last year's nest.

Oh, sing me a roaring chantey,
Where men of great ships and other affairs
Their spindrifted vigil keep.

Belay me with barnacled ballads
And spume-crusted songs of the sea
Sing sheets that are wet; let sails and such,
And fulmar, and so forth, fly free.

With dinner coat, dapper defiance
Give throat to a hazardous tale
Of rolling to Rio (and similar trips),
Defy sky and billow and gale.

And I shall "Bravissimo!" holler,
Though the words that heroically fly
I'll wage my last bottom dollar
You understand no more than I!

CAPILLARY TWIGS.

ONE of the recent advances in medical science is the improvement in methods of examining the blood vessels and especially the capillaries. By means of low power microscopes and not very powerful lenses the capillary loops underneath the fingernails can be studied. As a rule the nail structure is fairly transparent and permits of study of the small blood vessel beneath them. The skin of the upper surface of the fingers near the nails is also fairly transparent. Small, threadlike blood vessels can be seen beneath it. These can be studied by means of moderately magnifying lenses. Up to date not very much of practical value has been discovered, but the study of such capillary twigs tells us something and opens a door through which eventually we should discover much.

The small capillary twigs that can be seen in some cases of so-called drunkard's nose can be studied in the same way. However, the skin of the nose is too thick to permit of wholly satisfying study of these twigs.

It is considered that in most cases such twigs on the nose mean indigestion or some other abdominal disorder. In most cases they indicate that the person who has them should quit drinking alcoholic beverages, quit eating rich foods, and should change his eating habits as well as his diet.

Capillary twigs on the cheeks are generally ascribed to exposure to wind, rain, and sleet. Capillary twigs in the skin lying over an internal organ may be due to some disorder of the organ. Not infrequently such twigs are found in the skin around a joint showing arthritis. Why they appear as they so frequently do under the skin of the thighs I do not know.

The eye is even more transparent than the fingernails and the skin of the tops of the fingertips. Eye specialists examine the retina for evidence of disease in the blood vessels. If a person has much arteriosclerosis in the vessels of other parts of the body the blood vessels of the retina are expected to give evidence of the fact. The course of arteriosclerosis as it progresses can nearly always be satisfactorily watched by means of retinal examination.

One of the newer tools at the service of physicians is a special microscope or enlarging lens that eye specialists use to study the blood vessels and cells of the front part of the eyeball.

Three diseases that are attracting much attention in recent years are Buerger's disease, Raynaud's disease, and gangrene occurring during the course of diabetes. Some part of each is due to disease of the walls of the blood vessels, principally of the lower legs. Some of it is due to spasmodic contractions of the muscles in these vessel walls.

In a given case it is important to know how much of the condition is due to spasm and how much to thickening and hardening. There are methods by which physicians study the vessels in such cases and through which they are able to evaluate spasm as against hardening.

PROMINENT VEINS.

Mrs. E. A. K. writes:

1. What causes capillary veins? I have some on my right leg below my knee and also on my thigh. The last two years they have increased considerably. I notice you say men usually get these on the nose due to excess alcohol. This is not the cause in my case. I am 28 years old and it seems to me I am too young to have anything like this, as one usually sees them on older women.

2. Can this be corrected at a reasonable price and is it painful?

REPLY.

1. Those on the nose are often caused by digestive troubles. When whisky drinkers have them, as they often do, they are caused more by the digestive troubles due to drinking than by the liquor acting directly. Those on the trunk are likely to be caused by disorders in underlying organs. I do not know why young women have them on their legs, unless it is due to wearing garters and other bands.

2. Why correct it? They do no harm. It is possible they could be cured with the electric needle, but would cure be worth the cost and trouble? Why not bear the ill you have? It is trifling.

BUERGER'S DISEASE.

M. R. writes: 1. What is Buerger's disease?

2. What causes it?

3. Is it curable?

4. What will cure or relieve?

REPLY.

1. Buerger's disease is an affection of the leg which develops on exertion in elderly people. There are cramps and the feet become cold, white, and apparently bloodless. It differs from night cramps in that it comes on as the result of walking; from Raynaud's disease, in that it is caused by exertion and not by cold, and cramping is a prominent symptom.

2. The ultimate cause nobody knows. Among the contributing causes are age, exertion, and a lack of balance in the muscles and nerves of the leg artery walls. The people of some races are more prone to it than are those of other races.

3. In only a limited sense.

4. Protecting the leg muscles against hard work and exposure, rest, refraining from the use of tobacco, alternate hot and cold foot baths, alternate raising and lowering of the feet. Operation has a place.

NRA Question Box

Following are typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers as given by the Chicago recovery council, which is aiding President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation movement here. Other questions and their answers will be given in this column daily.

QUESTION—May the letters "NRA" be used in connection with a private promotion?

ANSWER — The letters "NRA" and the words "Blue Eagle" may not be used in any private promotional matter, which, of course, includes their use in connection with private advertising matter. For example, it is unlawful for a retail store to advertise an NRA sale or a Blue Eagle sale.

QUESTION—Will you please give me the details of section 213, paragraph E, of the national recovery act?

STATE STREET IN 1833.

Oak Park, Oct. 8.—I have read the very interesting article in today's SUNDAY TRIBUNE headed "State Street, 1833." Will you allow me to correct some excusable inaccuracies in this article? You state that the square mile bounded by Madison street, 12th street, State street and Halsted street was sold at auction on Oct. 20, 1833, at an average price of $6.72 per acre. This section sixteen, the school section, was sold at auction under the direction of my grandfather, Col. Richard J. Hamilton, who was commissioner of school lands and who had the land sold on Oct. 20, 21, 22 and 23, 1833, in response to a petition signed by practically all the voters in Chicago. I know that this figure of $6.72 per acre has been used by a number of historians, but nevertheless it is an error. In preparing material for my book, "The Epic of Chicago," I recently had occasion to check those figures. I think that the mistake was first made by A. T. Andreas, who published his great history of Chicago in 1884. I quote from his account on page 153 Vol. 1 of the history.

The section embraced the square mile between State and Halsted streets on the east and west and Madison and 12th on the north and south. It was divided into one hundred and forty-four blocks, the area of each being not far from four acres, not including streets. All but four of the lots were sold and brought in the aggregate the sum of $38,865, or an average of $6.72 per acre. Now 144 blocks of an average extent of four acres make 576 acres, and dividing this into the amount received, $38,865, gives an average of $67.20 per acre. Capt. Andreas was a great historian but a poor mathematician, and he placed his decimal point in the wrong place. Every one who has written about it since has accepted his figures without attempt at verification. It does not make much difference now whether the average price was $6.72 per acre or $67.20; still an error of 1,000 per cent is quite an error and history should be as accurate as possible.

The story also of the householder who stepped out on his front stoop, disregarding the wolves in sight, and brought down the last bear ever to be shot in Chicago's loop is interesting but not quite accurate. In 1834 there were no householders south of Lake street except possibly some outlying cabins as far south as Randolph street. The last wild bear killed in the present loop district was shot on Oct. 6, 1834, in the timber at the intersection of La Salle and Adams streets. The ground had been cleared of timber only as far south as Madison street. The bear was killed by Sam George, the village baker, and John Sweeney. The story is told by Henry H. Hurlbut in "Chicago Antiquities," pages 277 to 280. At the time Mr. Hurlbut wrote, in 1880, Mr. Sweeney was still living in his seventieth year at 320 West Harrison street and Mr. Hurlbut had the story directly from him.

HENRY RAYMOND HAMILTON.

THUNDER IN EDEN.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Your Schopenhauer reading vox popper in today's TRIBUNE places too much faith in penal measures against indecent exposure. She [I think it is "she"] says that the judge's only function is to enforce them. It is not quite so easy. Owing to the vague interpretation of the word "indecent" it is quite a job to explain them.

A very few years ago feminine legs on Wilson beach were regulated by police rules. If not entirely covered by stockings, they went for a ride. This was indecent exposure under the ordinance; I could quote cases, but so can any one.

At the Garrick theater, St. Louis, two or three of these "exposure" acts have taken place every day during the last three years, September to April, in bright spotlight—not in dark blue shadows. The last ceinture has come off, and the lady, with her back to the audience, has revealed everything that Sally uncovered in her unreformed days. The audience has always responded with handclapping, but never [at least, in my hearing] with snickers or wisecracks.

Some light is thrown on this by a recent check-up conducted by one of our four largest [in circulation] magazines on the financial condition of America's greatest cities. In one after another their empty treasuries were explained by official incompetence, or worse. There were two notable exceptions—San Francisco and St. Louis. It may be that St. Louis' municipal government has earned too much public confidence to need any grand stand purity parades.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am the living beneficiary of an estate in Illinois. The executors of the estate sent me documents for my wife and me to sign, which we did. It was for a loan of $1,100. After waiting two months the executors said they had increased the loan to $1,500 without my name and my wife's being signed. 1. Have they a lawful right to do this without my consent or signature? 2. The loan is supposed to be set aside as a trust fund for the beneficiary. Can the executors use any part of the trust fund for their own personal needs or investments? 3. Can I demand to know in what bank or trust company the money has been deposited and how? 4. Are they compelled by law to give the beneficiary an accounting from time to time?

WITNESSES TELL OF 2 EXPLOSIONS IN PLANE CRASH

Investigate 7 Deaths and Return Open Verdict.

Coroner Carl Davis of Porter county, Ind., returned an open verdict yesterday at the inquest into the death of five men and two women who were killed in the crash of a transcontinental United Air Lines transport plane near Chesterton Tuesday night. The hearing was held behind closed doors at Valparaiso, newspaper men and the general public being barred from the actual inquest room.

A considerable part of the inquest, it was reported, concerned the question of whether the ship exploded in midair as several witnesses insisted. Coroner Davis said he was convinced this had happened. He held, however, the plane did not take fire in the air but after it had crashed. No one was to blame for the accident, he decided.

Establish Victims' Identities.

The inquest officially established the identities of the seven persons killed. They were:

PILOT RICHARD H. TARRANT, 308 West Erie street, Oak Park. Tarrant had been flying for United Air lines for two years and was considered a competent pilot.

CO-PILOT A. T. RUBY of 320 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, who had been flying for the air line three months.

MISS ALICE SCRIBNER, 26 years old, 1057 North Sacramento boulevard, Chicago, stewardess, employed for two months on the air line. She was a graduate nurse and is the first stewardess killed in a plane crash.

EMIL SMITH, 45 years old, 5100 Argyle street, formerly a grocer. He had previously been identified as E. Smitt, 911 Argyle street.

WARREN F. BURRIS of Columbus, O., a radio service man employed by United Air lines, who was traveling as a passenger.

MISS DOROTHY M. DWYER, 25 years old, 67 Mount Vernon street, Arlington, Mass., who was flying to Reno, Nev., to marry Theodore Baldwin, former Boston stock broker.

Miss Dwyer's body was the only one that had not been officially identified yesterday, but relatives in Arlington, Mass., confirmed the report that she was on board the plane.

Will Claim Fiancée's Body.

Baldwin boarded a plane at Reno yesterday morning en route to Chicago to claim his fiancée's body and take it back to Massachusetts. He obtained a divorce from his wife, Mrs. June Baldwin of New York, in Reno last July.

When the inquest was opened, reporters were notified they would not be permitted to attend. They were, however, allowed in an ante room. Witnesses, air line officials, and relatives of several of the victims crowded the hearing quarters. Brian Jacobs, an air line inspector for the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, questioned witnesses and, according to observers, sought to show the plane did not explode in midair.

Principal witnesses were James Graf and Marion Arndt, farmers; Clarence Linderman and Mrs. James Smiley. Arndt's story was typical. He said that he heard a terrific explosion, and ran outside to see the plane roaring toward the ground, its red and green navigation lights burning and both motors running. Immediately after the ship crashed he heard a second explosion, he testified. Graf, Linderman, and Mrs. Smiley all said they heard an explosion while the ship was still in air.

Tail Surface Drops Off.

That there were two explosions was seen in the fact that the bodies of two of the men passengers were found more than a mile away from the wreckage of the main part of the plane, and not far away from the ship's tail. The first explosion apparently loosened the tail and dropped the men to death.

After the inquest was over and Coroner Davis had announced his verdict, he explained his reasons for holding a secret hearing. He did so, he said, because of an agreement he had made with the department of commerce aeronautics branch, the insurance company, and the United Air lines.

The cause of the accident has not yet been determined. Several theories have been advanced by aviation authorities, however. One was that a gasoline feed line had broken, allowing the fuel to become ignited by a red hot exhaust pipe, thereby causing an explosion in the motor nacelle. Another possibility, it was said, was that one of the supercharger impellors might have exploded because of metal fatigue.

Flat Janitors Sue Union, Charging Threat to Jobs

A suit for an injunction against the Chicago Flat Janitors' union and Jerry Horan, president of the union, was filed yesterday in the Superior court by five janitors who declared they had been threatened with the loss of their jobs. The suit alleged that an election of officers scheduled for September had not been held and that although the union officials collect $100,000 a year in dues, $60,000 in death claims remain unpaid. An accounting was asked of the union funds and the court requested to restrain union officials from doing harm to the members who filed the suit.

SLEEP SICKNESS LINKED TO FATAL HORSE EPIDEMIC

Western States Losing Fine Draft Animals.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Evidence is piling up each week to lead physicians and veterinarians to believe that the "sleeping sickness" epidemic which swept St. Louis recently with fatal results may be identical with a disease that has killed hundreds of fine horses in California, Utah, and Maryland in the last eight weeks.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, personal physician to the late Woodrow Wilson, told physicians and surgeons attending a meeting of the American College of Surgeons here yesterday that scientists were "by no means sure" of the similarity, but that evidence was accumulating to support the theory.

The malady has thrown fear into the hearts of ranchers and farmers in several counties of Utah in recent weeks. According to Dean E. J. Maynard of the Utah State Agricultural college, an average of forty horses a day have died in the last ten days.

Disease Still Spreading.

"And these are the cream of our heavy draft horses," Dean Maynard declared. "The disease is still spreading and the most startling thing is that horses vaccinated at the first outbreak are now dying in this second outbreak."

Reports reaching Dr. Robert Graham, noted veterinarian of the Illinois College of Agriculture at Urbana, state that three men, two of them veterinarians, who were trying to check the epidemic, have contracted sleeping sickness and died from it. This has led Dr. Graham to investigate reports from several parts of Illinois this week that horses have taken sick and died within a three to four day period.

Dr. Graham is particularly interested in the case of two fine Irish jumping horses which died on Cantigny farm, near Wheaton, in the last four days. He has received a report of the losses from Dr. Harry Caldwell, Wheaton practitioner, and Drs. George McKillip and L. A. Merillat, called into consultation on the sickness of the two horses.

The veterinarians, after considering symptoms of the sleeping sickness malady in the west, are now inclined to the belief that the horses died from a toxin of poisonous weeds eaten while foraging in woodlands. Another outbreak of similar nature has been reported at Minonk, Ill., and in recent years serious losses of horses, cattle and sheep in various localities of Illinois and Indiana have been traced to the animals eating white snakeroot weeds.

Contract Milk Sickness.

Records of Dr. Graham show instances where humans who drank milk coming from cows that had eaten this weed contracted a malady called milk sickness, which in some cases proved fatal. In animals the weed poisoning causes nervousness, muscle twitching and these develop into body tremors that become convulsive in nature.

Other weeds that have caused serious illness or fatalities in animals, and to be found in the pastures and woodlands of Illinois and Indiana, include deadly nightshade, jimson weed, some forms of wild fern and water hemlock. A survey is being made on DuPage county farms this week by trained men in an effort to locate some of these poisonous weeds.

HIT AND RUN AUTO HITS TWO BOYS AT PLAY; ONE DIES

Two 10 year old boys, playing in front of 2025 North Karlov avenue, were struck yesterday afternoon by an automobile whose driver failed to stop. One of the lads, Andrew Halpin, 2021 North Karlov avenue, died at St. Mary's hospital several hours later. The other, Chester Blaze, 2028 North Karlov avenue, was severely injured. The Shakespeare avenue police were told that the death car was a large sedan and was being driven at a high rate of speed.

The Halpin boy's death increased the 1933 motor toll in Cook county to 807.

Mrs. Philadelphia

is a different sort of shopper

She lives in a private dwelling and her Want List contains a hundred items that the apartment dweller seldom buys

PURCHASING POWER is coming back! In today's language that means the ability to supply one's needs the ability to purchase once more those comforts and conveniences which lean years denied.

Obviously, the greatest needs are those of the family. Yet to choose markets based upon "Number of Families" is to overlook a vital point.

Where do those families live? In individual dwellings or in apartment house homes?

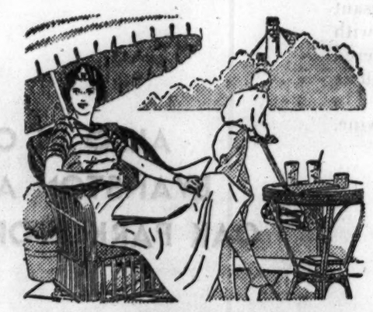
The needs of the family with a private home are vastly different. Take one hundred families in one hundred private homes. They require one hundred heating plants. They need one hundred laundries. There are more rooms to heat, light and furnish. More painting, papering and decorating. More electrical appliances, telephone extensions, radios, mechanical refrigerators, water heaters.

Nine out of every ten Philadelphia families have their own laundry, and are prospects for washers, wringers, washing soaps, powders, etc.

There are the porches, with their needs for porch furniture, awnings, screening, glass enclosures, porch rugs, lamps, paint, repairs, etc.

And the lawns, gardens, hedges, shrubbery—creating needs for mowers, garden tools, hose, seeds, fertilizer and other advertised products.

From roofing materials to cement paint for the cellar, the list of needs is an endless one.



Thousands upon thousands of Philadelphia homes have lawns, gardens and shrubbery . . . creating needs for seeds, fertilizer, tools, lawn furniture, etc.

Philadelphia:	Families in single family dwellings	79.5%	90.1%
	Families in two-family dwellings	10.6%
	Families in apartments, hotels, etc.		9.9%
New York City:	Families in single family dwellings	17.1%	33%
	Families in two-family dwellings	15.9%
	Families in apartments, hotels, etc.		67%
Chicago:	Families in single family dwellings	24.9%	52.5%
	Families in two-family dwellings	27.6%
	Families in apartments, hotels, etc.		47.5%

The mechanical refrigerator market is the home market. In Philadelphia nine out of every ten families are prospects because they live in private homes.

Home is where the needs are! Separate, individual homes with their numerous, accumulated needs.

The most responsive and profitable market is where large numbers of such homes may be reached easily, quickly, and with advertising economy.

Philadelphia fills those specifications. More than 90% of the families live in private dwellings; 9% live in apartments, lodging houses, hotels, etc.

The Philadelphia Bulletin is the newspaper of nearly every Philadelphia home. Year after year it has been a part of the daily lives of nearly half a million families.

It is edited to interest every member of the family: The growing boy just getting a grasp upon things; the mother with her home-making problems; the father watching the trend of current events; the banker who wants accurate financial news; the lawyer who wants informed editorial opinion; the doctor, the teacher, the student, the mechanic, the salespeople in every store.

Its circulation growth has been a normal and natural one, spread over a generation, based upon reader confidence uninfluenced by premium or contest. Today's 499,219 net paid daily (Sept. average) is two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Sunday newspaper, more than all morning newspapers combined.

The home garage encourages car ownership. The two-car families usually live in private homes. Families in homes use a car more and need new cars oftener.

Tens of thousands of Philadelphia homes have their porches, requiring porch furniture, rugs, awnings, screening, glass inclosures, paint, etc.

The Philadelphia Bulletin is read by nearly every one in nearly every Philadelphia home. Your sales message is read by all members of those family councils where purchases are usually decided.

Each private home requires a heating plant. Nine out of ten Philadelphia families live in private homes and need modern heaters, coal, fuel oil, etc.

If you have something to sell the home, start in Philadelphia. Start in this market of greatest home needs, where there is great economy and effectiveness of advertising coverage.

TRUCE IN STEEL STRIKE BESOUGHT BY LABOR BOARD

Urge Arbitration by Federal Officials.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—A joint appeal to the National Steel corporation and its 13,000 striking employés at Wierton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., urging submission of the case to the national labor board, was made today by the board's secretary, W. M. Leiserson.

The appeal was made after William J. Long, chairman of a committee of the strikers, had promised he would try to end the strike immediately if the company would agree to arbitration.

Plants Reopened.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Plants of the Weirton Steel company, a subsidiary of the National Steel corporation, reopened today with the return of several thousand workers at Wairton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., and prospects were that the Clarksburg, W. Va., plant would follow suit tomorrow. Union officials claimed that not more than 500 men had gone back to their jobs.

The H. C. Frick Coke company mines remained closed pending the resumption tomorrow of a conference between Thomas Moses, president of the firm, and Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers. There are 75,000 employés in the Frick and other steel company owned mines.

Fire to Disperse Crowd.

Weirton, W. Va., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Repulsing strikers with tear gas bombs for the third time in two days, West Virginia state police guarding the Weirton Steel company mill tonight fired five shots into the air to disperse a crowd of 4,000. It was the first report of shooting here since the outbreak of the strike. Meantime, at Steubenville, police arrested Julius Warren on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, while four others arrested last Saturday were bound over to the grand jury on charges of inciting to riot.

Warning at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Officials of the Glen Alden Coal company today warned they would cease operations indefinitely unless the striking miners returned to work tomorrow.

At Hazelton, Pa., the 800 miners and other colliery workers walked out today when the Lehigh Valley Coal company refused a demand that more men be put to work. Company officials said the same work had been done by the present number of men for years.

Seek Westinghouse Strike.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 11.—(AP)—John F. Gatelee, president of the Central Labor union, said tonight that strikers at the East Springfield plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company would send a motor caravan to East Pittsburg to try to cause a strike at the company plant there if an early settlement were not reached in the controversy. Labor leaders here also said they would attempt sympathetic strikes at the Philadelphia and Mansfield, O., Westinghouse plants. About 100 employés of the Chicopee Falls plant walked out this morning.

Eleven Injured in Fracas.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(Special.]—Eleven men were in hospitals today as the result of a fracas near the plant of the Republic Steel corporation shortly before midnight last night.

DISSATISFACTION AT NRA COAL CODE MAY CLOSE INDIANA MINES

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Despite protestations of district officials of the United Mine Workers of America that coal will continue to be mined in southwestern Indiana, numerous locals today proceeded to vote an indefinite holiday that threatens paralysis of the entire area.

Meanwhile National Guardsmen prevented any violence in Sullivan county, where mobs have been gathering to threaten operation of nonunion cooperative mines.

However, six dynamite bombs were tossed in Gibson county at Somerville No. 2 mine, scene of previous outbreaks.

A well organized effort to overthrow the NRA code and close all mines in Indiana operated by United Mine workers has progressed to a point where a "showdown" may be expected in the coal area this week.

While district officials have publicly asserted their lack of sympathy with this action, as far as is known they have taken no steps to discipline agitators or local unions which have voted to suspend work.

GREEN WINNER AT CONVENTION OF LABOR BODY

Plan to Add Members to Council Fails.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The power of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asserted itself fully today as the national convention swept aside a well organized move to enlarge the executive council.

By a vote of more than two to one, the nearly 600 delegates voted down the proposal of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to "add new blood" to the ruling council by making its membership 25 instead of eight.

This test of strength—marking the first major internal strife of the convention—followed only a few hours after the convention had voted full support for the national recovery administration, but charged its officers to work through the NRA and congress for a 30 hour work week throughout industry.

"Machine Rule" Charged.

Charges of "machine rule" and a warning that the rank and file of workers were demanding increased representation in the councils of labor rang through the hall as the debate raged over the Lewis resolution.

George L. Berry, president of the Pressmen's union, and Charles P. Howard, president of the Typographical union, joined the insurgents to the extent of proposing a compromise of 15 members on the council.

But in the end their demands were of no avail. By a vote of 14,133 to 6,410 the convention said "no" to the compromise, and then upheld by a show of hands the committee report that had rejected the Lewis plan. A two-thirds vote would have been necessary to alter the constitution.

New Blood Demanded.

The committee had little more than made its report before Thomas Kennedy, vice president of the mine workers, and Frank Martel of Detroit were condemning it. Martel described the ruling body as "a council of ruling statesmen" and demanded new blood.

"Machine methods," he asserted, elected the "holy family" of the federation.

Spending Plans of Other Districts Disclosed.

Discovery that the West Pullman park district's board of five commissioners, who get no salaries, had voted a bond issue of $175,000 without announcement aroused the interest of residents of the district yesterday. The West Pullman district has a population of about 25,000. Plans for a massmeeting to ask an explanation from the park commissioners were immediately undertaken by the 119th Street Business Men's association. The bond issue is mostly for the construction of a gymnasium.

P. L. Korzeniecki, president of the business men's association, said that the park board should have consulted property owners before voting more taxes. The park officials, he said, will be asked to explain why such a large sum is needed, and why they did not first consider application for a loan from the federal public works administration.

Other Park Boards Plan Issues.

The West Pullman situation brought about the disclosure that a number of 19 small park districts in Chicago are making haste to vote bond issues before next spring, when a city referendum will be held on consolidating all of them together with the south, west, and Lincoln park systems under one administration.

Some of the small park boards, which are adverse to being voted out of office, are said to be pushing new bond issues with the argument that no additional improvements will be obtainable under the centralized administration.

The Calumet park district board in Beverly Hills is considering a bond issue of between $80,000 and $120,000 for a club house. Richard M. McClure, a loop business man who is one of the park commissioners said, however, that the proposal for the improvement was being discussed openly.

Ravenswood Board Divided.

In Ravenswood Manor Gardens park district the board is divided over the issuance of a $35,000 bond issue to build a clubhouse. Commissioners Charles H. Eckel, a loop insurance official, and O. F. Jaeger have voted twice against it. Their position is that the improvement is not needed, that there is not enough park space available for such a building, and that this is no time to increase taxes.

The West Pullman $175,000 bond ordinance was passed on Oct. 2. About the same time the park commissioners entered into a contract with the Chicago Landscape company, 737 North Michigan avenue, for construction of the gymnasium.

No bids were advertised for in the letting of the contract. Park Commissioners W. G. Davis and Forrest Lull said the board had merely requested bids from five or six contractors. They said the Chicago Landscape company was the low bidder and the only concern which would take bonds in lieu of cash for the work.

Agreement on Material.

Commissioner Davis admitted that an unwritten agreement had been entered into between the landscape company and the park board whereby all building materials and supplies necessary would be purchased from companies having their businesses in the park district. There is only one such company, the D. L. Jones company, 12100 Lowe avenue, of which Frank A. Ernst, is president, Mr. Davis said. Mr. Ernst is a former commissioner of the West Pullman Park district.

George F. Roberts, a former member of the park board, and Simon Van Etten, a building contractor living in the district, criticized the procedure of the park commissioners. Both said that a gymnasium was needed, but that a bond issue of $50,000 or $60,000 would have sufficed.

TWO PEDESTRIANS ROBBED.

Two bandits yesterday robbed two pedestrians in two west side street holdups and obtained $26, two topcoats, a diamond stickpin valued at $15, and a hat. The victims are Jacob Schatz, 2216 Maypole avenue, and Sol Soloman, 1443 South Sawyer avenue.

$18,575 JUDGMENT ENTERED AGAINST EX-DRY REFORMER

A jury in the Municipal court yesterday awarded a default judgment of $18,575 against Daniel F. Gilday, former dry reformer, to Norman G. Nicholson, 6118 Greenwood avenue, a building contractor. Testimony showed that Nicholson had erected a $70,000, 14 apartment building for Gilday and his wife and the $18,575 was still due him on his contract. Gilday, alleged to have been intoxicated, shot and seriously wounded Herman Knol, 18 years old, in November, 1929. He was convicted and fined $100. Later, in a civil suit, Knol won a $12,000 damage verdict against his assailant. This judgment has not been paid and Gilday is said to be living outside the state.

CITY EMPLOYES RECEIVE $1,900,000 SALARY CHECKS

City employés yesterday received their salary checks for the first two weeks in July. The $1,900,000 necessary to meet the roll was obtained through license fee collections, payment of water bills, and distribution of tax collections.

CHICAGO TO SEND PROTEST ON 'NEW DEAL' IN MILK

Dairymen and City Both Have Complaints.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Delegations representing 360,000 organized dairy farmers supplying milk and cream in the major city areas of the nation and at least two aldermen on the Chicago city council's subcommittee on milk are to complain to the federal farm adjustment administration in Washington tomorrow against the way the government is handling the milk situation for farmers and for consumers.

The two delegations, however, will have opposite stories to tell Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and George N. Peek, administrator of agricultural adjustment, when they get to Washington, it was learned here yesterday. The farm delegation will call for an investigation of the entire AAA administration program on milk and its products, on behalf of the National Coöperative Milk Producers federation, which closed a three day convention at the Morrison hotel last night.

Plea for Consumers.

The city council delegation will ask for more consideration for the consumers of milk in the AA trade agreements which seek to give virtual monopolies to certain groups of milk companies and farm coöperatives as a means of boosting prices.

Ald. David L. Sutton [8th], chairman of the milk subcommittee, announced last night that Mayor Kelly had approved of the trip to Washington on behalf of the city's milk consumers.

The farmers' federation in its final session yesterday reiterated the dissatisfaction of dairy farmers over the alleged dilatory tactics of the AAA in administering the agricultural adjustment act. This delay, "marked by uncertainty, frequent, and sudden changes of policy," the federation charged with having resulted in losses of millions of dollars to dairy farmers.

Demand New Policies.

The federation specifically named the objects of the investigation which its directors said would be urged upon congressmen at once. Its resolutions called for the AAA to be revamped "with a view to putting its house in order" and bringing about these activities:

1. Rapid action on 140 dairy marketing agreements pending before the AAA and affecting nearly a hundred metropolitan milk markets.
2. Vigorous and courageous enforcement of the terms of marketing agreements on milk "by every means at the government's disposal."
3. A return by the AAA to its original policy on marketing agreements where producer prices, distributors' wholesale prices, and retail prices are fixed in each city agreement and enforced by a government license.

Assail Delay on Butter.

The federation also criticized the secretary of agriculture for delay in the plans for buying surplus butter, as announced on Aug. 17. For weeks, the federation declared, the necessary plans and papers have been drawn but the AAA is still holding up on its purchase of large surplus stocks of butter to be fed to unemployed.

The federation went on record as requesting Harry Hopkins, federal relief director, to see that milk to be furnished unemployed on public relief rolls this winter be purchased from farmers on the same basis as milk now being supplied to the needy.

In the city council's subcommittee hearing on milk yesterday, plans were outlined for an extensive investigation into the so-called "milk trust" and the milk bottle exchange which was created by authorization of the council several years ago. A proposal that the city milk ordinance relating to minimum standards for cream content in milk be revised is also under consideration, it was announced.

FACES MANN ACT CHARGE.

3 CHICAGO DAIRIES PICKED OUT TO FACE FEDERAL CHARGES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Three large Chicago dairies were today summoned to a public hearing before the agricultural adjustment administration on Oct. 16 to answer federal charges of violating the government milk marketing agreement for the Chicago area.

The three dairies, which face possible revocation of federal license to operate, are the Edgewater Dairy company, 5348 Ravenswood avenue; the Lake View Dairy company, 542 Grant place, and the Wagner Dairy, Inc., Cicero.

They are the first of 119 Chicago milk distributors facing federal charges to be haled to the capital to defend their right to operate under the blanket federal license imposed arbitrarily on all milk distributors and dealers under the marketing agreement. It had been planned by the AAA to hold a joint hearing for all the 119 alleged violators, but this plan was reported changed because of the varied nature of the charges pending.

Five Election Officials Found Guilty of Fraud

Five judges and clerks of election were found guilty yesterday by Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, sitting in the Cook county court, on charges of making a false canvass of votes in the election contest between Municipal Judges Erwin J. Hasten and Sam Heller. The defendants were Sydney Feuerstein, 3660 Grenshaw street; Samuel Elrod, 1101 Independence boulevard, and Joseph Merar, 831 Lafayette street, each of whom were fined $150; Mrs. Sylvia Fox, 3614 Grenshaw street, and Mrs. Birdie Feinberg, 3629 Flournoy street, who were each fined $100. Motions for new trials will be argued tomorrow.

JUROR'S OPINION REMOVES HIM FROM FORD CASE

Trial Continues with 11 to Render Verdict.

Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of common pleas court, presiding in the case, announced today that the juror, Meredith Jack, had been heard to express an opinion "indicating he had reached a conclusion about the case, although it is hardly half finished." Upon the court's suggestion and with counsel for both sides agreeing, the eleven man jury was allowed to continue for the remainder of the trial.

Makes No Changes.

Judge McDevitt said he was not "laboring under any misapprehension that any attempt was made by either side to influence this juror, but it is unfair, unjust and improper for a juror to reach any conclusion or to discuss the case before all the testimony is in.

"Mr. Jack," the judge said, "you are discharged. You may leave the box and go to the jury room."

Henry H. Rudolph, who was vice president of the Sweeten firm, said he talked to Henry Ford in the rotunda of the Lincoln Motor company building in Detroit Feb. 4, 1922, the day Ford bought the Lincoln company from the Lincoln receivers.

Calls Ford Reassuring.

"He asked me how we were doing in Philadelphia," Rudolph said. "I replied that we were doing badly, that we had sunk about $196,000 and were not feeling too good about it.

"Mr. Ford then put his arm around my shoulder and said to me: 'Never mind, Rudolph, we will see that you get it all back.'"

Adelbert Coon, Orchestra Leader, Sued for Divorce

Mrs. Florence Pursley Coon, 25 years old, of the L'Aiglon hotel, 22 East Ontario street, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against Adelbert Coon, an orchestra leader. The bill alleged cruelty. They were married May 21, 1931, and separated last Sept. 18. Mrs. Coon was formerly a musical comedy star.

RAIL ROW BRINGS RUSSO-JAPANESE CRISIS TO HEAD

Nipponese Act to Deport Soviet Correspondent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—Relations between soviet Russia and Japan admittedly arrived at the most critical stage in years today as a result of the soviet charges that the Nipponese have plotted to seize the Russian controlled Chinese Eastern railway in Manchukuo. Whether the soviets actually are looking for trouble or are merely bluffing is a matter most closely watched in official circles.

Informed observers, however, feel that Japan is not in a mood to engage in an armed conflict now.

Japanese officials are particularly irate because the soviets published documents allegedly referring to the seizure plot without first showing them either to Koki Hirota, Japanese foreign minister, or Japanese Ambassador Ohta. The documents purported to have been reports from Gen. Takashi Hishikari, Japanese commander in chief in Manchukuo, to Tokio.

Soviet Motive a Mystery.

Official circles here profess to be completely in the dark as to soviet motives. One theory is that the Russians are trying to stir trouble within Japan by dividing the peace and war elements which already are tugging against each other. The foreign office regards the matter lightly and the army takes it seriously.

One thing alone is plain. The government is taking steps which may lead to the deportation of Vladimir Nagi, correspondent of Tass [Russian news agency], who was questioned this afternoon at the foreign office. Efforts were made to learn whether he violated the peace preservation law by distributing the Hishikari documents to the homes of editors of leading Japanese papers when Rengo, semi-official Japanese agency with which Tass is linked, refused to circulate them on the ground that the documents were false.

Officials claim that Nagi violated the law in circulating dangerous reports when he knew they were false. It is reliably reported that the documents actually were false and probably were sold to the soviets by the Chinese, but whether the soviets acted in good faith is impossible to state.

Many Reasons Given.

Observers give many reasons for the soviet action. One is that the soviets are chagrined at the steadfast refusal of Japan to sign a nonaggression treaty and also because, since the Manchurian affair, they have been forced to let the Japanese have their own way due to miserable conditions in Russia and the uncertainty of the European situation.

With conditions greatly improved, however, and with their western boundary less endangered as the result of nonaggression pacts, the soviets, according to this view, are now able to divert their military power to the east and are ready to call Japan's hand.

A second reason is seen in the appointment as foreign minister of Hirota, who formerly served as ambassador to Moscow. From past experience Moscow knows Hirota to be a pacifist and thus, it is held, reasons that now is the time to take the initiative against Japan.

DAVIS REMAINS OFF THE STAND IN LOTTERY TRIAL

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The defense rested today in the trial of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania on charges of violating the federal lottery laws in connection with a charity ball and lottery sponsored in 1931 by the Loyal Order of Moose, of which Senator Davis was director-general. Senator Davis did not take the stand.

The defense of Theodore G. Miller, who is on trial with Senator Davis in the federal court here, rested last week. Miller was head of the propagation department of the Moose.

The only witness called by the defense today was B. D. Dahlberg, president of the Celotex company, with offices in Chicago. He testified that Senator Davis was in his office on Jan. 3, 1931, from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. It was on this day that tickets were drawn for the 1930 ball, the drawing taking place at Mooseheart, Ill.

Government witnesses have testified that Mr. Davis was in the room in which the drawing was held, but that he left just before the drawing on that day.

BECAUSE—

"HE'S GOT EVERYTHING!"

"Big Bill" Tilden drives his famous cannon-ball service sizzling across the net. Other tennis players have developed serves just as hard to return, BUT . . .

Tilden's powerful forehand drive has played an equally important part in making him the most famous tennis champion of all time, AND . . .

While many an otherwise top-notch player may dread a ball that comes to his left, "Big Bill" smacks 'em back-hand just as hard and true as any other way. THEN . . .

Up to the net and an over-head smash with all the power of that tremendous, graceful reach. "Point . . . game . . . set . . . match, for Mr. Tilden!"

Seven times National Tennis Champion and star of many winning Davis Cup teams . . . not merely because he serves "aces," but because he's good all the way . . . a master of every tennis stroke.

The story's much the same when it comes to motor fuel. It isn't outstanding ability at quick-starting alone—or in high anti-knock—or long mileage—that has made Standard Red Crown Superfuel a real champion among regular-priced gasolines. It's masterful performance in all these and every other essential quality of gasoline, combined. Some regular-priced gasolines may equal the new Standard Red Crown Superfuel in one or two qualities—none surpasses it. And we believe that not one equals it in all the essentials of good gasoline. He became cashier of the Albany City National bank, then vice-president of the National Commercial bank and, in 1907, president of the National Copper Bank of New York. When this was consolidated with the Mechanics National bank in 1910, he was made vice president of the merged institution.

He joined the Guaranty Trust company as vice president in 1910 and in the succeeding twenty years passed through the posts of president, vice chairman and chairman of the board. He had been in the latter position since 1930.

P. LA FAYETTE'S WIDOW IS DEAD OF HEART DISEASE

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Comtesse de La Fayette, the former Florence Boyd Saumenig of New York, whose romance with her late husband began in a Madison avenue dry cleaning shop she managed, died suddenly today of heart disease. She was 57 years old.

An orphan in infancy, she had been adopted in Cleveland by the late Frederick Boyd Saumenig, an editor of the old New York World, with whose $8 year old widow she still was living here.

For 23 years she was manager of the shop of Barrett Nephews. Paul Comte de La Fayette, younger brother of the Marquis de La Fayette of France, who had returned to America to live in 1908 after representing his family at the unveiling of the Rochambeau monument in 1902, first saw her through the shop window.

It was a romance at first sight. The great-grandson of the revolutionary general patronized the shop, their romance flowered, and they were married on Aug. 7, 1914. He died in 1926.

ROBBERY SUSPECT IS HELD.

Michael Mudo, 32 years old, 7636 Greenwood avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 yesterday by Municipal Judge O'Connell on a charge of robbing a delicatessen store Oct. 8.

IN every neighborhood, Chicago families realize the nearness, the remarkable promptness and superiority of Hursen service in directing funerals.

They know that Hursen elegance, Hursen unmatchable equipment, and the use of Hursen Organ-Chapels always free, cannot be matched in their own neighborhood.

They know, too, that Hursen funerals cost less!

CUBAN PRESIDENT PLANS DECREE TO REGULATE PRICES

Aims to Limit Profits on Food Products.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 11.—Price fixing on the necessaries of life was contemplated today by the administration of President Grau San Martin. As part of the program to follow in the footsteps of President Roosevelt's NRA, Secretary of Interior Antonio Guiteras announced that he will propose a decree regulating prices on wholesale and retail sales of all food products and articles of prime need, thus doing away with price fluctuations and "profiteering."

It was also announced that President Grau would sign a decree this week reducing the tariff duties on imports of foodstuffs and other articles of necessity. This is on the recommendation of Secretary of the Treasury Manuel Despaigne, who holds that it will tend to reduce the cost of living and prove an economic aid.

Special Taxes to Be Cut.

Also, Grau says, internal special taxes will be reduced. Although this will cut government revenue, the presidential palace is planning to offset it by immediate cuts in the costs of government.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the army, announced that in a few weeks the army and navy budget will be reduced to about $5,000,000 a year. Now it is $9,000,000, and under former President Machado was $13,000,000. Batista said he would cut his own pay from $1,000 to $250 a month.

Other departments will be chopped, it is announced, although the palace is beleaguered by an army of job hunters.

With these adjustments in view, Grau today said his administration will not seek to contract American loans, but that the island will seek to work out its own economic salvation as far as possible.

Asks for Coöperation.

"There will be no foreign loans contracted under my administration," Grau said. "I see no necessity for it. The solution of Cuba's economic problems depends very largely on the good faith, sound purposes, and undivided coöperation of business men, merchants, and the people with my government.

"Drastic economic measures will be adopted in the near future with a view to economic rehabilitation. A tax on inheritances will be created and in general internal taxes, especially those affecting business and trade, will be substantially reduced to stimulate the rehabilitation of business, which is now dormant due to the onerous taxation enacted under the Machado régime."

Florence Otis Is Engaged to Wade Fetzer

Announcement Is Made at Family Dinner.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. RALPH CHESTER OTIS gave a family dinner party last night at their home on Lincoln Park West to announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Florence, to Wade Fetzer Jr. of Hinsdale. Miss Otis, who went to the University School for Girls here and then to Miss Porter's at Farmington, made her debut two seasons ago and is a member of the Junior league and the Service club.

Mr. Fetzer "prepped" at the Asheville school and then went to Northwestern university, where he was graduated in 1925. No date for the wedding has been set.

Miss Otis' older sister, Sarane, now Mrs. Robert S. Burns of Los Angeles, was president of the Chicago Junior league before her marriage took her west to live. She will be coming to Chicago with her two babies to spend Christmas with her family. So if her sister is to become Mrs. Fetzer this winter it is probable that the wedding will take place when Mrs. Burns is here.

Mrs. A. Merrill Coit to Live Here Again.

Another name has been added to this year's list of debutantes with the return to Chicago of Mrs. A. Merrill Coit and her three attractive daughters, Betty, Eleanor, and Celia, after a three years' absence abroad. Mrs. Coit will present Betty, the eldest of the three girls, to society probably during the Christmas holidays.

It was in 1930, shortly after Mr. Coit's sudden death, that Mrs. Coit with her children went abroad to live. Since then the family has spent most of the time in Rome and on the French Riviera. All three of the girls were students last year at the Stella Viae school in Rome and before that they attended the Cours Maintenant in Cannes.

Betty will devote all of this winter to debutante festivity and Eleanor will also be free from anything so binding as classroom study. Mrs. Coit expects to enter her youngest daughter, Celia, in school in the city this winter. At the present time while looking for an apartment on the near north side, Mrs. Coit and her daughters are staying with Mr. and Mrs. William F. Peter in Lake Forest. Mrs. Coit was Eleanor Babcock, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hall Babcock, before her marriage in 1913.

Mrs. Gary Celebrates Birthday by Working

Mrs. John W. Gary celebrated her birthday yesterday by doing exactly what she has been doing practically every day since she returned from Scotland some weeks ago and what she expects to do every day until next Thursday, working for St. Luke's fashion show which will be staged next Thursday afternoon and evening in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

As a special birthday treat she did not come to town from her Glencoe home as early as she ordinarily does and just arrived in time to meet her efficient publicity chairman, Mrs. John C. Pitcher, and her sister, Miss Louisa Burrows, for luncheon at the Casino, where the talk was entirely of the coming show, of course.

Mrs. Gary, who is president of the woman's board and general chairman and treasurer of the show committee, was wearing two lovely deep purple orchids yesterday that had been brought to her at breakfast time by her little 2 year old grand-nephew, the son of her niece, Mrs. Robert B. Stocking, the former Emily Fentress.

After luncheon Mrs. Gary rushed away to her office in the loop to make arrangements to take out the insurance that she carries every year to protect the fashion show committee from damage suits should any of the lovely models break a leg or arm while modeling for St. Luke's. Never in the six previous shows that have been given have there been any serious accidents, but the best way to avoid them is to be prepared for them, Mrs. Gary wisely thinks.

Good Morning!

The Bowery, where "they do such things and they say such things"—or did—is being hilariously commemorated in its film namesake over on the United Artists screen.

Here is slapstick at its zenith. "The Bowery" has everything to make glad the heart of the film fan who has missed his Chaplin and his Sennett something terrible. Carrie Nation smashes saloons; Steve Brodie jumps off the Brooklyn bridge; white slavers plot; fights private and public flourish; bricks fly; mustaches wave, Pert Kelton sings "The Belle of Avenue A" and Wallace Beery saves sweet Lucy Calhoun from hell hounds to the tune of "A Bird in a Gilded Cage."

Ah, yes, "The Bowery" elicits the good old stomach laugh one thought had given way forever to the quizzical, lifted eyebrow, and it's a positive feather mattress for the mind. Possessing, you see, not a single problem that would make you think.

You just relax and chuckle as you view the adventures of Chuck Connors and Steve Brodie, both of whom aspire to be king of the Bowery. Everything Chuck has—including Chuck's saloon—Steve wants—and eventually gets. Each heads a volunteer fire brigade and wild is the excitement when a blaze starts in the district!

One of the picture's touching sights is that of Chuck's adopted son, Swipes, the newsboy, commandeering a fire plug for his beloved pop by the simple expedient of innocently sitting on a barrel that covers said plug.

The event for which Swipes holds the plug is the sort of affair that formed the piece de resistance of a Sennett comedy. While flames roar and Chinamen squeal to be rescued, the rival fire brigades fight for supremacy in the streets with the aid of the populace and the attempted interference of the police.

Comes the dawn upon a scene of desolution. But Chuck Connors' boys have won. Brodie's henchmen disband and Steve gets busy otherwise.

This picture—the first of those Twentieth Century productions you've been hearing so much about—has certainly a lot to offer! Wallace Beery is grand as the tough, illiterate Chuck. George Raft never did anything one-half so outstanding as his portrayal of genial, hard boiled, quick thinking, devil-may-care Steve Brodie, and Jackie Cooper is his own irresistible self as little Swipes.

Swipes loves to throw stones at Chinamen, and Chuck is agin the practice. But now and then, when Swipesy begs hard, Chuck permits him to throw "just one." It is one of these "just one" that's responsible for the fire we were talking about a while back.

"The Bowery" has been directed with astuteness and humor and is redolent of the atmosphere of the underworld '90s. The finale is just the sort it should be.

Also presented is a new Walt Disney Silly Symphony, "Lullabye Land"—a sequel to the "Three Little Pigs"!

If you're shopping for a r-e-a-l g-o-o-d time, just slip a coin to the smiling girl in the box office of the United Artists theater. She'll give you a ticket to one.

See you tomorrow!

Mr. Marston's pretty wife, the former Florence Carr, was sitting on the other side of him but unfortunately the photographer didn't make the picture wide enough to include her. Mr. Sullivan seemed to be finding his partner more interesting than the floor show which she was watching so interestedly. Miss Gordon is the eldest daughter of the Frank M. Gordons.

Gowns Point to Dinner as Real Ceremony

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The glamorous new collections of sophisticated dinner gowns indicate that dinner is going to be quite a ceremony this season. And these gowns are the last word in suitable attire for stimulating conversation, appetizers, and the courses of a perfect menu.

The newest gowns are long sleeved affairs, made of slinky dull crêpe. The wide loose sleeves are slit or split to expose the arms. There is a high neckline in front and a revealing low and open décolletage in back.

Some of the gowns have Spanish flounces beginning below the knees; others of liquidly lovely black velvet have circular flounces with a gay flying panel that forms a train slithering down the back. Perky, stiffened angel wing shoulder sections are lined with glittering gold lamé that matches the lining of the flying panel.

Or you can revel in mahogany toned velvet with long tapering sleeves, with brown fur contrasting the bodice and with a plaited set-on flounce at the back to form a tiny train.

One ensemble that will make you hold your breath is fashioned of black velvet, trimmed with clear white silk moire . . . the long clinging formal gown has shoulder wings lined with white moire, and the winged separate jacket is also lined with white moire and tied circumspectly at the high throatline with a snappy little white moire silk tie, the exact copy of your dad's dress tie.

And something different again are the trig, trim, and tailored taffetas, in white, peach, and pale blue moire, made with a tunic effect, tiered sleeves and a high neckline front and back.

Or you may prefer the new very clinging lace affairs made with silk underskirts that are stiffened around the edge with ruffles of contrasting silk . . . for instance, a carnation red, with navy blue ruffles and the white edged with black!

McCutcheon Will Address College Fraternity Editors

John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist for THE TRIBUNE, will speak tonight at the banquet of the College Fraternity Editors association at the Levere Memorial headquarters temple of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity in Evanston. The banquet will conclude the annual meeting of the association which precedes the National Interfraternity conference at the Palmer house tomorrow and Saturday. Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, also will hold a meeting on the Northwestern campus in Evanston on Friday, and 800 high school journalists will open a three day convention of the National Scholastic Press association at the Hotel La Salle.

Jekyll Island Club Borrows Half Million

Brunswick, Ga., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Jekyll Island club, of which J. P. Morgan is president and which owns an island of that name off the south Georgia coast where its millionaire members come for recreation and pleasure, has filed a mortgage for $500,000 here, presumably for improvement.

The mortgage was not signed by Mr. Morgan, because he was in Europe. George S. Dunsla, vice president, signed the mortgage, which is in favor of the New York Trust company, trustee.

About forty years ago one hundred of the world's wealthiest men organized the club and purchased an island off the coast from Brunswick. The island is about ten miles long by two miles wide.

The charter members included the Vanderbilts, Astors, Goulds, Rockefellers, Morgans, Bakers, Hills and other equally well known names. Membership in the club descends by inheritance and new money cannot crash the gate.

The organization has demanded and obtained isolation and absolute privacy. There are magnificent homes and a large clubhouse. Miles of bridle paths, shell roads through the picturesque forest and a long smooth beach invite the equestrian and the motorist.

Every kind of sport is offered on Jekyll. The golf course is said to be one of the finest in the country. There are polo fields. There are special paved paths on which only children are permitted to stroll. In some cases the third generation now holds the family membership.

Mrs. Kenneth L. Wilson to Entertain Sorority Group

Mrs. Kenneth L. Wilson, president of the Chicago Pan-Hellenic council, will be hostess this afternoon at a tea for delegates to the National Pan-Hellenic conference, composed of Greek letter sororities throughout the country, which is meeting here with the National Interfraternity conference at the Palmer house today, tomorrow, and Saturday. It is the first time that the sorority and fraternity groups have ever held their meetings together.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is 49; Family Dinner Party Closes a Busy Day

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The White House today observed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's first birthday there.

"Who's Who" said it was her 49th.

The Italian ambassador was ranking guest at the luncheon which honored those distinguished guests, Sig. Marconi of wireless fame and Signora Marconi.

Tea time was set aside for the women delegates here attending the American Federation of Labor convention. On the sunshiny south portico Mrs. Roosevelt, in a dark blue suit with frilly white silk collars and cuffs, was introduced to several hundred.

They were followed by fifty women from Baltimore, all interested in regional slum clearance.

All during the day there were congratulatory messages, gifts, and telephone calls. The White House guests included Mrs. Roosevelt's close friends, Mrs. Isabella Greenway, the new Arizona representative, and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Dinner tonight was reserved for "just the family." The President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, came down from Hyde Park to participate in the birthday celebration.

John Becker writes "The Introduction to an Introduction" in the front, and after pointing out that in America it is unfortunate that the standards of good and bad are born with such formidable and blind enthusiasm that the bearers themselves never see them, continues:

"I was present when a group of young ladies was being mothered through an exhibition and one fluttering young lady excitedly exclaimed:

"'Miss Treat! Miss Treat! I like Matisse.'

"Miss Treat no less excitedly replied:

"'Good! Good! That's the one to like.'"

EXCERPT from Gertrude Stein's "The Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas":

"It was during this summer that Gertrude Stein began her great book, 'The Making of Americans.' It began with an old daily theme she had written while at Radcliffe:

"'Once an angry man dragged his father along the ground through his own orchard. "Stop!" cried the groaning old man at last. "Stop! I did not drag my father beyond this tree."'"

IT was at the Fair. The barker in front of one of the peep shows was haranguing the crowd. He had caught its interest and in another second he would slap his cane down on the canvas and say: "Alright. Everybody inside," and the sightseers would step in. Just at that moment, however, a little fellow who had been listening interrupted.

"You've got a nasty mind," he said to the barker. And the crowd, instead of entering the concession, turned away.

A SECRETARY who thinks her boss is pretty clever writes that she was given a letter to an individual whose name was not immediately available. In her haste to leave the office promptly she decided to complete the letter, leaving a space in the salutation for the insertion of the name. Later the name "Born" was given her, so she hurriedly inserted it in the proper place and laid the letter on her employer's desk. He glanced at it and addressed her:

"Surely because today is Chicago day it isn't proper to address this esteemed patron as 'Dear Born!'" he said.

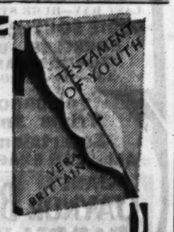
History lives again in this personal story of a lost generation



TESTAMENT of YOUTH
by VERA BRITTAIN

A poignant record of the generation which, young and untried, was swept into the maelstrom of 1914 and emerged to find its world completely obliterated. Others have written of the horrors of war, its idealisms and brutalities, but no other writer has written the real story of a generation's grief in a narrative which concentrates human history in the terms of an individual's life.

THIRD AND LAST

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, an American working on a Paris newspaper, is her friend and counselor. Bun received a 'phone call from Mrs. Thelma Craymer, a stranger, who mentions a mutual friend. Bun agrees to have luncheon at her apartment. She is admitted by an ominous appearing butler. She takes an immediate dislike to Mrs. Craymer, but is favorably impressed by her uncle, James B. Finlay, a wealthy American. Finlay wants Bun to help find his young wife, Helene. He wants no publicity. He had met Helene after the war in Bucharest. She returned annually to visit her family, the Bobianoffs, installed by Finlay in a villa on the Riviera. Her brother, Ferenz, he had brought to America. The last time Helene returned she disappeared, and no trace can be found of her or her parents. Bun agrees and accepts 200,000 francs in advance. A recent newspaper picture, showing Helene standing with a tall woman in a group at Biarritz is the only clew Bun has to go on. That evening Bun has dinner with Fred Crawford and tells him of her strange commission. Fred hears from his paper that Finlay has been found murdered in his hotel room. When Bun returns home she finds the apartment ransacked, her maid Liberte bound, and the money Finlay had given her stolen. A masked man and woman committed the robbery, Mrs. Craymer calls on Bun.

INSTALLMENT X.

PROMISED SILENCE.

Bun urged Mrs. Craymer to sit down, after murmuring a few words of sympathy.

"I'm desperately frightened," she said, in a voice that was far from steady.

"You! Why?"

She looked about furtively. "Are we alone?"

"Quite."

"Then—it's what I've been fearing ever since Uncle Jim arrived and told me the whole story. I can't help thinking his death has something to do with his wife's disappearance. It's all most extraordinary—her disappearing, her family disappearing, and now—his murder." She covered her face with her hands and shuddered. Then she looked at Bun fixedly. "Have you told everything you know?"

"I've told nothing."

Tremendous relief flashed over Mrs. Craymer's face. "I'm so glad! You could not have done a wiser thing. We must be very careful—you and I."

Bun drew back quickly. "You and I! What do you mean?"

"Well, my dear, you must realize that it would be very easy for us to become involved. We were the only people my uncle saw since he arrived in Paris. I suppose I'll have to admit that I saw him. But I shan't say anything about your having lunched with him—or what you talked with him about."

"I don't see that I have anything to fear from that."

"Still—he did give you two hundred thousand francs."

"I shall nothing until Mr. Finlay's son arrives."

Mrs. Craymer showed renewed amazement. "You will tell him!"

"Of course. What do you take me for! Do you know who is coming?"

"Bob will, I'm sure. His son. I cabled him half an hour ago—all the details I could get from the papers. They were few. I expect a reply from him in the morning. I—I haven't made any personal inquiries. I dread so becoming involved in this horrible affair. I haven't even seen my lawyer yet. I came to you first. So much depended upon what you had done. I wonder if I could ask a very great favor of you." Bun waited without replying. "I should so much rather neither of us told anything about my uncle's reason for coming to Paris at this time."

Bun felt that she was being drawn into a net that was growing more complicated each time she discussed it. Against her will she had promised Crawford to say nothing. Now this woman was asking the same thing of her. "Do you mind explaining why you wish me to say nothing?"

Mrs. Craymer hesitated. "To you—no." Her glance became averted as Bun had noticed the first day. "You see—it's a delicate position for me. I received my income entirely from my uncle. I shall inherit from him. Anything I say will have an added significance for that reason."

"I don't think I follow you."

"I suppose I'll have to tell you more. Bob and I are not very good friends. I think he resents his father giving me so much. Perhaps that is a reasonable explanation of his attitude towards me. At any rate, I know he doesn't like me. He never comes to see me when he is in Paris. If he finds out that his father came to see me about his trouble with his wife and that I asked a perfectly strange woman to undertake to find her, he might think naturally that there was something suspicious—that perhaps you and I were putting up some—what shall I call it!—trick to get money out of him. You do see what I mean!"

Bun's eyes hardened. "What you tell me makes it all the more imperative that I inform Mr. Finlay's son of everything that took place between his father and me."

Mrs. Craymer clasped her hands disconsolately. "You feel that way about it?"

"Most assuredly."

"Then—then you are letting yourself—and me—in for no end of trouble."

"I don't see that I'm letting myself in for anything. As for you, I can't say. My part in this affair is entirely one of business."

"You say that now—but you don't know."

"What is it I don't know?"

Mrs. Craymer's eyes became more and more evasive. "I really don't know myself. I—I only suspect."

"Yes—but what?"

She rose as if with sudden determination. "I suppose it's all unfounded—just foolish fears. At any rate, I shan't involve you in this. It was all my fault dragging you into it at the start. I'm so sorry. It would have been so much better if Uncle Jim had put the case in the hands of officials."

Bun did not rise with Mrs. Craymer. She sat perfectly still, thinking rapidly. That the woman was desperately worried about something which she had not told was obvious. But whether it was important or not, Bun was not sure. There was something so foolish about her, so almost silly, in spite of all her anxiety that it was hard to take her seriously.

"Look here," Bun said hastily. "I don't mind your telling all you know about me. I'm going to do it myself anyway. I'm not afraid."

Mrs. Craymer turned back to her. "But I am—for you. Please—please don't do anything rash."

"Telling the truth is not being rash."

"At times it is, I assure you—if it isn't necessary."

Bun considered this. "Would it be any comfort to you to know that I shall say nothing until Mr. Finlay's son arrives?"

Mrs. Craymer seized her hand. "Indeed it would. It would at least give me a breathing spell. Then I would not have all sorts of complications with these French officials."

"Then don't worry. I will be as silent as the tomb until he comes."

The next morning Bun talked the visit over with Crawford. He was delighted that some one beside himself had insisted upon silence. While he was there a telephone call from Mrs. Craymer stated that she had received a cable from Robert Finlay. He had just missed the Europa but would take the next fast boat and hoped to be in Paris a week from Monday. Crawford went away actually smiling with satisfaction. He was fairly certain that detectives had found no papers involving Bun among Mr. Finlay's effects. The Sureté was in charge of the case. So far as had been given out, they had not yet found any clews to the murder.

But Bun found nothing satisfactory in the situation. She was eaten up with impatience to make a full statement of her part in this affair. She loathed subterfuge. She liked to come straight out with everything—she always had, even though at times she had found it was not entirely to her advantage—and look the world squarely in the face. Even now—with both Crawford and Mrs. Craymer insisting upon silence—she felt driven towards telling what she knew. She could not help feeling that the longer she put this off, the more suspicious her part would appear.

In a driving desire to at least make the first step to clear herself, she wrote a note to Robert Finlay in which she asked him to see her as soon as he arrived in Paris. She left this at the hotel in which his father had stopped. After doing this, she felt calmer, and she got through the next four days with the feeling of contentment of having made the first step in the right direction.

However, on the sixth day after she had lunched with Mrs. Craymer, she had a surprise which shattered all satisfaction and created baffling suspicions. Returning late in the afternoon to her apartment, Liberté handed her a note which had just been delivered by hand. It was marked urgent. She tore it open with rising excitement when she noticed that the envelope bore the name of the hotel in which Mr. Finlay had been murdered. There were only a few words, written in a careful handwriting, informing her that her note had been received and that the writer would be glad to see her at her convenience. He had just arrived on the Europa from New York. It was signed Robert Finlay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Lilyan Tashman is re-doing the Tashman-Lowe dining room, and when Lilyan Tashman re-does any interior decorating all Hollywood manifests interest. She is doing the walls in lapis blue, with chandeliers of mirror and crystal prisms. The ceiling is gold. The dining table has a mirror top. Drapes are in deep blue velvet. The room will still be in Spanish style with heavy oak rafters in the ceiling.

Lilyan has now fully recovered from her operation occasioned by internal adhesions, but she has not recovered from the disappointment occasioned by "losing the best rôle I ever was offered in the movies." The rôle was for Twentieth Century's "Broadway Through a Keyhole." She had worked one day and taken fittings for twenty-four swanky, slinky garments, when the ambulance rushed her from the studio. Blossom Seeley succeeded to the rôle.

The day I saw Mae she admitted she kept twenty-seven kinds of perfume on her dressing table, but said "I only use one." The scent she uses is sweet pea.

for, at Miss Burrow's suggestion, a ramp instead of stairs has been installed by which the girls will leave the stage. So even the slight bruises and bumps suffered by some who have fallen down the stairs in their excitement will be done away with this year. It's quite a feat for a young girl who never has modeled in such a show to parade around the huge stage, down the stairs, and along the long runway, and then retrace her steps, so it is no wonder she is nervous and apt to stumble when it comes time to leave the stage. The thing she prays won't happen is to stumble before she leaves the stage!

The list of debutantes chosen to model this year and the older girls and matrons will be completed soon. So far the only definite information concerning the models is that lovely Mrs. Louis C. Sudler [Mary Barnes] will be the bride.

Luncheon to Honor Donors to Libraries

Invitations were received yesterday to a luncheon in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel next Thursday at 12:30 o'clock to honor Chicago citizens who have made notable gifts to libraries. The luncheon is being given by the American Library association, which is holding a conference here next week, the first here since 1893, and a committee of well known Chicagoans, including James Weber Linn, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, Mrs. Gordon J. Laing, Mrs. Burt Massee, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. John Paul Welling, and Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward.

Frank Darlingtons Are Guests in City.

The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darlington yesterday from Pittsburgh to be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams is the reason for a gay round of entertaining. After a trip to the Fair yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Adams entertained at dinner for them last evening at their Astor street apartment. This noon Mrs. Adams is having a luncheon for Mrs. Darlington at the Casino, and between five and seven this afternoon several dozen of the Adamses' friends will drop in at their house for a cocktail and to meet both Mr. and Mrs. Darlington. The Darlingtons will return east tomorrow.

The presence of Mrs. George C. Venard in the city is the reason for many informal and delightful parties, for all her old friends are anxious to entertain her on her first visit home since she moved to Atlanta about a year ago. Yesterday her brother's wife, Mrs. Sidney Haskell, gave a luncheon for her at the Century club at the Fair. Mrs. Venard, who is not accompanied by her husband because he is on a business trip, is staying at the Hotel Maryland.

Mrs. Chadbourne Entertains Today.

"Relief for unemployed wives and sweethearts available Century club Thursday, Oct. 12, 1 o'clock. Chief attraction Lina Harris. In case of rain emergency rations at Woman's Athletic club. Make reservations early through Whitehall 4850. We do our part. Mrs. Marie Starr Chadbourne, chairman of Melba Toast Line." Thus read the telegrams received by some of the friends Mrs. Chadbourne met last spring when she visited Mrs. Hayden B. Harris of 20 Cedar street. Mrs. Chadbourne is here now, staying at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

After one of the nicest vacations we've heard of, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Schwarz returned Tuesday to their Lake Shore drive apartment. They left here in June and had a 7 weeks' cruise to the North cape with the Charles E. F. McCanns of New York on their yacht, Chalena, and then they had 6 weeks in Biarritz with stops in Paris both on their way there and on the way back home.

The long vacation did them both good and all their friends who have seen them since they returned have remarked upon how well they both look. And needless to say, they had a glorious time although home looks very good to them, said Mrs. Schwarz yesterday.

Mrs. John Hooker will return to Winnetka for the winter from "Belle Grove," the Hookers' estate in King George county, Va., today. The three sons of the family, Kellogg, West and Ensley, are at the Woodberry Forest school at Woodberry Forest in Virginia this winter.

Miss Dorothy Wilson, daughter of the Milton Wilsons of Santa Barbara, who made her debut here several winters ago, has come east to spend the winter with her grandmother, Mrs. C. Crane Wilson of Evanston.

J. Allen Haines in Town for Week.

J. Allen Haines is in town for a week, staying at the Racquet club. Mr. and Mrs. Haines are greatly missed since they moved to New York.

The former Kate Canfield and her husband, Harry R. Curran Jr., will soon be settled in their new penthouse apartment atop 70 East Walton place, where they intend to be for the winter months at least. Mrs. Curran's parents, the Charles J. Canfields, have not yet settled on a date for the tea at which Mrs. Curran's twin sister, Miss Frances Canfield, will make her debut, but it is likely that the tea will be given in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Lennon are sending notes to their friends telling them of the arrival of a daughter on Sept. 13 at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Lennon was Jane Vaughan before her marriage.

Hutchinses Will Entertain Board.

President and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins will give a dinner this evening at their home for the members of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago. Among the trustees attending will be Harold Swift, John P. Wilson, Robert M. Scott, Albert W. Sherer, John Stuart, Dr. Wilber E. Post, Samuel Jennings, Charles B. Goodspeed, Harrison Barbard, James Douglas Jr., Frank McNair, William Scott Bond, Max Epstein, Thomas E. Donnelley, and Frank H. Lindsey. Other guests will include Frederic Woodward, Emery T. Filbey, John F. Moulds, Nathan Plimpton, Louis Brownlow, and Prof. Charles E. Merriam.

Four hundred relatives and friends will hear Miss Eleanor Patricia Headen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bernard Headen, exchange her wedding vows with Joseph Curwin Lamy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Lamy, in a candlelight service at 11 o'clock this morning in St. Gertrude's church.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Just as Prof. Fordney entered the judge's stand of the Columbia race track a colored boy ran up with the news that there was a dead man in one of the stables. Fordney hurried to the scene and found a body lying in a stall next to that occupied by Mountanious, the sensational horse of the meet.

That the unidentified man was murdered was obvious. An examination of Mountanious showed he had been doped shortly before.

Three days later, with the murder and the identity of the dead man still unsolved, Inspector Kelley received an anonymous letter. It stated that the dead man was the leader of a gang of five who doped horses and bet large sums on them and gave the names of the gang members without identifying the leader.

1. That one of the gang was an escaped convict.

2. Another had been recently released after serving a 3 year sentence.

3. That Haltzman was seen three miles from the track when the fatal shot was fired.

4. That the dead man was terribly afraid of horses.

5. That the actual doping was done by Neely.

6. Ponrol and Sherman, who had never been in the toils of the law, canceled large bets after the body was discovered.

"Well," said Kelley after giving the professor the above information, "perhaps the great criminologist can tell who the dead man is!"

Service Club Revue Ready for Premiere

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

"Is that man tight?" is what the uninitiated have been asking Miss Ethel Dixon as they watch the Service club revue director swaying back and forth, arms akimbo, in the Lake Shore Athletic club ballroom when the show is in rehearsal. The revue, "Dancing Debs," is to be given tomorrow and Saturday evenings in the Goodman theater.

"No," she always giggles in reply, "he is showing the girls the Mae West walk that they must use in the spiritual number!"

And so it goes behind the scenes of what is going to be one of the best shows the Service club has yet produced, for this time the director and the club board know what to expect in the way of stage space and equipment and will not have to do last minute revamping of sets or lighting effects.

Yesterday afternoon in the gay apartment of Mrs. Leslie B. Olmsted Mrs. John Dern, the club president, and several of the directors gathered for a final talking-over of the revue. Mrs. Paul Walker and Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, both fashionable in black, spoke of the grand surprise that will come at the end of the finale. "A current surprise, it is, too!" they declared, and in answer to a question: "No, not the fan dance! Something really exciting!"

"Call me at Superior 2712 for tickets," Mrs. Frank S. Sims cried, "and my sister, Caroline McNair, Superior 2165, is taking reservations for the Cabaret Saturday night at the Palmer house.

"Just wait till you hear the grand tenor Mrs. Olmsted discovered singing 'O Sole Mio' in the Venetian scene," pretty Mary MacCaughey sighed. "Yes," Miss Dixon took her up, "and that other song that goes—'Da dee dee dah,'" imitating the tenor. Phil Clark of Tampa, Fla.

Mrs. Charles Conrad blew in out of breath, smart in a high buttoned black coat and a perky black hat over one eye above her newly shorn and curled locks. She was worried because with her moving difficulties she hasn't had time to look after the "props" for the play, as she has done in past years.

"However, I have confidence in Alice Bremner," Mrs. Conrad declared, for Miss Bremner is handling the difficult job of begging, borrowing or [alas!] renting extra articles for the sets. No sooner did she speak than Miss Bremner arrived, tired but undiscouraged. She looked very smart in a brown silk dress with a mink edged white tie under her chin.

The audience will be interested to know that the smart chartreuse and black programs have been designed by Miss Janet Busby, the talented daughter of Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, who, with her mother, is arriving back in Chicago today or tomorrow from a summer in the east.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:10 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

"School lunches" don't always mean packed lunches, as lots of us are rediscovering these first whirling weeks of school. If school is near enough they often mean a scrambling half hour of breathlessness during which, some way, a good, sound lunch must get inside of family members.

Husbands and young things dash in at all doors, slam books and wraps into convenient or (just possibly) proper corners, tell mother all the latest news three times in the first ten minutes, and hungrily bolt for the dining table.

But that isn't the whole story. Quite possibly the morning has brought fall house cleaning to be done and a million other items to be attended to. So not only do modern mother-cooks have to serve prompt, satisfying lunches these days, but even time in the morning is at a premium. Which means—what shall we plan in the lunch line which is nutritious, delicious, and yet quickly prepared? And lest thoughts be running out let me suggest the following menus as starters:

(*Recipes Below.)

1.
Potato-Corn Chowder*
Ginger Ale Fruit Salad*
Crisp Wheat Crackers
Chocolate Pudding with Whipped Cream
Milk

2.
Apple Jelly Omelet*
Vegetable Salad*
Bran Muffins
Baked Apple with Cream
Milk

3.
Macaroni and Asparagus Casserole*
Tomatoes Stuffed with Apple Salad
Crisp Rye Crackers
Milk

POTATO-CORN CHOWDER.

2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons salt pork or bacon drippings
2 cups diced, raw potatoes
2 cups boiling water
2 cups corn (canned or fresh cooked)
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons flour

Simmer the onion in the drippings till slightly browned. Add the potato and water and cook gently till the potato dices are done. Add the remaining ingredients, combining the flour with a little of the milk. Simmer and stir until hot and thickened.

GINGER ALE-FRUIT SALAD.

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
½ cup boiling water
1½ cups ginger ale
¼ cup finely chopped nut meats
¼ cup chopped celery
1 cup diced, mixed fruits (apples oranges, grapes, pineapple)
Mayonnaise

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water, placing over hot water if necessary. Chill. Add the ginger ale and let chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in the remaining ingredients and turn into individual molds to chill till firm. Serve on crisp lettuce with a topping of creamy mayonnaise.

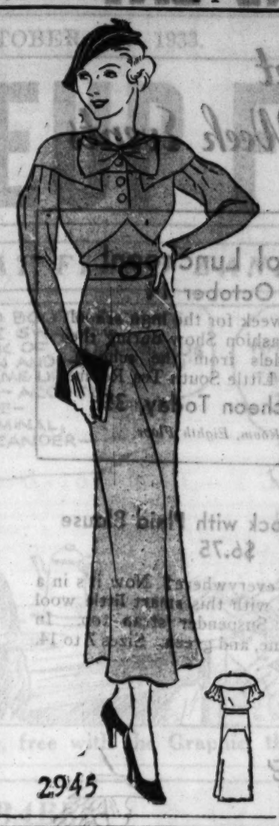
APPLE JELLY OMELET.

This is simply a puffy omelet browned on both sides and then folded together over spoonsful of apple, quince, or grape jelly. To make this puffy omelet separate six eggs, beating the yolks until lemon colored and the whites till stiff. (In beating the whites add one-quarter cup cold water when they are about half beaten and continue till they are stiff.) Add three-quarters teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper to the yolks and then fold in the whites. Turn into a hot frying pan containing two tablespoons of melted butter and cook slowly till brown. Brown the top in a slow oven.

VEGETABLE SALAD.

Toss together two cups of cooked, shredded string beans, two cups cooked fresh peas, one-half cup cooked lima beans, and one teaspoon minced onion with enough French dressing to season all parts. Let stand half an hour. Drain and blend with one-third cup mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce.

Tricky Shoulders, Fitted Waistline Carry Decidedly Youthful Appeal



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This graceful and youthful dress will lend itself beautifully to woolen. A lovely black sheer wool made the original dress with a white satin bow finishing the high neckline, and a belt buckle of sparkling rhinestones for a distinctive touch. Faille silk crêpe is also suitable.

The pattern, No. 2945, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

Satin Blouses Now Basis of a 'Dressy' Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Parisiennes are going to feel chic and dressed up this winter when they go out to tea, cocktails, or what not, in a satin blouse and a long woolen or velvet skirt.

Two satin blouses of the kind most shown are pictured here. The one at the top is a very feminine version of the waistcoat blouse from Yvonne Dangel. It is made of almond green crêpe satin and trimmed with encrusted motifs that represent leaves with the veins and edges picked out with tiny hand run tucks. The blouse is worn over the top of the skirt and has a narrow sash across the back to replace the belt and buckle of the man's vest.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The tanned skin is perfectly grand in summer against gay, summery clothes, but against neutral fall and winter shades the average woman looks better with a paler complexion tone. Consequently, that's what she wants. The difficulty is that she wants it in a hurry, and it takes a bit of time to bleach that polynesian tint a Camelian shade.

There are emergency measures that may be adopted in the interim, to be sure, such as cover-all bleaches, or make-up preparations. There are creamed powders or powdered creams in several different shades which may be used for evening wear to cover over the uneven tan dotting the skin. Unless one's evening frock is designed after the bathing suit model, there is likely to be a zebra striped color design exposed in the backless gown.

Some women rush from their mahogany tint to magnolia via the skin-peeling route, but this is a procedure that calls for such strong chemical preparation and such hygienic watchfulness that we are loath to recommend it. To have it done properly there is care and expense almost amounting to hospital operation. Even then it is not to be recommended generally, for it is a violent treatment for delicate skin tissue.

Just be patient and do your own bleaching, helping out temporarily with such make-up aids as you feel inclined to use.

The first step is a general rejuvenating attitude toward the face. That is, give it such care for the next few weeks as it has not had in a long time, more care in washing with soap and water to remove scales and stimulate blood and tissue. Massage with a good cream daily, and we mean massage, not just cleansing with a cream.

Child Sure to Outgrow Many of His Faults

Overzealous Discipline Only Retards Him.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Wait—wait—wait.

Give time and Mother Nature a chance with your children. You can't do it all. You don't need to. Give those two credit for knowing what they're about.

Sometimes you do so much that you're interfering with them. Sometimes you're so anxious to have your child just what you think he ought to be that you're meddling with nature's job.

Give nature and time a chance. Why?

Because the natural child has to fit himself to civilization. He has to adjust his desires and impulses to what grown people require of him. At the same time he has to struggle to get what he needs or he wouldn't get anywhere—I can assure you of that. It every child bent his will and his growing needs to the pressure of some grownups he would never achieve his normal development. As it is he achieves it—but with some parents he does it only by creating ructions and rumpuses—the only way he knows when he is little.

When your baby shows a new kind of behavior that you consider troublesome and inconvenient, don't think immediately that something is wrong with him and that it must be checked at once. Stop and think why he acts so—then do what you can to ease things up.

Grande Passion Can Well Afford to Wait a While

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Whatabout all you young girls of 16, and thereabout, who tell me you are in love with a boy, but that he doesn't know it? Don't you think it would be better to keep the secret passion hugged to your breast, and get all the consolation you can this way? Why do you always want to get word to the boy? To make yourself appear ridiculous in his eyes? And by your repeated telephone calls to the boy's home make his family think you must be a silly little idiot?

You, Babe, and Jean, and Blue Eyes, all of you girls who don't want to keep your precious secret to yourselves, ought to be acting the grownup 16 you really are these days, instead of behaving like the soppy Victorian girl of years ago.

You're pretty wise and sensible about most other things. Of course, we know, you're suffering the growing pains of a future great big love. But you mustn't try to force the growth and go in for the sufferings thereof long before your time.

Have boy friends while you're 16—as many of them as you can attract and as your parents will permit you to entertain. And we hope your parents are wise enough to hang out the welcome sign for boys at your age. But have them as friends! Not as the great adventure. That is to come later, and you do not want to get all burned out with emotions before you're ready to handle them wisely.

You 16 and 17 year olds of the present moment have possibilities for the grandest sort of times, providing you don't go "moony" on your boy friends.

Entwined Wreaths Form Continuous Coverlet Pattern

Garland of Leaves.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "The Garland of Leaves" design is as dainty as a piece of filigree jewelry, a quality that perhaps explains its popularity with women who like to quilt. The leaves can be delicately blended in any number of color combinations and the blocks arranged to form a continuous pattern or interlocked design all over a quilt.

For a quilt pattern of this design send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

STANFORD PICKS LINEUP FOR N. U. BATTLE

STRIBLING HAD NERVE IN AND OUT OF RING

Defied Death in Air and On Wheels.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—People who did not know Willie Stribling will find it difficult to reconcile his reputation as a clincher in the ring with his established bravery on wheels and in the air. Except his fight with Max Schmeling in Cleveland, in which, at last, he forgot the caution which had always marred his work from the customers' standpoint and, to some extent, from his own, he was a prize fighter who always seemed leary of being hit.

Of course, no smart gladiator invites punishment, but Stribling was so cautious at all times, except in the Schmeling fight, that he almost always left the ring owing the customers something. It is not a prize fighter's obligation to stick out his chin or otherwise expose himself needlessly to damage, but in a fight it is reasonable to expect an artist who is paid as much as Willie got for his work to take at least a sporting chance.

Willie Was Strong.

The patrons will make a slight allowance for a man who is physically frail for his class, such as Tommy Loughran or Jack Britton, but Stribling was a fine, strapping kid who had no need to ask any special consideration in a fight with any one. Yet he was so long-headed in his punches that even after feinting his man out of position he would save the punch and whirl into one of his rough-house, wrenching clinches rather than let one fly.

When a fighter does let one fly, even though the opening be there, he takes a certain small risk that he will miss the punch and be exposed to a counter-punch himself. Willie would not take even that chance. But on a motorcycle or in an airplane Stribling was quite another character.

The chances are that any one beating in the ring will not leave a man damaged much who is as strong and stout as Willie Stribling was. So the worst injury he was always so careful to avoid, even to the extent of marring his reputation in the ring and often defeating himself, was a black eye, a split brow or a broken nose. But on his motorcycle or in his plane his life was at stake and he gambled it with an abandon which you never would have expected in a man who shrunk so from a poke on the nose.

He Goes Flying.

The most spectacular demonstration of this contempt for danger he ever gave occurred one afternoon when Schmeling was training amid the hearses, coffins, and funeral wreaths of the district undertakers' convention in a little amusement park at Conneau Lake, Pa., about 50 miles from Cleveland. On that afternoon Stribling bounced away from a field at Cleveland in a rickety looking crate with Joe Kofoed, the sport writer, as his passenger, and flew over to Conneaut to impress Schmeling with his own devil-may-careness on the eve of a prize fight which meant much to both of them.

The plane dipped low, roaring over the trees which embowered Schmeling's training ring and pulled up quickly to come back and repeat the dive several times. Those present thought they recognized Stribling, but he was going so fast that nobody there could be quite sure.

But a couple of hours later there came the word from Cleveland that Willie had flown his kite over the enemy's camp and had hollered down, "Hello, Mox, I'll be seeing you in the ring." There is no doubt that Schmeling was impressed. The demonstration must have changed his opinion of Stribling considerably. But he was not intimidated any.

He Was Game.

And a few nights later, when Stribling, for the first time, left off wrestling and clutching to punch for a heavyweight championship, he showed the people who had always thought he was shy that he could take cruel punishment and never flinch. He was on his feet with only a few seconds to go

Babe Visits Fair; 'Grand,' He Calls It

George Herman [Babe] Ruth visited A Century of Progress yesterday, saw himself portrayed as a marionette, watched a show at Old Mexico and finally got so excited he swallowed his gum and couldn't talk. He said he thought the Fair was "grand" and spent considerable time with George Rector at the A. & P. carnival.

Ruth, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Julia, was cheered loudly by a crowd of several hundred when introduced by Rector.

"I have been a baseball fan since I was that high," Rector said, "and the man I am going to introduce is the man I have always thought to be the greatest player that ever lived. Here he is—Babe Ruth!"

Babe Ruth, marched to the front of the platform, gulped and turned red. He later confided he was so scared he lost his gum. He finally stammered:

"I wasn't playing when Mr. Rector was that high."

The party entered the grounds at 2 p. m. and were taken for a tour of the Fair in an official car. During the tour the Babe stopped to chat with Mordecai [Three-Fingered] Brown, a former Cub pitcher, now an employé of the Havoline thermometer at the Fair.

Trojans Lose Three Guards with Fractured Ankles

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Three University of Southern California football players representing freshmen, reserve and varsity squads, lay in a hospital today, left legs in slings. An epidemic of broken ankle bones—the same particular bone in each case—put the three players there. All three are guards. They are Francis McGinley, Bob Saunders and Pinky MacMoore.

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

[During the football season, when "Football Forecasts" appear on Saturdays, "Earlier Chicago" will be published on other days during the week.]

DEAR WAKE: My first visit to Chicago was back in the '70s on a pleasant day in early May. In shady places there was much ice, remains of the winter's heavy snow that had been piled up in clearing the streets.

Three of us, wishing to see the lake and Lincoln park, crossed the river, went to the lake and walked north along the beach, but saw no park. On the lake front beyond North avenue was a growth of stunted trees that shut off our view. After we had gone far enough we investigated and found we had gone past the park.

We walked back through the park and took a horse car to the south side. There were still many tombstones in the old cemetery at the south end of the park. L. L. B.

During the '90s, Edward Dorsey was a foreman in the Deering malleable iron foundry on Clybourn, just north of Fullerton. Working for him was Patrick Gillispie, a smart, husky lad just over from Ireland. Dorsey said to Pat one day, "You would be a long time in Ireland before you would be earning $1.75 per day." "Yes, sir," answered Pat, "and you would be a long time in Ireland before you would be a foreman." H. J. Montgomery.

On entering the foyer of Hamlin's Grand Opera house in the late '90s you were greeted cordially by Freddie Zeddies in most correct evening attire. On showing him your seat coupons he smilingly directed you to your proper aisle accompanied by some welcoming remark.

Please Spare the Fair.

What's this about Chicago folks
Not going to the Fair?
Can that be true? Why! Bill and I
Are most always there.
We haven't been such friends in years,
We never have a squall.
No arguments on what we'll see—
We want to see it all!
When we get tired we say we're through,
But soon go back for more.
O, Rufus, please don't close the Fair
Till the lake front freezes o'er.
What will we do? Where will we go?
What will we talk about?
When C. O. P. fades out.

Baseball Retrospect.

Now that the world and city series are over, let's look back and see how bookmakers, moved by no feelings of sentiment but simply by business, estimated the chances last spring. Here are the odds quoted against the various teams on May 15:

Chicago	2-1	Washington	2-1
St. Louis	2-1	Philadelphia	5-1

While at the Fair, I Learned—

100% naked fleas in the flea circus are more interesting and can perform better than 99 44-100% naked women.

Benches, chairs, and places to rest were not plentiful enough.

I had two feet.

BEARS DEFEAT PASSERS, 48 TO 7, IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears defeated the Washington Passers, 48 to 7, tonight in the debut of the capital team as a professional outfit.

The Bears scored almost at will and outplayed the Passers in every department except kicking. Molesworth, Bear quarter back, was the star, scoring two touchdowns. Jimmie Bankhead, formerly of Texas, shone for the Passers with his kicking. He also scored the Washington touchdown.

Spears Shifts Lineup for Illinois Game

Madison, Wis., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Virtually every Wisconsin man who may have a chance to play against Illinois Saturday was given a long drill in a scrimmage by Coach Clarence Spears today.

Second and third team members were shifted into the varsity lineup until it appeared Mario Pacetti, at tackle, is the only man sure of his first team rating. Frequent changes were made, particularly in the back field which bore the brunt of Spears' instructions.

Disappointed in the performance of Capt. Hal Smith at full back, Spears sent him to the second team and later to the third team. This was not regarded as a permanent shift, however. George Dehnert and Robert Schiller were tried at full back, but neither appeared to satisfy.

ILLINI LOSE FRINK.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Considerable anxiety was expressed in the Illinois camp tonight over the absence of Fred Frink, end, who is in a hospital with a leg injury. His chances of playing against Wisconsin in the homecoming game Saturday appeared slim.

Coach Bob Zuppke sought to speed up the attack planned for the Badgers. The varsity worked long in a dummy scrimmage, polishing up its running and passing attack. Later it met the freshmen in scrimmage.

COOL DEFEATS DUBLINSKY IN 10 ROUND BOUT

Sammy Slaughter of Terre Haute, Ind., won on a technical knockout over Freddie Heinz, Saginaw, Mich., in the third round.

ATTENDANCE AT FOOTBALL GAMES SHOWS UPTURN

New High Mark Seen if Trend Continues.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—After several lean years at the box office, during which attendance dropped away alarmingly from the days of 1925-'30, football bids fair to make this season the best in point of patronage of the last four.

A nation-wide survey today by the Associated Press of early season attendance at 32 representative schools shows a gain of 210,000 customers, with the total for the like period in 1932 as 499,029 and for 1933 705,880.

Season May See New High Mark.

Various factors enter into the upturn, such as good weather, lower admission prices, changes in coaches, and better attractions. But when all these are discounted the record still shows that the sports fans are turning out in greater numbers than for several seasons and sending money rolling into athletic department treasuries.

If the trend continues, the end of the season may see a new high mark for attendance and happier days for basketball, baseball, lacrosse, soccer, tennis, and track, from which financial support has been withdrawn entirely at many schools.

The 41 per cent increase in attendance thus far offsets the losses of 1931 and 1932, which were, respectively, 10 and 15 per cent below the preceding years.

Attendance Increase Widespread.

The increase has not been confined to any one section. Only four schools report a smaller attendance this year than last.

Record first game crowds were counted at Yale and Tennessee—17,000 to see the Bulldogs defeat Maine and 11,429 to witness Tennessee's victory over Virginia Poly.

Ohio State, playing Virginia last Saturday, drew the banner attendance of 42,000, as against 12,000 in 1932. Most of these were school children admitted free, but the increase still stands as the best of any institution in the country.

60,000 See California Win.

The largest outpouring of fans to date was the crowd of 60,000 which saw California score a last minute 14 to 13 victory over St. Mary's—5,000 more than saw the same teams play in 1932.

The figures on the 32 schools reporting, most of them estimates by athletic directors or graduate managers, follow:

Red Wings Purchase Pettinger from Rangers

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings, Detroit's National Hockey league team, today announced the acquisition of Gordon Pettinger, wingman with the New York Rangers last season, for an undisclosed sum of money. Adams also announced Herbie Lewis, left winger, will captain the Red Wings this year, succeeding Larry Aurie.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THIS is the week Chicago's professional football teams are preparing for their annual battle. . . . The Cardinals are humming that popular ditty, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Bears." . . . Pictures of Bill Terry signing $200,000 contract show him wielding pen with right hand though he throws and bats left handed.

BILL TERRY.

Harry Mendel, public relations counsel for six day bicycle race, reports Reggie McNamara, iron man of cycling, may not compete in the race opening at Stadium Oct. 29. . . . At last the iron is wearing out. . . . There's a fortune awaiting the man who can finish the six day race in five days. . . .

Talking about Terry reminds us that Charlie Grimm also uses his right hand when he writes. . . . Arlie Mucks, Wisconsin's former shot put champion, who now is officiating in Big Ten football games, did the 18 day diet twice and lopped off 43 pounds. . . . He's down to 270 now. . . . There's still hope for Wilfrid Smith and Edward Burns. . . .

Football attendance is picking up on the coast. . . . Stanford's game with Santa Clara drew 25,000 in 1932. There were 35,000 looking on this year. . . . The U. C. L. A. game at Palo Alto attracted only 16,000 in 1931 but the same teams pulled 30,000 this fall. . . . What a chuckle Kansas must get when it recalls that its football coach, Ad Lindsey, was fired by Oklahoma because he couldn't win games. . . . Notre Dame wishes he had stayed at Oklahoma. . . .

Red Faber's going to pitch for a team of Columbia College alumni in Dubuque Sunday. . . . Red was pitcher for the Columbia nine 25 years ago. . . . Fred Fitzsimmons will use his world series dough to restock his Arcadia, Cal., ranch. . . . Earth quake scared his last crop to death

Mike Tobin, who has been sending out pieces about Illinois football teams since memory of man runneth not to the contrary, was in Cleveland yesterday conferring with Lieut. Echols of West Point about press arrangements for the Illinois-Army game there Oct. 21. . . . Purdue alumni will entertain the football squad at Medinah Michigan Avenue club the night before the Boilermakers meet the Maroons at Stagg field. . .

Luke Appling boosted his batting average from .274 in 1932 to .322 in 1933. . . . Al Simmons moved up from .322 to .331. . . Mule Haas fell off from .305 to .286 and Jimmy Dykes dropped five points to .260. . . .

Illinois was guaranteed $10,000 to take its football team to St. Louis last week-end. . . . That's more than it would have made at home in a practice game. . . . The life of a football player is one sacrifice after another. . . . Tommy Fontaine, Wisconsin half back, had the chairmanship of the Junior Prom in the bag, but Coach Spears said there was no place for prom chairmen on the gridiron squad. . . . Tempus does fugit. . . . Paul Schuelke, the Badgers' 190 pound half back from Marshfield, Wis., has a part time job serving beer and pretzels at the Madison Elks club. . . . He would have been sent to the penitentiary for life if he had been caught in such nefarious business two years ago. . . .

Tommy Gorman, Blackhawks' skipper, had to spend night at border en route to Chicago. . . . Got there ahead of his bond. . . . You should have heard those disabled veterans at Hines hospital cheer the Golden Gloves boxers the other night. . . .

Senator Robert La Follette sent a clerk to the University of Wisconsin ticket office for seats to the Marquette game and got a pair on the 15 yard line. . . . Then he told a Madison sports writer about it. . . . The scribe handed him two on the 50 yard line. . . . Such is the power of the Madison press.

Fight Decisions

COAST PLAYERS TAKE TO AIR IN FIRST WORKOUT

228 Pounder Given Tackle Job.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Stanford University's bulky football squad of 34 players arrived in Chicago yesterday and immediately proceeded to the business at hand, which will culminate in a battle with Northwestern's Wildcats Saturday at Soldiers' field.

The boys, after reaching their quarters at the Windermere hotel, were given only enough time to drop their luggage and shed their California hued clothing for more somber football togs. Then they were put through two hours of dress rehearsal on the Stagg field practice gridiron.

The big portion of the drill was devoted to offense, particularly as it pertained to forward passing, thus giving indication that the Palo Alto brigade will be prepared to take to the air in the event the Purple proves too tough for a running assault.

Picks Starting Back Field.

In yesterday's drill Coach Tiny Thornhill used a back field that is generally regarded as first string. The same four given undivided attention probably will start Saturday. It was made up of Bill Sim, quarter back and blocker par excellence; Bob Maentz, left half and safety man; Ken Afflerbaugh, right half and open field expert, and Bob Grayson, sophomore full back. Grayson, who is one of several Cardinals able to step 100 yards in ten seconds, scored the lone touchdown against Santa Clara last Saturday.

Two other full backs are available in Jack Hillman, a veteran, and Frank Alustiza, a sophomore. Hillman started at the position in Stanford's first two games this fall, but Grayson took over the post last week-end. Incidentally, anybody in the Stanford back field is able and likely to throw a pass. This is no news to Dick Hanley, the Purple coach, who is preparing accordingly.

Palamountain Won't Play.

Ben Palamountain, the 207 pound right tackle, was only a spectator while his Stanford teammates went through their lessons yesterday. The coaches have decided that as the result of a slight fracture in an ankle bone he will not be employed Saturday. The place will be occupied by the 228 pound Bob [Horse] Reynolds. It also is improbable that Bob Hamilton, flashy half back, will see service. The coaches are not satisfied with the device rigged up to protect his cracked jaw bone.

Before, during, and after practice yesterday Coach Thornhill refused to let his men derive any happy thoughts from the fact that Northwestern was unexpectedly thumped by Iowa two weeks back. His advice was that they should take no stock in stories of the Purple's feebleness. On the other hand, he refused to subscribe to the prevailing opinion that his fellows are inclined to be weak against a forward pass attack.

No Sobrero at N. U.

This idea spread in the wake of the victory over Santa Clara last Saturday. The latter threw 23 passes and completed 9, but it so happened that the man doing the passing was Sobrero, said to be about the most dazzling in the country at this particular feature of the football profession. Sobrero is a giant with great speed, who dashes back as far as 25 yards and then, while leaping, makes accurate throws of from 40 to 50 yards. It was some of these passes that moved Santa Clara to Stanford's 2 yard line on first down, but four downs later the ball was shoved back to the 14 yard mark.

Wildcats Meet Reserves.

Northwestern took its last tough workout yesterday. It consisted mainly of scrimmage against the reserves. Coach Hanley gave no indication of breaking away from his previously announced plans for a renovation. The two heavy sophomore tackles, Chambers and Kopecky, were in the places occupied by Riley and Capt. Heuss at the start of the Iowa battle. Al Kawal, who was injured before the Iowa game, was at right guard. The work of the line as a whole indicated improvement.

In the back field Olson has been shifted from full to quarter. Duval, supposedly a better plunger than Olson, was at full back. Leeper was at left half instead of Sullivan, and Cruice at right half. The same quartet is expected to be in action Saturday.

Mexico Seeks Baseball Series with U. of Missouri

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A tentative invitation to play a series of baseball games with the National University of Mexico in Mexico City next June has been received by the University of Missouri baseball team, Chester L. Brewer, athletic director, announced today.

BEARS ARE NOT AMONG THOSE CARDINALS FEAR

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The undefeated Chicago Bears have first place in the National Professional Football league all to themselves, but their city rivals, the Chicago Cardinals, believe they can change this Sunday at Wrigley field. The Bears, so the Cardinals say, aren't as good as their three victories seem to indicate, and neither are the Cards as weak as two defeats and one victory would seem to have it.

Joe Lillard, Negro half back, who ran around at will last year in the first of the two game series with the Bears, is one reason for the Cards' optimism. Lillard is an exceptional runner and passer, fast as the proverbial streak, and he also can drop kick as he proved last week when his three points defeated the Cincinnati Reds.

Injuries Hamper Cards.

Lillard wasn't of much service later in the season because of injuries. For that matter the Cardinal back field was ripped apart by injury, and toward the end of the campaign Jack Chevigney, the coach, even thought it might be necessary for him to get into uniform. Many of the Cardinal line, which performed up to expectations a year ago, are back. The new back field, strengthened by men released from other clubs in compliance with the 22 player limit, will be ready to function Sunday.

Cliff Hansen, who was dropped by the Bears only because a back field man had to go under the league player rule, will be familiar to Schissler's plays. Mike Koken, another newcomer, will have advantage of an additional week's drill. The only casualty apparently is Hal Moe, whom Schlissler brought with him from the coast. Tim Moynihan, center, probably will not get into the game, but his place will be well taken care of by Tommy Yarr, who succeeded Moynihan at center in his undergraduate days at Notre Dame.

Bears' Attack Lags.

This shifting of players also should be a tipoff to the Cardinals on the Bears' system of attack. Hansen and Gil Bergerson, another former Bear who will play guard for the Cards, certainly have told all they know, and while the Bears call their signals in a huddle, the general outline of the Bears' strategy must be an advantage to the Cardinals.

The Bears, although winning three games, haven't demonstrated a consistent attack. One successful touchdown pass followed by a blocked kick gave the Bears a 14 to 7 victory over Green Bay. Boston threatened to score three times in the first quarter against the Bears only to lose 7 to 0 in the closing minutes when superior man power ran over the tired Redskins. Last week the Bears whipped Brooklyn, scoring a touchdown on a pass and a field goal by Jack Manders.

The Cardinals lost their opening league game, 14 to 13, to Pittsburgh after leading 13 to 0. Portsmouth's Spartans defeated the Cards by a point, 7 to 6, blocking Lillard's try for the point to gain the victory.

Two New Linemen.

Yarr and Nesbitt, the Cards' right end, are the only new men in the starting line. The veterans, Gordon, Kassel, Handler, Keissling and Tinsley, not only know what it's all about, but they would rather play the Bears and beat them than any team in the league. The ambition sometimes has brought about personal clashes, for while the boys can take it, they also can hand it out. Lillard had a session Sunday with the veteran Lester Caywood, Cincinnati guard, which ended in a draw. Such goings on are not countenanced by the coaches, but they lend "color" to the game.

The Bears believe the plunging ability of Manders and Nagurski will be a decided advantage. Sisk, Corbett, Grange, Nesbitt and Ronzani are able half backs and the Bears have already shown their ability to use a passing attack. Probably the Bears should be a slight favorite but the breaks of the game, fumbles or misplays, will be the deciding factor in the result.

SIGN SARPOLIS, DE VITO FOR MAT CARD AT STADIUM

The wrestling program which will open the Chicago Stadium on Oct. 25 was completed yesterday with the addition of Dr. Karl Sarpolis, former Maroon athlete, and Joe DeVito.

Just how the wrestlers will be paired awaits approval of the Illinois state athletic commission, although the feature match, between Joe Stecher, former heavyweight title claimant, and Jim McMillen, former Illinois and Chicago Bear football star, is already set. The winner is assured a chance at Jim Londos and his title claim next month.

Stribling Had Nerve In and Out of Ring

when George Blake stopped the fight, but he had been terribly beaten for six rounds and, for once in his life, with his hands down and his strength gone, he was in a position to be badly hurt by a punch of another man's fist.

Willie was the family living and fortune after his parents abandoned their own career in the show business and devoted themselves to the handling and management of their son in the ring. They knew little about the prizefight business when they started out, but Pa Stribling had been a trouper long enough to recognize prizefighting as just an offshoot of the circus game. Willie was the family act, and pa and ma never let him forget that one punch on the chin, recklessly invited in order to win a few cheers from the customers, might ruin the act.

It Was a Family Affair.

Willie was devoted to the family and he played safe in the ring, probably against his natural inclination, which was daring and boisterous, because he never forgot that he was the family's business asset.

Even in the prizefight business not many people know that Willie once pulled away from his pa and ma and set out to go it alone. He did. And his pa told him to get going and not come back until he was ready to do business as they had always done business, with pa the absolute boss. Willie pined wretchedly for a while. Then he went back to his pa, and from the day of his first fight until his last one no fight manager of the hundreds who would have liked to drop a halter over Willie and estrange him from his family ever got a piece of Will.

NEW FREEDOM IS GIVEN HUNTERS ON TWO RIVERS

Missouri and Mississippi Will Be More Open.

BY BOB BECKER.

An agreement by the states of Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska regarding duck hunters who shoot on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers where these rivers form the common boundary between states, has just been effected. Shooters along the rivers will get a "new deal" during the coming duck season.

According to this arrangement, made jointly by the Illinois department of conservation, the Nebraska forestration and parks commission and the Iowa fish and game commission, a resident duck hunter who has a license may hunt waterfowl anywhere on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers provided he does not land or hunt from any wingdams or bars connected with the mainland of Illinois, Nebraska or Iowa, or on any island taxed by these bordering states, or upon privately owned islands.

Expected to Simplify Enforcement.

This arrangement is expected to simplify enforcement of laws affecting ducks and geese and will give sportsmen an opportunity to hunt in places heretofore held questionable as to the hunter's rights. Formerly, a waterfowl shooter who holds, for example, an Illinois license might sally forth on the Mississippi and eventually get into what is Missouri territory. Then would come the question of the hunter's rights in going after ducks or geese without a Missouri license.

This sort of problem concerns hundreds of sportsmen in the duck and goose country above Cairo where there are large concentrations of birds after Nov. 1, and where one finds some of the finest wild goose shooting in the central states.

Specific as to Islands.

Now these border rivers are more open although the three states which have entered the agreement are specific about islands. The Iowa fish and game commission has just made an announcement on the situation which says:

"The waterfowl hunter will now feel free to hunt some of the better places on the river [Mississippi], provided, of course, that he does not land on the bars, wingdams and private islands, or upon established federal and state game preserves."

In other words, waterfowl hunters in Illinois cannot go across the Mississippi and land on a Missouri sand bar to hunt on an Illinois license. However, the river area next to Missouri is open territory.

Florida Adopts Salivary Test for Horse Doping

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Methods which are now used on race tracks in France will be adopted in Florida during the winter racing season to prevent doped horses from participating in races. This was announced today following a meeting of members of the Florida state racing commission and Commissioner Anslinger of the federal narcotic bureau.

The commission representatives, H. F. Paty and Walter H. Donovan, said the federal bureau would coöperate with them in having owners and trainers of horses at all tracks in Florida submit their horses to the saliva test after each race. By this means it may be determined whether or not any narcotic stimulant or drug has been administered.

MICHIGAN TOILS ON DEFENSE FOR CORNELL BATTLE

Kipke Respects Invaders' Running Attack.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Kipke gave his Michigan regulars a stiff defensive workout today, using freshmen to demonstrate the plays that Cornell has used in winning two games by top heavy scores. Some time was spent in attempting to further speed up the Michigan attack, but in the main Kipke confined his efforts to trying to bolster the defense. He said he would order more of the same work Thursday, and Friday would order only a light drill. He expects a whirlwind ground attack from Cornell, he said.

Indications today were that continued good weather would bring from 45,000 to 50,000 fans to Saturday's game. The attendance will be determined largely by the weather Saturday, as a fair day will raise the gate sales by several thousands.

OHIO IS FOOLED.

Columbus, O., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Ohio State's varsity had difficulty stopping Vanderbilt plays, as executed by the freshmen, tonight in a scrimmage.

Long gains were made by the freshmen, especially in the air, as the regulars were kept on the defensive. Fisch and Cramer hurled most of the passes when the varsity went on the offensive. Gillman, Padlow, and Heekin did the receiving. The punters, led by Boucher and Phillips, and the place kickers, Vuchninich, Rosequist, Monahan, and Wetzel, were engaged in a long drill.

Coach Willaman decided to keep his first string lineup intact for the Vanderbilt game. Large signs in the Buckeye's dressing rooms today called attention to Vanderbilt's 26 to 21 victory over Ohio.

HAWKEYES FOOL FROSH.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The running of Dick Crayne, full back and Joe Laws, quarter back, baffled University of Iowa freshmen today and the varsity team smothered the yearlings in a long scrimmage.

Coach Ossie Solem concentrated on offense again, sending two varsity combinations against freshmen teams. The first string failed to function smoothly in executing the new complicated formations which Solem gave up Tuesday, but Crayne and Laws gained consistently on straight off-tackle drives.

The reserves had almost equal success with passes against the freshmen. Three Hawkeye guards were on the injured list. Bill Secl was unable to work because of a "Charley horse" and Francis Schammel, the other first string guard, had a twisted knee. Wilmon Hass, reserve guard, was out with a badly bruised shoulder.

HECKER JOINS PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Purdue was made acquainted with the running attack that can be expected from Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday as Coach Noble Kizer sent the squad through an intensive defensive scrimmage today. The drill virtually completed Purdue's preparation for the game. Only a light workout is scheduled before the squad leaves tomorrow night.

Fred Hecker, veteran full back, injured before the Ohio university game, reported in uniform today, but it was doubtful whether he will be able to play against Minnesota. Kizer still plans to start Howard [Butch] Keegan at full back.

SCORING DUEL SEEN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Noble Kizer of Purdue some time ago announced that because of the profusion of good running backs, his defense this year would be a good offense. Minnesota, which meets the Boilermakers here Saturday, is expected to favor the same tactics.

PITTSBURGH PRO ELEVEN DEFEATS CINCINNATI, 17-3

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's pro football eleven tonight registered its second victory in four starts, defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 17 to 3, in a National league game.

The Ohioans scored in the opening period on a 12 yard field goal, drop kicked by Myers Clark, former Ohio State quarter back.

Soon afterward Don Rhodes of the Pirates blocked a Cincinnati punt and fell on the ball on the visitors' two yard line. On the next play Ed Westfall went over for a touchdown and Brovelli kicked the extra point.

There was no more scoring until the final period, and then Mose Kelsch, 36 year old Pittsburgh sandlotter, kicked a goal from placement from the 23 yard line. This was followed soon afterward by a touchdown by Half Back Harp Vaughan, with Westfall accounting for the extra point.

DODGERS OBTAIN ST. PAUL HURLER FOR 3 PLAYERS

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Pitcher Leslie Munns of the St. Paul club of the American association was obtained by the Brooklyn Dodgers today for three players and an unannounced sum of money.

The players who will report to the Saints next spring are Pitchers Babe Phelps and Hollis Thurston and Outfielder Joe Hutcheson.

Munns, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall, is a right-hander. He won 19 games while losing 16 with the Saints, who wound up in fourth place. Several other major league clubs made offers for him.

La Salle St. Gives Tips to Maroons

The great emphasis in the University of Chicago football camp this year has been on the perfection of plays, and yesterday's workout on the Midway consisted chiefly of the same medicine. Coach Clark Shaughnessy went to the practice field well fortified with ideas contributed by the La Salle street coaching staff at their luncheon, but seemed content to drill his men in the 86 touchdown plays they already have. The practice was concluded with a long session of pass defense.

Jim Gold, a sophomore guard who starred at Tilden Tech two years ago, was declared eligible yesterday and was immediately sent into a position on the second team. Gold weighs 185 and is clever enough to rate first call as a replacement. He was a city high school wrestling champion in his weight.

Ed Cullen, who has been tried at full back and center, ran the first team from the quarter back position for an experimental spell yesterday with Vin Sahlin at half back. Merritt Bush, big sophomore tackle, is not yet fit for varsity play after a two weeks' layoff, and ran with the third team. The first line remained intact, with Wells and Womer at ends, Deem and Rice at tackles, Maneikis and Perretz at guards, and Patterson at center.

Shaughnessy's a Member.

The best friends and severest critics of University of Chicago football, the La Salle street coaches among the alumni, yesterday took Shaughnessy into their confidence at their organization luncheon at the La Salle hotel. One hundred and twenty-five strong, and most of them strong men of former Maroon teams, the volunteer coaches elected Shaughnessy to membership.

Percy Graham, quarter back for the Maroons in 1917, was elected head alumni coach, with Buell Patterson, Charles Redmon, and James Donovan as assistants. Howell Murray, '14, was made chief scout and Carl Defebaugh, '16, chief trainer, with Charles Higgins, Maroon captain for 1919, and Harry Swanson as business managers. The duties of the officers were not specified, save that they preserve parliamentary order at post game arguments.

More Candy Ready.

Twitted about his practice of presenting a box of candy to the first athlete who makes a tackle during a game, Shaughnessy replied that he had more boxes for the alumnus who could tell him how to score from midfield.

Nelson Metcalf, athletic director, disclosed that under the new régime all varsity coaches must assume charge of some intramural sport as well. Shaughnessy's current assignment is to direct intramural handball and faculty recreation.

SEEK RELATIVES OF JOHNNY DAY, TURF FOLLOWER

Officials yesterday were searching for the family of a race track follower known at different times as John Day, John Hayes, and John Morris, who died of heart disease in his room at the Pine Crest hotel, Irving Park boulevard and Pine Grove avenue.

Day was 52 years old and was born and reared on the west side. He was known to have a mother and two sisters living in Chicago. He was known about the race tracks as Fat Johnny Day, weighed 235 pounds, and was 5 feet 4 inches tall.

LETOURNER TO COMPETE IN SIX DAY BIKE RACE

Alfred Letourner, motor paced champion of the United States for the last two years and winner of the last Chicago six day bicycle race, has signed to compete in the race which will open at the Chicago Stadium on Oct. 29.

There is one thing certain in this race and that is that Letourner and Gerard Debaets will not ride as a team. There has been a lot of ill feeling between Letourner and Debaets during the past summer, which cropped up in the fight for the motor paced championship. Debaets led for the greater part of the season, but Letourner beat him for the title.

Friday Games Help at Gate, but Not in Practice

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Playing football games on Friday evenings has much to commend it from the box office point of view, especially in the case of the University of Detroit, which wishes to avoid conflicts with its big neighbor, the University of Michigan. The coaching staff would be glad to return to all Saturday games, if that could be made to fit in with the fiscal program.

As Coach Dorais explains it, when a team plays its games on Friday, it really loses one full day's work each week, which means that there are only three days available for strenuous practice. The players are naturally given Saturdays off when they play Friday. Sunday, of course, is not a working day for any college squad.

Militti Hurt; Saltis Will Meet Stuhley

Bud Saltis, north side middleweight, yesterday was signed to substitute for Millio Militti of Omaha, Neb., in a six round bout against Young Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., at the Midway arena tomorrow night. Militti left for home immediately after being released by Promoter Maurice Rivkin because of a cut over his left eye.

Johnny Fitzpatrick, featherweight, will make his first appearance in several weeks against Joey Bozak in a six round semi-final. Lenny Cohen, former Golden Gloves flyweight runnerup, will try for his fifth triumph in six professional starts against Jimmy Loring in one of three matches at four rounds.

Einar Hedquist, welterweight, will oppose Jerry Kucera in the five round feature match tomorrow at the Rainbo fronton. Frankie Keevil faces Gene Higgins in the main contest at four rounds. Others will bring together Biff Bennett and Charlie Young, George Williams and Red Johnson, and Al Schiarto and Jimmy Richards. Johnny Holda will wrestle John Mason. Bennett, Fort Sheridan heavyweight, will be making his first appearance since he met Otto Von Porat in Wisconsin.

Johnny Phagan and Solly Dukelsky finished sparring yesterday for the renewal of their feud at Cicero stadium tomorrow. Phagan went six rounds, two each with Walter Jerz, Billy Gladstone, and Jack O'Connell. Dukelsky boxed three rounds with Young Walker and two with Chet Levere. After the drill Phagan weighed 150 and Solly 148½. The poundage for the match is 150. Dukelsky will do only loosening up exercises today and Johnny will rest.

Aspirants in the coming Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament will have their first tryout in the weekly C. Y. O. boxing show at 31 East Congress street tonight. The card has been recruited from the ranks of tournament entrants.

St. Alphonsus and St. Clement's parishes will send picked teams which will battle against the best of the newcomers in C. Y. O. circles. There will be eight bouts on the card, which starts at 8:30 p. m.

The feature bout will be a heavyweight encounter between Fred Geiselhart and Michael Turro. This bout will share honors with the match between Frank Schultz and Mickey Beal. The pairings:

Joe Lombardo vs. Sam Scurto [116 pounds].
Frank Schultz vs. Mickey Beal [116 pounds].
Karl Mandell vs. John McGrath [126 pounds].
Willie Walcott vs. Dennis Jones [142 pounds].

Plays that made Football History

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Illinois will resume its series of games with the Army this fall, which calls to mind the game between these teams at Champaign in 1929. The cadets came west that November with a splendid eleven and with such stars as Cagle and Murrel, but the Illini won, 17 to 7. Without detracting from the Illinois performance or extending an alibi for the Army, the Illini won because they took advantage of Army misplays and other scoring opportunities, which, after all, is football.

Illinois took the lead in the first quarter. After intercepting an Army pass Yanuskus ran 48 yards around end to penetrate deep into the Army territory. Finally checked along the ground, Illinois decided to place kick with the ball on Army's 13 yard line. Mills made the kick and Illinois led, 3 to 0.

Overrun Punt,
Let Kawal Score.

Then in the second period came the first of two breaks by which Illinois scored touchdowns. Forward passes from Peters to Humbert had advanced the ball to Army's 8 yard line. Four more plays gained only 5 yards and Army took possession. Murrel stood in his own end zone to kick out of danger. He was hurried and the ball only carried as far as Army's 15 yard line.

Army's ends and one tackle, of course, had gone down field to cover the punt receiver. The other linemen had started with the kick and overran the ball. Ed Kawal, Illinois' center, had dropped back to block. The ball landed in front of him and bounded back toward Army's goal several yards. Kawal cut in front of several Army backs, grabbed the ball and in a flash was over the goal line for Illinois' touchdown.

Peters kicked the extra point. Ten points would have been more than sufficient to win the game, for the cadets could score only one touch down, but Illinois scored again in the third period, once more gaining the opportunity through Army neglect.

Lateral Pass Intercepted for Long Touchdown Run.

Forward passes by Cagle to O'Keefe and Carlmark had advanced the ball to Illinois' 17 yard line. A line play added 2 yards. Then Murrel took the ball and threw laterally to Cagle. But Wolgast, Illinois right end, who was covering Cagle, shot in between the cadet backs and took the ball just before it reached Cagle's hands. Wolgast started in stride for the goal with Cagle and Murrel in pursuit. Cagle gave up the chase, but Murrel trailed Wolgast the length of the field, finally missing a diving tackle at Army's 5 yard line.

Peters missed the try for point, but it was allowed (under the rules of that year) when Army was offside.

HARDY'S 75 WINS IN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION GOLF

Winners of the low net prizes among the members were Frank Arliskas, 70, class A; H. A. Wehmeier, 76, class B; and C. C. Charles, 73, class C. A. L. Loritz led the guests in net with 73.

Nels Hendrickson, 211; Robert M. Copeland, 217, and H. A. Fletchner, 228, were the winners for the best aggregate score in three tournaments.

Long and Short of It Enter C.Y.O. Boxing

The tallest and the shortest boxers in the third annual boxing tournament of the Catholic Youth organization filed their entry blanks yesterday at the C. Y. O. center, 31 E. Congress street. They are Kurt Bartz, who stands 6 feet, 8 inches in his stockings and weighs 225 pounds, and Joseph Morrison, who is 4 feet, 11 inches tall, and weighs 105 pounds.

"Bartz is a veritable giant," said one of the trainers as he scaled the young colossus with his glance. "Why, he can't walk through the loop without causing a commotion, and every time he rides an elevator or a street car he has to carry his hat in his hands.

Bartz is 22 years old and has never competed in a boxing tournament. He is quite versed in other branches of athletics, however, playing center on the Chesro Boosters football team and the pivot position on a neighborhood basketball five.

A younger brother of Kurt, Bill, is well on the way to even greater heights, having already reached an altitude of 6 feet 7 inches on his 17th birthday. He is attending Proviso High school.

Joseph Morrison, the short end of this affair, hails from the west side. Besides playing basketball in the C. Y. O. Basketball league, he held a wrestling berth on the Crane High school wrestling team for two years. Joe, who has traded gloves for three years, claims that short opponents are tougher to beat than tall ones. He once met another diminutive youngster, and Joe said that it took all he had to win a decision from the little fellow. Morrison is representing Sancta Maria Addolorata parish in the tournament.

Bartz lives in St. Bernardine's parish in Forest Park. His training quarters for the tournament are at the West Side K. of C. clubhouse, 4700 West Madison street.

These two title aspirants are only two of the 1,100 entrants who have filed their applications to compete in the third annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament, the finals of which will be held at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 1.

KIECKHEFER WINS FROM PETERS AT 3 CUSHIONS, 50-40

Augie Kieckhefer, former world's three cushion billiard champion, defeated Eddie Peters, 50 to 40, in 60 innings last night at the Kieckhefer Recreation. Kieckhefer will meet George Foster tonight in another of a series of practice matches he is playing with entrants in the three cushion tournament which starts next week.

SHAKESPEARE, HANLEY SHINE AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Dan Hanley, full back with Notre Dame's 1930 national champions during the latter part of the season, showed the first signs of returning to his old form today when he made several long gains in scrimmage. He dropped out of school in 1931 and returned last spring.

USE TACKLE AT FULL BACK.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Indiana coaches, fearing Walker will be unable to play at full back against Notre Dame Saturday, tried two men at the position today. Otto Kuss, 220 pound tackle, was given his first chance as a ball carrier, and Bob Jones, regular full back during the 1931-'32 campaigns but now a guard, brushed up on his old duties.

Bob Keck, sophomore full back, holds the inside track to start against the Irish. Adolph Sabik was tried in the rôle of offensive back and defensive lineman, alternating with Jones. Vernon Huffman continued to play at quarter back.

Red Stevenson, reserve guard, will be out for at least a month with a broken hand he received in a tumbling class today.

FAST COMPANY JUST MEANS RUN TO SWIFTSPORT

Victory Qualifies Him for $2,500 Stake.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A Kentucky colt—his name is Swiftsport—qualified for the $2,500 added Lakeside handicap, which is to be one of the features of the closing day of the Chicago major racing season at Washington Park Saturday, in impressive fashion yesterday.

He paraded to the post in a field of six—all of which are eligible to the stake—then made a show of his rivals leading all the way, and winding up the battle well in hand a length and a half in front of Fiji, owned by the Young brothers of Chicago.

A head back of the two leaders and running in good fashion was Cash Surrender. He got third money. The trailers were Jenson, Hickory Lad, and Boy Valet.

Appears to Like Any Distance.

Swiftsport is a royally bred son of Swift and Sure-Lady Sportsman. He won the Pergola purse like he might be a right fashionable 2 year old and capable of taking care of himself in any sort of company at any distance.

The Pergola was at seven furlongs, as far as 2 year olds have been asked to race this year. He was going as strong as any of his rivals when the battle ended. He races for A. B. Gallaher of Lexington, Ky., and was ridden by Jockey M. Lewis.

The ideal Indian summer weather had something to do with enticing about 9,500 fans to the track. The longshot players had everything in their favor during the running of the first four races.

Long Shots Romp Home.

Lamp Black at $25.28 won the first; Royal Gold at $72.26 captured the second, Golden Sun at $17.08 took the third, and Gallop Along at $73.66 won the fourth. It was one of the greatest days of form upsets during the Chicago season.

Swiftsport was stoutly backed. He paid $7.02 and Madwind, also made the favorite at post time, won the sixth race.

Excellency had many backers when he won the last race. Thus it was almost a standoff between the longshot and favorite players.

When the start came in the 2 year old race Jockey M. Lewis sent Swiftsport right to the front. Challenge after challenge was made as he rounded the lower bend and headed into the stretch. He never weakened. Few of those sons and daughters of Swift and True ever weaken.

Wins as He Pleases.

Swiftsport was loafing a bit toward the finish. Fiji, ridden by Charley Allen, made a brave challenge. It was to no avail, for Swiftsport put on a late burst of speed and went on to win about as he pleased.

The heaviest plunge of the Chicago season came on Madwind when he won the Airport purse, which was sixth on the program. He didn't do much running until the stretch drive started, then he drove past horse after horse until he was an easy winner over Edith A. and Dominant Miss. It was the cheapest company Madwind had associated with for some time. His class made him win.

GOLDEN SUN, a strong contender from the start and stoutly restrained rounding the turn, where he was forced wide, quickly disposed of SARAZEN II. and won with authority. In need of punishment, BEDIGHT, away fast, was impeded by SARAZEN II. on stretch turn and went well under strong riding when clear. Saladin. Went to post at 4:01½. At post ¼ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

SWIFTSPORT, much the best and sent to front under strong urging, was taken under restraint after a quarter, came away fast after reaching stretch, and was eased the last seventy yards. FIJI, forced to race wide throughout and restrained for five-eighths, closed boldly under strong riding. CASH SURRENDER had speed from start, but weakened in last three-sixteenths.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards out of chute. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

MADWIND, rated close to the pace, took command quickly and weakened badly in last sixteenth, but outstayed EDITH A. Latter, away slowly and far back for three-quarters, closed with a rush on outside. DOMINANT MISS stood a long drive gamely and, while failing to withstand EDITH A., was going well in late stages.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-half miles. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

EXCELLENCY, allowed to drop out of it and far back for mile, began moving up slowly thereafter and, notwithstanding a long drive, outcamed HAPPY FELLOW at the end. Latter, rated under steady restraint until reaching final three-eighths, slipped through on inside when taking the lead and held on stubbornly in the long drive. PING COATES weakened in final quarter, but was widely best of others.

Sidney Grant Makes Good Cup Workout

Sidney Grant, owned by Abraham Bartelstein of the west side, loomed up as a dangerous candidate for the two and a half miles Washington Park cup to be run on Saturday when he worked one and three-quarter miles in 3:04 2-5 yesterday. He worked between the third and fourth races yesterday afternoon and was going in easy fashion all the way.

Entries for the cup race close this afternoon with Racing Secretary William H. Shelley. Secretary Shelley expects to see a big field contest for the long distance championship of the Chicago season.

The daily double of Royal Gold and Golden Sun paid off at the good price of $415.18. Hunch players seemed to have been the only winners. That gold in their names caused them to hook up the two horses.

Several of the eligibles for the $2,500 added Lakeside handicap, 2 year old stake to be run Saturday at Washington Park over the route of three-quarters of a mile, were given useful gallops in preparation for the event yesterday morning. Over a slow track Penncote galloped three-quarters of a mile in 1:20 2-5 in handy fashion. This filly has not won often, but she invariably puts forth a good effort and has been unplaced very few times.

Counsellor Crane, which was made eligible for the stake by J. M. and W. J. Foley, turned in a clever move at the Homewood track when he breezed four furlongs in :49 4-5. He was a frequent winner at Latonia early in the summer.

Trainer Joe Patterson of the Audley Farm stable indulged Trey, winner of the Joliet handicap, and Wacoche in a three-eighths gallop in :38 over a good course at Lincoln Fields. They will be given a longer work tomorrow. Trey will be the main reliance of the Audley farm in the Lakeside.

Giggling, a 2 year old bay, daughter of Pompey-Giggles, another member of the Audley farm, was vanned over to Washington Park by Patterson and worked three-quarters of a mile in 1:17 2-5. She accomplished her task with little effort. This filly is in the Lakeside, but Patterson is fitting her for the $5,000 added Breeders' futurity to be run on the opening day of the Latonia meeting, Oct. 21.

Dingbin, winner of the Cincinnati trophy at Latonia last summer, and New Deal, which triumphed in a stake race at Washington Park on Decoration day, both eligibles for the Lakeside, are scheduled to race in the fourth event at the Homewood track today.

Cesarewitch Captured by U. S. Horse

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 11.—Seminole, owned by Joseph E. Widener, New York sportsman, a long shot in the betting, won the classic Cesarewitch, one of the outstanding handicap events of the English autumn racing season. Behind Seminole in the two and one-quarter mile race was P. Johnson's Loose Strife. Roi De Paris, owned by Joe Cooper, finished third.

Seminole was at 100 to 6 in the betting. Lord Derby's Guiscard, the favorite, at 15 to 2, finished eighth. A foreleg tendon gave way during the early part of the race, but Guiscard finished. Ximenes, the second choice in the betting, led throughout the race, but pulled up lame. He split a pastern after entering the stretch.

King George was kept indoors at Sandringham by his physician because of a strong wind which swept the course. His horse, Fox Earth, finished far back of the leaders.

TOMBEREAU AND MORDEN ARRIVE AT CICERO TRACK

Thoroughbreds are arriving daily at Sportsman's Park, the half-mile track which opens its fall meeting Monday. Indications are that stable room will be at a premium by opening day.

Chief among the arrivals yesterday was a carload of horses from the Fairmount Park track containing six head belonging to Larry Daly and three from the string of Ray Holloway. The latter's string includes Morden and Tombereau, favorites at Sportsman's Park in the past. Daly's best performer at the present is By Product, with more than a dozen victories.

More than 750 horses will be stabled at Sportsman's and nearby tracks when the meet opens Monday.

INSURANCE MEN SEE CRISIS OVER; PONDER LESSONS

Leaders Urge Sound Investment Policy.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Emerging from one of the most critical years in the history of American finance several hundred life insurance company executives convened yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel to take stock of the situation and discuss the probable future trend.

DANIEL BOONE.

The occasion was the annual meeting of the American Life convention, whose membership is made up principally of executives of the western and southern life insurance companies. The feeling of suspense, which overhung the meeting here last March of the convention, was absent. It was that meeting—an emergency gathering—which paved the way for the nation-wide moratorium on the loan and cash surrender privileges of policy holders.

See Insurance Meeting Test.

The consensus of yesterday's meeting, reflected in the addresses to the delegates, was that life insurance had come through the trying period with flying colors.

Speakers pointed out that the prohibitions on policy loans and cash surrenders have been virtually abandoned in all sections of the country. At no time, the delegates were reminded, was the fundamental covenant of the life insurance contract violated. Byron K. Elliott, general counsel of the association, cited that death claims and other maturities were faithfully met at the rate of almost $18,000,000 per week throughout the worst of the financial panic.

The occasion was not one of gloating, however. The insurance men were reminded by several of the speakers of the lessons which the last year's experience should bring home to them.

Urges Careful Investments.

"The obvious lesson to be learned from this experience is that an intelligent understanding of the basic soundness of an investment requires a delving below the mere surface market indications into the fundamentals which, in fact, determine soundness," said Gerard S. Nollen, president of the Bankers Life company, Des Moines.

Discussing the farm mortgage as a life insurance investment, Mr. Nollen said that when the fog of depression finally clears it will be definitely shown that conservative farm mortgage loans are a prime investment. He expressed the belief that the position of this type of investment has materially improved and that the prospect of future betterment is good.

Warns Against Alliances.

Daniel Boone, president of the Midland Life Insurance company, Kansas City, warned against "entangling alliances" for insurance companies.

"Recent events have developed the conviction that institutions of high trust must preserve independence of control from other institutions of different kind," he declared. "Apparent or undisclosed existence of bank influence on the directorate can be, when properly used, of great service to the company, but the shadow of undue influence and control must be constantly watched."

Pudd'nhead Wilson's advice "to put all your eggs in one basket and watch that basket" was rejected as a tenet for insurance company investment policy.

Diversified Investments Urged.

Diversification of investments is the insurance company's insurance against accidents to its resources, Robert W. Huntington, president of the Connecticut General Life Insurance company, told the delegates.

"In order to keep properly diversified, we have to take a broad view of the affairs of our country, and like 'Alice-through-the-looking-glass,' we may find we have to run as fast as we can to keep in the same place," he said. "A good rule to follow in all financial matters, and particularly in diversification, is, when other people run, you walk, and a properly diversified list of securities is to be attained and held only by unremitting attention and by taking advantage of opportunities as they appear."

Additional Tax Warrants Are Called for Payment

R. B. Upham, city controller, announced yesterday that Chicago 1930 education tax anticipation warrants, numbers 3004 to 3111, and 1930 school building warrants, numbers 3000 to 3041, have been called for payment, effective Oct. 1, 1933. Also called for payment, effective Oct. 15, were the following 1929 warrants: Corporate, numbers 1288 to 1296; education, 1623 to 1691, and school building, 4763 to 4871. A call was issued for the 1928 school building warrants, numbers 3861 to 3875.

More Freight Increases Jobs on Railroads

The improved railroad traffic recorded in recent weeks is being translated into higher pay rolls and more employment on some of the principal systems.

H. E. Newcomet, vice president of the Pennsylvania system in Chicago, stated yesterday that effective next Monday 25,000 Pennsylvania workers will be asked to take only two furlough days a month without pay. Since July these employés have been taking four payless furlough days a month and prior to that, since March 1, were taking six a month.

In New York Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, announced that 11,000 workers have been added to the company's pay rolls since June 1. Of these new workers 1,000 have been put back on the job since Sept. 22.

Decline in Loadings Broken.

The system handled 280,000 more cars of freight last summer than in the comparable 1932 period. This broke a downward trend which had prevailed with minor interruptions for the last four years. Travel to the Chicago Century of Progress was the important factor in the upturn in passenger revenue.

Loadings on the Pennsylvania last week were 91,531 cars, as compared with 93,788 in the preceding week and 90,691 in the corresponding week of 1932. Other of the more important eastern trunk lines also reported loadings below the preceding week's contrary to the trend shown by traffic on the western railroads.

This was attributed to the industrial curtailment and lower coal production resulting from the labor troubles in the east. The lines reporting gains are still in the majority.

N. Y. C. Freight Over Year Ago.

Baltimore and Ohio handled 27,665 cars, off 1,392 from the preceding week and up 1,523 from last year. Estimates yesterday placed earnings of the B. & O. for 1933 at $2,000,000 on the preferred stock. This is equivalent to $3.39 a share. Last year the road incurred a loss of $6,334,978.

DOLLAR HIGHER; BOUGHT ON U. S. REFUNDING PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Speculative buying, reputedly from European sources, today sent the American dollar higher in the foreign exchange markets. Measured in terms of the French gold franc the dollar had a gold value of 66.40 cents at the close, an advance of more than a quarter of a cent from yesterday's final quotation of 66.12.

The heavy foreign demand was based on anticipation of the government's announcement of its huge debt refunding program. Comparative stability for the dollar will be necessary while the refunding program is being carried out, it is believed in financial quarters. A fluctuating dollar would endanger the success of such a plan.

The dollar was strong in both the Paris and London markets before the opening of trading here and advanced materially from the previous day's last quotations.

The franc closed here at 5.90 cents against 5.92¼ yesterday. At one time it touched 5.86, the lowest quotation in several weeks, indicating a gold value for the dollar of 66.83 cents. The British pound finished at $4.66¼, a decline of 3 cents from yesterday. The Canadian dollar closed 6¼ points lower here at 97.75 cents.

COPPER OFFERED AT 8 CENTS AS DEMAND RECEDES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Copper was available in the domestic market today at 8 cents a pound from a custom smelter, a drop of ½ cent a pound below Tuesday's level. The decline of 1 cent a pound since last Saturday indicates to many that the custom smelters are trying to find a real buying level.

For the last few weeks the demand for copper has been declining and with increased quantities of scrap copper seeking an outlet prices had to be lowered, it is said in the trade, in order to stimulate buying. The producers, however, are holding firmly at 9 cents a pound delivered.

Western Union 8 Month Net Reported at $3,841,421

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Western Union Telegraph company today reported net income of $3,841,421 for the first eight months, compared with a deficit of $893,728 for the same period in 1932.

New York Reports 45,000 Put to Work in September

Forty-five thousand workers returned to work during September in New York state and weekly pay rolls advanced 8 per cent, according to the state industrial commissioner.

Chain Store Sales Point Upward for September

Dollar volume of the first seventeen chain and mail order companies to report for September was $94,902,539 against $82,673,615 in September, 1932, an increase of 14.8 per cent.

STOCKS DROWSE DESPITE WHIRL IN SPECIALTIES

Main Groups Move in Narrow Range.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—What little interest there was in today's dealings on the New York Stock exchange was devoted to a few current favorites in the specialty group, such as Johns Manville and Allied Chemical, to New York traction issues and to a handfull of preferred stocks, some of which scored rather substantial gains. Repeal stocks suffered from profit taking brought on by the "good news" being out on the Florida election. The metals were weak and the utilities mixed. Rails moved in a narrow groove.

Pool operations were in evidence in a number of low priced descriptions. Trading was at a snail's pace most of the day and the session as a whole was about the dullest the exchange has experienced in two months or more. The turnover barely topped the million share mark.

Professionals Control Market.

There was no special news from any source to affect the list to any appreciable extent, and, as in the case of the last several days' operations, represented merely the give and take of professionals to a very large degree. The floor traders who furnished the bulk of the activity were inclined to try for a turn on the short side in the early dealings, and this caused the list to sag from a fraction to around two points.

Not being able to attract a following and perhaps mindful of tomorrow's holiday interim, the short sellers set about coverin their commitments around midday and this made for firmer prices.

A further rally in the dollar was credited with some influence on the bear side of the market. Gold metal stocks had a little sinking spell, Homestake dropping 32 points to 337, which compares with its all time high last week of 373. Alaska Juneau, Dome, and most of the metals group went down with their aristocratic leader.

Utilities Show Firmness.

Utilities were still basking more or less in the favor of the Birmingham, Ala., municipal ownership election, and the group's showing, while no great shakes, was better than its average of the last several weeks. Brooklyn Union, United Corporation, Public Service of New Jersey, and American Water Works managed to record slight gains on the day, and most of the others succeeded in holding their own.

Traders exhibited more interest in some of the rails, including New York Central and Delaware & Hudson in the early dealings, although the group as a whole moved in a narrow groove.

Buying of Radio was in evidence during the afternoon.

The oils were neglected in spite of developments, which were interpreted favorably, such as evidences of better earnings and curtailment of supply.

EXPECT CHICAGO TO FORM STOCK EXCHANGE BANK

Reports from New York on the plan of the stock exchange to establish a bank of its own are being watched with interest in Chicago. The plan contemplates the taking over by the new agency of the functions of the present clearing house and the centralization of the borowings of the stock exchange firms. The plan is patterned after the system now in operation in Hamburg and Berlin, Germany.

It is probable that Chicago in time will follow the example of New York, it was said in financial quarters yesterday. One broker said establishment of such a system here is inevitable. The move is not regarded a competitive challenge to the commercial banks.

The principal benefit to be derived is the elimination of unnecessary transfers of securities. Unless the purchaser demanded immediate delivery the only transfer involved in such a system would be in the bank where the securities would be shifted from one account to another. Safety and economy favor such a system, it is said.

Bleakley of Springfield, Ill., had been appointed supervising federal deposit insurance corporation examiners in charge of field examiners in their federal reserve district. In describing their duties it was said the field examiners would report to Shuman and Bleakley, who would in turn report to officials here.

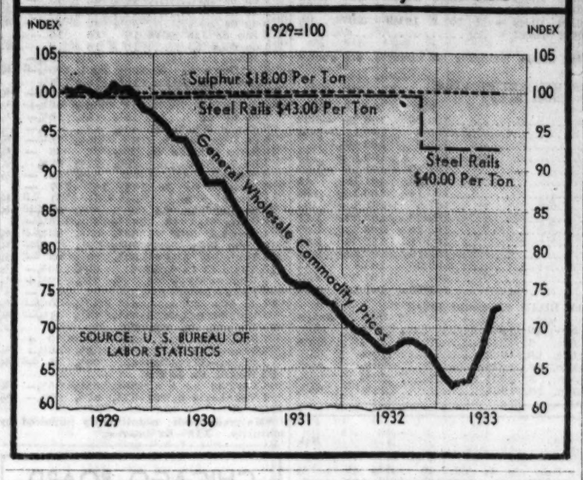
Fluctuation in Prices of Sulphur and Steel Rails Compared With General Wholesale Commodity Prices



Brokers Plan to Organize in Own Defense

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Steps are being taken to form a national federation of brokers for the purpose of presenting a united front against the movement to regulate the various security and commodity exchanges of the country by legislative action.

Brokers who are interested in the plans for the new association feel that the time has come for aggressive action if their business is to be preserved. Probably never before has there been so widespread and insistent an agitation for control of the markets. Much of the clamor, it is contended in Wall street, is based upon misinformation and prejudice.

The commission house brokers, employing many thousands of workers and engaged in what they consider a useful and even essential business, are said to feel that, as a matter of self-preservation, they must resist the regulatory movement in its more radical aspects.

Would End Misconceptions.

It is the belief of brokers who are the moving spirits in the plan to organize a national association that "by a campaign of education the many popular misconceptions with respect to the brokerage business and the markets may be removed." They feel that "harsh and unjust criticisms" which have been raised against them, largely as a result of the market collapse of 1929, have created a hostile body of public opinion.

The plan, as it has been tentatively worked out, is to enlist in one country-wide organization all affiliated firms of the recognized security and commodity exchanges.

Reported Well Supported.

The organization would be patterned after the association of stock exchange firms, which embraces the member firms of the New York Stock exchange. The plan is receiving active support among the brokers with whom it has been discussed.

The actual organization work will be started in a few days, it is understood. Some of the most prominent and influential brokers in the country will lead in the move.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Secretary Woodin today invited tenders for $75,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills, dated Oct. 18, to be sold at discount to the highest bidders. The purpose of the issue is to retire an equivalent amount of similar bills falling due.

CONTINENTAL CAN RAISES DIVIDEND TO RATE OF 1929

Mine's Extra Is Triple Regular Payment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Continental Can company declared a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on the common stock, compared with 50 cents a share. The payment will bring a total so far this year to $2.12½ a share, compared with $2.25 paid in 1932. The change to 62½ cents a share quarterly marks reversion to the rate in effect from February, 1929, to May, 1932.

O. C. HUFFMAN.

A statement by O. C. Huffman, president, said:

"Since the beginning of April both our volume and profits have shown a steady uptrend compared with last year, for the nine months to Sept. 30, 1933. Our sales in dollars were more than 10 per cent greater than those in the same period last year.

To Show Better Earnings.

"The earnings report to be issued shortly covering the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1933, will show further improvement over the share earnings of $3.13 reported for the twelve months ended June 30, 1933.

"Encouraging reports are now coming in of improved conditions from many of our customers, particularly canners, as a result of better prices for their products. Today's action by the directors, I believe, not only reflects the improvement in our business, but also indicates greater confidence with respect to business generally."

Mr. Huffman stated that dollar sales for September were 19 per cent ahead of September, 1932.

Pullman Votes 75 Cents.

Directors of Pullman, Inc., yesterday declared the usual quarterly dividend of 75 cents per share, payable Nov. 15 to stock of record Oct. 24.

New York and Honduras Rosario Mining company declared an extra dividend of 75 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock. Three months ago an extra of 37½ cents a share was paid and six months ago the extra was 12½ cents.

POWER OUTPUT SHRINKS; CLOSER TO A YEAR AGO

Electricity Fails to Rise Seasonally.

In both the nation and the Chicago district the margin of electricity output for the week ended Oct. 7 over output in the li[illegible] week of 1932 was a little less th[illegible] shown in the preceding week.

The total for the nation was 1,646,136,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,506,219,000 in the corresponding week last year, representing an increase of 9.3 per cent, which compares with 10.2 per cent in the preceding week, and is the smallest since the week of June 10, according to the Edison Electric Institute.

In the week ended Sept. 30 the total was 1,652,811,000 kilowatt hours. The slight decrease last week was contrary to the trend in four out of five preceding years.

Chicago Gain Narrows.

For the Chicago district the electric power output for the week ended Oct. 7 was 99,435,000 kilowatt hours, against 90,347,000 in the like week last year, an increase of 10.1 per cent, compared with 12.5 per cent in the week before. Production for the week ended Sept. 30 was 101,429,000 kilowatt hours.

"The output so far this fall, both locally and nationally, is not showing the amount of seasonal rise that is usual in normal times," comments the announcement of the Commonwealth Edison company. "The weather comparison this week was not favorable to a good percentage of increase."

Wk. ended.	1933.	1932	Per cent increase.
Oct. 7	99,435,000	90,347,000	10.1
Sept. 30	101,429,000	90,121,000	12.5
Sept. 23	97,109,000	87,599,000	10.9

Output Varies in Districts.

In only two of the major territorial divisions did the percentage increase in output for the yearly comparison exceed the increase of the week before. Output in New England was up 8.4 per cent, against 8 per cent; on the Pacific coast output advanced 2.7 per cent, against 1.9 per cent.

As for the others, power production in the middle Atlantic states increased 4.5 per cent, against 5.7; central industrial region, 10.5, against 12.7; west central region, 1.3, against 3; southern states, 14.8, against 15.8; Rocky mountain area, 22.8, against 29.4.

Foreign Bond Gold Clause Offers Puzzle

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Investment standing of bonds sold across national frontiers has become greatly confused as a result of the various interpretations placed upon the "gold clause."

Some nations have chosen to honor the gold clause because they are still on the gold standard and are still hoping against hope that they may remain on it and persuade their paper standard neighbors to return to the gold basis.

Other nations, although nominally still on the gold standard, have used their neighbors' abandonment of gold as an excuse to pay interest and principal in the creditor country's depreciated paper and thereby chisel a few nickels.

* *

France, for example, although reneging on its contract to pay its war debt installments to the United States, is still paying private American investors on a gold parity basis. Consequently, French government bonds held in this country have soared to a present market value in excess of $150 per $100 principal amount of bonds in terms of depreciated American paper dollars. As the dollar has dropped the French bonds have risen, because they are paying interest on a gold basis, yielding the investor about $10 in annual interest at the present rate of exchange instead of the $7 or $7.50 called for in the contract.

This, it should be noted, doesn't cost the French government anything extra because the larger dollar payment at current exchange rate does not increase the amount paid in terms of francs.

French municipal issues, including Marseilles 6s, Lyons 6s, and Bordeaux 6s, all due in 1934, likewise have risen in American quotations in direct proportion to the decline of the dollar. When the $439,000 principal amount of Nord Railways company of France external 6½s were called at par on Oct. 1, the payment was made in the gold franc equivalent, which gave the American holders $1,550 per $1,000 principal amount.

* *

If this situation continues until next year when several important French municipal issues mature American investors will reap a good profit. A lot of things may happen in the meantime, however, and the position of the American holders of French bonds is by no means as secure as the present prices of these bonds would indicate.

Abandonment of the gold standard by France would probably cause French external bonds to plunge toward par. Such abandonment is not improbable in view of the manner in

STEEL MAKERS HOPE FOR U. S. AID ON ORDERS

New Buying for Last Quarter Light.

While the national production of ingots edged up two points last week to 44 per cent of capacity in view of the urgency for shipments against third quarter contracts, the industry, whose orders for finished steel products were unusually light in the first week of the new quarter, looked to the national capital for decisions which may make possible more lasting improvement, reports the Iron Age.

"With the iron and steel markets almost entirely devoid of significant developments, the interest of the industry is centered upon Washington," the review observes. "Only the federal government can solve most of the problems which seem to impede recovery, and the future trend of the steel industry must remain highly uncertain until they are worked out."

Public and Rail Work Required.

If the industry's need for business may be judged from the reduction of the United States Steel corporation's backlog during September to only 1,775,748 tons, it is evident, says the review, that the "support of public works construction and railroad purchases must be rushed if drastic curtailment in production is to be averted."

The Iron Age declares that "the public works administration is making efforts to hasten the allocation of funds for construction projects, but the results are being felt by the steel industry only in the form of inquiry. Structural plate and shape jobs reported for the first time this week will require 49,000 tons of steel, although 25,000 tons of this total is for dams on the Mississippi river, which are by no means ready for bids."

Rail Orders Would Lift Production.

The placing of $44,000 tons of rails and 245,000 tons of accessories to be financed by the public works administration is contingent upon a reduction of at least $5 a gross ton in the price of rails, recalls the review, adding that "at prices below cost of production, sufficient tonnage is involved to raise steel production five to ten points over the remainder of the year.

"Plans for federal financing of railroad car and locomotive purchases are said to be under consideration. In the meantime, the Great Northern has inquired for 12 large passenger

Were You Advised . . .

TO SELL NATIONAL DISTILLERS at 110?

TO RE-PURCHASE NATIONAL DISTILLERS at 85-90?

Members of McNeel's Financial Service who have followed our advice have made substantial profits on National Distillers because McNeel's advised them to buy the stock at the right time and to sell it at the right time.

On July 24 we recommended the purchase of National Distillers below 75. It was available as low as 71¼.

On September 18 we advised the sale of the stock AROUND 110 with the idea of replacing it at lower levels. It sold at 110⅝ and members who followed this advice made profits of approximately 35 POINTS IN LESS THAN TWO MONTHS.

ON OCTOBER 2 WE RECOMMENDED THAT THE STOCK BE REPLACED BETWEEN 85 AND 90. ON THAT DAY IT WAS AVAILABLE BETWEEN 84 AND 89. ON OCTOBER 9 IT SOLD AT 104¼, A MAXIMUM ADVANCE OF OVER TWENTY POINTS IN ONE WEEK.

That is the type of service McNeel's is rendering to its members throughout the country. No half way qualified statements but specific advice to buy and sell securities at specific prices. McNeel's does not attempt to catch the day-to-day movements in the stock market, but we do aim to point out the important swings. That we have been doing very successfully and as a result, members of McNeel's Financial Service are making enviable profits.

In this week's bulletin we have prepared a message outlining the probable course of the stock market which we regard as the most important message issued to our members since April. It will be sent to you free—without obligation, by signing and mailing the coupon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—A vigorous rally during the final thirty minutes of trading today sent domestic corporation bonds higher, in some cases erasing early losses. The inspiration was the news from Washington that the refunding of about one-third of the outstanding fourth liberty 4¼s would be tackled, although the announcement of the details of the plan was not made known until after the stock exchange closed.

A fair section of the domestic rail list gained 1 to 4 points, with the utilities and industrials showing smaller advances. United States government bonds closed irregular, up 7-32ds to down 4-32ds point on the day, with the major advance going to the fourth liberty 4¼s.

All Rails Show Gains.

The gains in the domestic rails were shared by issues of all degrees of credit rating. Many issues edged close to their best prices for the year to date. In the utilities, New York Rapid Transit obligations closed unchanged to fractionally higher on the day.

The weakest section of the foreign list consisted of the "gold payment" issues, reflecting to some extent, at least, the strength in the dollar throughout the day. French government bonds dropped 1⅞ to 2 points and French municipal loans 2 to 3½ points. Dutch East Indies loans received setbacks of 1⅜ to 5⅞ points, and Swiss government 5½s dropped 2 points.

Not Much Change Elsewhere.

The balance of the foreign group showed generally inconsequential net changes. Bonds of the Japanese list finished lower in dull trading.

The improvement in domestic bonds on the curb exchange was about on a par with the trend of the big board. Advances and declines in the foreign group were about evenly distributed.

NEW ISSUE.

The First National bank, Halsey, Stuart & Co., Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Northern Trust Company of Chicago, Salomon Bros. & Hutzler, George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc., and R. W. Prosspprich & Co. are offering $2,500,000 State of West Virginia 4 and 4½ per cent bonds, due 1934-'53.

Yellow Truck and Coach.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me any information in regard to Yellow Truck and Coach? Thanks.—S. D. R.

Answer: Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company is controlled by General Motors corporation. Operations are more independent of the parent company than is usually the case with subsidiaries. It manufactures all types of commercial vehicles, including buses, trucks of all types, etc. It produces all General Motors trucks except Chevrolet.

General easing off of industry and commerce resulted in contraction of demand for transportation equipment. This has been reflected in sharp decreases in truck sales. Sales for the first half of 1933 were 70 per cent of those reported in the corresponding 1932 period and net loss, reflecting operating economies, was $1,188,000, against loss of $1,293,000 for the first six months of 1932.

Sales of $16,438,000 in 1932 were 45 per cent under 1931 sales of $26,948,000 and compared with $42,725,000 for 1930 and $49,908,000 for 1929. Loss in 1932 was $3,787,000, against loss of $2,762,000 for 1931. Net income in 1930 was $1,115,000, or 3 cents per B share, against $1,178,000, or 6 cents per B share, for 1929. Substantial losses were experienced in 1928 and 1927.

At the close of 1932 cash alone of $3,201,000 compared with total current liabilities of $1,461,000. Profit and loss deficit was $4,445,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 150,000 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred, 1,300,000 shares of $10 B stock and 800,000 shares of $10 par common. The common is owned by General Motors. The class B and common now are the same except in name.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Jan. 1, 1928. The preferred is speculative and the class B more so.

Texas Gas Utilities.

Investors' Guide: What can you tell me about Texas Gas Utilities first 6s, due 1945.—B. L. V.

Answer: Texas Gas Utilities company, an operating unit, is a subsidiary of Appalachian Gas corporation. It produces, transports and distributes natural gas in southwest Texas.

The company has not been able to get out of the red during its short period of existence. It covered only .45 per cent of interest charges, before depreciation, in 1932. In 1931 it earned only 34 per cent of charges before depreciation.

On Dec. 31, 1932, cash was $2,861, against $75,725 the year before. Current assets of $111,000 compared with current liabilities of $101,000. Funded debt was $3,961,000.

FAIR DEAL, NOT U. S. LOANS, HELD RAILROADS' NEED

S. O. Dunn Urges Return of Earning Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 11.—Declaring that "nothing is more essential to the nation's economic recovery than a large increase in the employing and purchasing power of the railways," Samuel O. Dunn, editor of Railway Age, said in his speech before the New England Railroad club tonight that the government could better help the railroads by restoring their earning capacity and credit than by making loans for expenditures.

"Most railways are not seeking loans for this purpose," he said, "and if they are to accept them to help general business, they must be made upon terms as to repayment and rates of interest which the railways can reasonably afford to accept. The railways have been too long and too often used by the government as a Santa Claus to aid other industries."

Cites Subsidized Competitors.

Mr. Dunn stated that "the earning, employing, and purchasing capacity of the railways has been reduced, not only by the depression, but also, and in very large measure, by losses of traffic to carriers by highway, waterway, and air that have been able to take the traffic because they are not regulated as the railways are, because they are subsidized by the federal and state governments, and because they pay their employes much lower wages for working much longer hours than the railways do.

"These gross inequalities can easily be corrected if the public wants them corrected."

"The states should withdraw subsidies from carriers by highway," said Mr. Dunn, "and at the same time reduce the tax burden of their own people by requiring these carriers to pay rentals for the use of public highways proportionate to the highway costs that they cause.

Urges Equal Regulation.

"They should be subjected by both the federal and state governments to the same kinds of regulation of their service and rates as are the railways.

"The long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce act should be so amended and administered as to enable the railways to compete for traffic with other carriers, especially the coast-wise steamship lines. The aviation industry has developed to a point where the government mail and other subsidies granted to it, and which enable it to take passengers, as well as mail, from the railways, should be withdrawn."

STOCK EXCHANGE DROPS FORMER ENVOY TO POLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Following the suspension of the firm of Stetson & Blackman of Philadelphia on Sept. 13, the New York stock exchange today announced that John B. Stetson Jr., floor member of the firm and former United States minister to Poland, has been expelled from the exchange.

The statement of the exchange said, in part:

"The substance of the first charge and specification was that John B. Stetson Jr. made a misstatement upon a material point in answer to a questionnaire.

"The substance of the second charge and specification was that John B. Stetson Jr. refused to furnish information to the committee on business conduct.

"Said John B. Stetson Jr., having been found guilty by the governing committee of said charges and specifications, was expelled."

When the firm of Stetson & Blackman was suspended on Sept. 13 it was stated by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, that the firm was "in such financial condition that it cannot be permitted to continue in business with safety to its creditors."

COTTON RANGE SMALL; PRICES EASE SLIGHTLY

Lower Liverpool cables brought moderate selling of cotton futures in American markets, and with grains lower and stocks unsettled, there was little disposition on the part of traders to take the buying side except in evening up for the holiday today.

The day's range was narrow, around 10 points, while the close was from 1 point higher to 3 points lower. New York was 1 point lower to 2 points higher and unchanged for spot at 9.55 cents. New Orleans was 2 to 4 points net lower on futures and 5 points off on spots at 9.20 cents. Galveston dropped 5 points to 9.60 cents, while Houston was unchanged at 9.15 cents.
